Unions Feel Labor Law Impact in Two Actions

NLRB Counsel Moves Against Printers' Group, Carpenter Local

Union 'Bill of Rights'

TAFT SAYS new act is "Bill of Rights" for union members. Page 2.

ITU Policy Attacked

By Dillard Stokes
Post Reporter

Labor unions felt two powerful clauses of the Taft-Hartley Act for the first time yesterday.

1. The printers' union was charged with an unfair labor practice—refusal to bargain with Baltimore employers.

2. The Federal Court in Chattanooga was asked to enjoin an AFL carpenters local from a strike and boycott.

Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, started both actions through regional directors of the NLRB.

The NLRB was set up to settle labor disputes by hearings, plant elections and the like. Until this year any union could take its complaints to the board. Then the Taft-Hartley Act provided that no union should have NLRB standing unless it filed financial statements, had its officers swear they were not Communists and met other conditions. The act also clamped new conditions on closed shops, the checkoff of union dues and other labor practices.

Denham Attacks Policy

The International Typographical Union met these new requirements with a policy of bypassing the board, and gave up bargaining for contracts. Instead, the ITU decided to post the conditions on which the printers would work, and then look to employers to live up to them. NLRB Counsel Denham yesterday attacked this policy as an unfair labor practice.

Denham acted on a complaint of the Graphic Arts League, an association of Baltimore employers of printers.

The employers' charge is to be heard before an NLRB examiner in Baltimore on October 6. If the examiner rules against the printers, an NLRB order—which can be enforced in court will be due to issue against both the ITU and Baltimore Typographical Union No. 12.

The complaint issued by Denham said the Graphic Arts League was an association of 23 Baltimore print shops, formed to bargain with the printers and other unions on pay, hours and other conditions of employment, and that the printers' union acted for all their workmen except clerks, foremen and the like.

Since August 28, the complaint said, the league has again and again offered to bargain with the union, and the union has refused.

Russia Drafts 500,000 More for Labor Training

Moscow, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The government today announced the drafting of 500,000 teen-age boys and girls for training schools to prepare them for Russia's labor reserves.

It was the third youth draft this year and brought the total called to 1,200,000 boys and girls. In March, 300,000 were called and another 400,000 in July and August.

Boys 18 and 19 will be sent to coal and iron mines and to metal and oil industries; 18-year-old boys also will train for the railway industry and boys from 17 to 18 for building trades.

Girls and boys between 16 and 18 will be sent to other industrial schools.

Campaign Plans Hit by Food Crisis

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

The world food crisis threw a shadow across the 1948 presidential campaign yesterday.

It looked as if President Truman might decide that Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson can't be spared now to run the '48 campaign for the Democratic Party.

Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan is prepared to give up the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee because of the state of his health, although remaining in the Cabinet.

Full-Time Job

Mr. Truman has always wanted Secretary Anderson to take over the chairmanship if Hannegan had to give up the post. This would mean that Anderson would have to quit the Cabinet—since Agriculture is not the same as the Postoffice Department—and devote his full time working for a four-year term for Mr. Truman in '48.

But it would also mean that Anderson would have to abandon his big job of the moment, which is helping Mr. Truman work out a program of sacrifices at home so

Crime Rate Attributed to Lack of Police

Young Says Another Factor Is Number Of 'Drifters' in City

Lack of police manpower was blamed yesterday by Commissioner John Russell Young for Washington's high crime record.

Young and Commissioner Guy Mason both agreed to pass on to the Budget Bureau and Congress the request for 205 additional policemen submitted by Major Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police.

The FBI in its report for the six-month period ended July 1 showed that crime in Washington was considerably heavier than the toll in comparable major cities.

Young, in discussing the report, also blamed these factors for the crime increase here:

1. "Washington, being the Nation's Capital," he said, "is a haven for a lot of 'drifters' and floaters'." They add to the crime problem here, he declared.

2. Crime has been increasing all over the country, particularly serious crime, he asserted. [The FBI report showed that crime increased in rural areas but dropped slightly in urban areas.]

The FBI report on the first six months of 1947 was released after the FBI made a thorough investigation of crime-reporting techniques in the District and a special count of cases on Washington precinct books.

The investigation of the Metropolitan Police Department grew out of an expose by The Washington Post which revealed that police were concealing reports of numerous crimes.

On this point, Young asked: "Isn't it possible that our record could be worse here because other cities were allowed to turn in their own figures on standard FBI forms."

Young said Barrett had not filled approximately 100 vacancies on the police force because of the lack of suitable candidates on the current Civil Service list.

"Barrett will give new tests in October," he said. "I'm sure he'll be able to fill all the vacancies from the new list."

Young pointed out that the District was "way below" the National Police Association's personnel standard. "Barrett thinks we should increase the force to 2000 men and so do I," he declared.

Truman To Ask Food Sacrifices

Emergency Move By President May Go Further, White House Hints

By John Ball
Post Reporter

President Truman within a few days will call upon the American people for extraordinary sacrifices to meet the problem of feeding a hungry world, it was indicated yesterday.

A drastic program of voluntary rationing with the possibility of even stricter methods, so food may be conserved in this country to prevent starvation abroad, is expected to come from the White House late this week.

It was learned yesterday that the President considers the problem of food shortages overseas and high prices at home as of emergency nature requiring united action by all elements to overcome.

Two years ago the President met a similar, although not as serious, world food crisis by mobilizing various business and emergency groups to combat the threat of widespread famine. Comparable plans are said to be underway at the White House this week.

Speculation Curb Sought

Meanwhile, in New York, Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.), chairman of the Eastern Subcommittee of the Joint Congressional Committee investigating high prices, said the committee would ask President Truman today to take action to curb speculation on commodity exchanges.

Representative Robert F. Rich (R., Pa.), a member of the committee, said if commodity exchanges would not curb speculation, "the Government ought to." Testimony at a hearing stressed charges that speculation in the exchanges was in large part responsible for recent increased prices of foodstuffs.

Food prices on the Nation's commodity exchanges marked time yesterday awaiting announcement from the White House on the Government's plan on exports and domestic prices.

Wheat Up, Corn Holds

Wheat moved up from two to four cents a bushel, but corn closed about the same below Monday's last figures. Livestock and butter and eggs showed virtually no change.

Partly responsible for the quiet market was news that the frost damage overnight was not serious. Light frost was reported in northern portions of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio and in New York and Michigan. No frost was reported from Iowa. Warmer weather was moving into the Corn Belt last night, with prospects of remaining for several days.

A break in sugar prices of one tenth of a cent a pound resulted when the International Emergency Food Council removed export restrictions on sugar. The action was made possible, IEFC said, because many nations had reduced Cuban sugar purchases due to lack of dollar exchange.

Truman Decision "Soon"

Among those reducing sugar purchases from Cuba are France, Netherlands and the Philippines. Sweden and Ireland canceled all allocations.

President Truman hopes to reach a decision "some time soon as to the best manner of approach" to high living costs, he wrote Representative Donald L. O'Toole (D., N. Y.).

The President's letter was in answer to an appeal from the Brooklyn legislator to give "deep consideration" to calling a special session to deal with the high cost of living.

Other lawmakers joined in the chorus for a special session of Congress. Among them were Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.) and Representative Thomas J. Lane (D., Mass.). Morse declared both Republicans and Democrats should

Virginia Fishermen Accused

Gunfire Enlivens Oyster War, Md. Seeks More Patrol Boats

La Plata, Md., Sept. 23 (Spl).—Reports of another shooting flare-up in the Potomac River "oyster war" brought a promise from a Maryland State senator last night that he would take immediate steps to bolster the patrol fleet on the Potomac and Wicomico Rivers.

Senator James B. Moore told a meeting of Maryland oystermen he would try to get two more for the Potomac beds and another for the Wicomico River.

Although reports say that dredging boats were fired on in the Potomac Friday night, no arrests were known to have been made.

Delegate Vernon Cooksey criticized Virginia oystermen who, he said, began operations two days before the season officially opened September 1.

Leading oystermen of the Rock Point-Cobb Island area pointed out that there is only one boat to patrol the 31 miles of the Potomac and Wicomico Rivers. They termed the river patrol inadequate in areas where illegal dredging has been reported.

The oystermen said they had definite evidence that Virginia oystermen were dredging the river and depleting the Maryland beds.

Cooksey told the gathering that a petition requesting Governor William P. Lane of Maryland to supply an adequate fleet of patrol boats for the violated areas would fail to reach the Governor in time to save the local beds. The petition was drawn up by more than 150 residents of the Rock Point-Cobb Island area, including both businessmen and oystermen.

The last shooting incident occured in January when the Pocomoke, a cruiser armed with a 30-caliber machine gun and operated by the Department of Tidewater Fisheries of Maryland, fired on night raider along the Free State's shoreline.

United Nations Override Russia, Vote Greek and Korean Debates; U. S. Denounces Petkov's Hanging Execution Violated 'Rights of Man,' Bulgaria's Red Rulers Are Told

By The Associated Press

The United States accused Bulgaria of violating "elementary principles of justice and the rights of man" in the hanging yesterday of Nikola Petkov, foe of the Communist-controlled government.

The 54-year-old head of the Agrarian Party was executed at Sofia on charges that he plotted against Prime Minister Georgi Dimitrov's government.

Petkov died on the gallows in Sofia's central prison 15 minutes after midnight yesterday, an official Bulgarian announcement said.

The State Department called his trial and conviction a "travesty on justice," and only one of "a series of measures undertaken by the Communist-dominated Fatherland Front government to remove from the Bulgarian scene all save a purely nominal opposition and to consolidate, despite its professions to the contrary, a totalitarian form of government."

Underlines Differences

This denunciation underlined again basic differences between the United States and Russia and her satellites over Communist tactics to seize central European governments.

There were no immediate signs whether the United States would join Britain in a formal diplomatic protest of Petkov's hanging or in some form of retaliatory measures.

In London, Foreign Office sources said Britain regarded the execution as a crime against civilization. Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin consulted his advisers as to possible action based upon the execution having violated the Bulgarian peace treaty. The Foreign Office was expected to consult the United States on parallel protests to the Bulgarian government, the United Press said.)

In appeals both to Russia and Bulgaria, this country and Britain tried to save Petkov. They took the position that the campaign to eliminate opposition to the Bulgarian regime broke the Yalta agreement with Russia which provided that postwar governments of former Axis partners must be freely chosen and represent all democratic elements.

Every Appeal Rejected

But every appeal was rejected. Russia, in effect, told the United States and Britain to mind their own business and not interefere with Bulgaria's internal affairs.

Diplomatic officials here told reporters United States and Britain could make their anger apparent by continuing to blackball Bulgarian membership in the United Nations, turning on the diplomatic heat at various spots, and appealing under terms of the Bulgarian peace treaty to an international commission against violation of human rights.

Yesterday's State Department blast said the presiding judge in the Petkov trial took part in the prosecution, the militia seized

Only His Satellites Back Vishinsky; Italy Treaty Also To Be Discussed

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Flushing Meadows, N. Y., Sept. 23.—In spite of renewed objections from Andrei Vishinsky of Russia, the United Nations Assembly voted overwhelmingly today to discuss the Greek and Korean issues in its coming debates.

Vishinsky's persistence did him no good whatever. He was able to muster no more than the usual six votes of the Soviet bloc in his efforts to prevent the Assembly from debating the Soviet-American stalemate in Korea and the guerilla warfare on the northern Greek border.

The vote on debating the Greek issue was 38 for, 6 against and 9 abstentions. The vote on discussing Korea was even more one-sided, with 41 nations for, 6 against and 7 abstentions—the abstainers being chiefly the Arab states, which are angling for Soviet support in their coming Assembly struggle over Palestine.

Italian Treaty Issue

But on the third issue put to a vote today the Assembly showed less enthusiasm. This was the Latin-America request to discuss revision of the Italian Peace Treaty. The vote was 22 for discussing it, 8 against (including Premier Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium) and no fewer than 19 abstentions, including Britain and France.

This time Vishinsky and his Soviet satellites had an unexpected and effective ally in Abelouki Wold, Ethiopia's vice minister of foreign affairs who made a dramatic appearance on the rostrum as a sort of "forgotten man" of this Assembly.

The Ethiopian recalled that his country had been the first to suffer from Fascist aggression, and his speech reminded many members of the day Emperor Haile Selasie vainly pleaded his cause before the League of Nations.

"It is easy," he said, "for those countries which are not victims of Fascist aggression, which did not see their women violated, their homes burned, their livestock killed, their children taken away from their families, and their intellectuals systematically liquidated, to speak of the so-called injustice toward Italy.

Monument to Victims

"Next to the palace of his imperial majesty, my sovereign, we have a monument which was erected in the memory of the children, women and patriots who, on February 5, 1937, were massacred by machine guns and burned alive by Marshal Graziani.

"Does this proposal envisage the suppression of reparations, so that the victims of Italian aggression would alone be called upon to bear in silence the losses and sufferings which have been inflicted upon them by Fascist armies? The present proposal will serve unavoidably as a precedent to the German

France Faces Bankruptcy, Snyder Told

Treasury Secretary Flying Here With Plea for Quick Loan

By William J. Humphreys

Paris, Sept. 23.—John Snyder, United States Secretary of the Treasury, is to fly back to Washington tomorrow with official information that France will go bankrupt unless the American Government is prepared to make a substantial loan within the next several weeks.

Reliable sources reported tonight that Snyder had been told of the desperate plight of French finance by President Vincent Auriol, Premier Paul Ramadier and Robert Schumann, Minister of Finance.

If the United States does not give France credits to tide her over the winter, Snyder was said to have been informed, national collapse would be inevitable and the project for continental recovery under the Marshall Plan would be placed in jeopardy.

Since Marshall Plan aid is not expected before next spring, it is

Yugoslav Reply Awaited On Release of 3 U. S. Soldiers

Trieste, Sept. 23 (AP).—United States Army Headquarters in Trieste today awaited a reply from the Yugoslavs on the demand for return of an American officer and two enlisted men who the United States Army said were captured by the Yugoslavs yesterday. One of the enlisted men is Pfc. Earl Hendrick, Jr., of Arlington, Va.

Pfc. Edison T. Lenhart, 20, Southbury, Conn., who said he witnessed the capture of the three while he watched from behind a rock, said the Americans had approached the Yugoslavs for a "friendly chat," and were subsequently taken away at gunpoint.

The three were First Lieut. William Van Atten, East Orange, N. J.; Pfc. Glen A. Meyer, Edgeley, N. J., and Hendrick.

Friendly Heretofore

Lenhart said Van Atten had been friendly on previous occasions with the Yugoslav officer and had decided to approach the border for a friendly chat. On previous occasions, he said, they had exchanged cigarettes and photographs.

Lenhart said he watched as 10 Yugoslavs stepped from behind trees, surrounded the Americans and pointed sub machine guns at them.

"They would have had me too," Lenhart said, "but they didn't see me. I was the cover man and could see the whole thing. I had the lieutenant covered, but there were too many of them to do anything about it.

"Meyer was right behind him. Hendrick was the other cover man. We left one man behind with our horses, hidden in a grove. I could see the Yugoslav officer beckoning to the lieutenant to come on over

Benton Quits State Dept. Cultural Post

William Benton, Assistant Secretary of State in charge of information and cultural affairs, has submitted his resignation to President Truman, the Washington Post learned last night.

The resignation probably will be announced today. A successor has not yet been appointed, and Secretary of State Marshall is known to be having trouble in finding one.

Benton has been a storm-center of controversy almost from his appointment in 1945 by then Secretary Byrnes. His overseas information program met with persistent opposition in Congress, and last June was whittled down.

Benton has agreed, at Marshall's request, to act as a special consultant on problems of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. He was the driving force behind the creation of a National Commission, representing the educational and cultural life of the United States, to advise the American delegation to UNESCO conferences.

It is expected that Benton will go to Mexico City with the American delegation to the annual NUESCO meeting in November.

Second-Degree Murder Verdict Returned in Katona Slaying

By Alfred E. Lewis
Post Reporter

BULLETIN

A verdict of second degree murder was brought in at 11:10 last night by the jury hearing the case of Joseph Daniel Brouillette. The jury was out exactly 2 hours. The verdict carries a penalty of not less than 5 years nor more than 18.

Leonardtown, Md., Sept. 23.—A jury tonight pondered the fate of a youthful seaman charged with the poker party slaying of a Navy wife he said had lured him on and then repulsed him.

The only defense offered by 22-year-old Navy cook Joseph Daniel Brouillette in his trial for the murder of Mrs. Julia Katona in a Tall Timers, Md. fishing shack July 23 was a detailed account of the affair with her.

The body of Mrs. Katona, wife of Lieut. Frank Katona, a flight officer at nearby Naval Air Test Center, Patuxent River, was found nude and battered by her husband when he returned home the following afternoon from 24-hour duty at the station.

Marked by Brouillette's calm, low-voiced admissions, the trial moved rapidly through the day; neared a close with the defandant's pale, blonde wife, Marjorie Anne, nervously twisting her wedding ring on her finger as she sat on the stand.

Throughout the day she sat near him with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jules G. Brouillette of Manchester, N. H., and heard State's Attorney C. Henry Camalier ask the jury for a first-degree murder verdict. Camalier did not insist on a death penalty.

For more than two hours, the tall sailor was on the stand.

He admitted ripping off Mrs. Katona's clothing as she lay on a bunk in the fishing shack after a prolonged poker-playing, beer-drinking evening. He denied choking her and declared he was "very, very drunk."

Lieutenant Katona, who stood in the rear of the jammed courtroom while Brouillette testified, showed visible grief as the defendant's voice droned on . . .

"Several times she petted me," Brouillette answered. "We held hands a couple of times. There were a couple of kisses. She called me 'darling' and 'sweetheart.'"

Mrs. Katona wanted to play some more cards but one of the guests had taken the deck. They decided to go to the cabin for another.

Brouillette testified:

"She reached out and slipped her hand down my side. I put my hand around her waist. She dropped the flashlight. It was dark.

"Then we weer on the couch. I didn't know how we got there. I guess we weer there about an hour. We kisse dand petted. She

Better Government Ticket Leads in Greenbelt Voting

The four candidates of the Greenbelt Committee for Better Government held an early lead last night as ballots were counted in the Greenbelt town council run-off election.

A total of 1519 ballots were cast, 17 fewer than in the main balloting a week ago.

At 9:30 p.m. approximately 650 ballots had been tallied.

These gave Mrs. Elizabeth Harrington 372 votes; Frank J. Lastner, 362; David M. Granahan, 342; Allen D. Morrison, 330; George M. Ehabaugh, 324; Benjamin Goldfaden, 297; Albert J. Schaffer, 277, and George F. Bauer 141.

Mrs. Harrington, Lastner, Granahan and Morrison were indorsed by the Better Government Group, which favors protection of the town's cooperative by limiting other private enterprises to one part of the town.

Four town council seats are to be filled. In the voting last week, only one candidate, Thomas J. Canning, received the majority necessary for election.

Bauer, trailing the tally, withdrew from the race Sunday and had asked that no votes be cast for him.

Eshbaugh, Goldfaden, Schaffer and Bauer were indorsed by the Greenbelt Improvement Association. Many votes which normally would have gone to Bauer apparently were split between Mrs. Harrington and Lastner, observers said.

K-9 War Veteran Goes to Death For Third Bite

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—Scout, thrice-decorated K-9 war veteran who was unable to readjust to civilian life, is dead.

Excursions into court and a kidnaping made hectic his last months before he was put to death by the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals last night for biting a third person.

The Springer spaniel owned by Mr. and Mrs. August Marrone of the Bronx was kidnaped by his devoted masters from an ASPCA shelter last spring after he was placed in a canine jail for biting two persons. Following a stormy court scene a lenient magistrate placed him on parole.

Another bite would mean his death, the Marrones were warned. Last week he bit a woman who was feeding him, and the Marrones regretfully turned him over to the ASPCA.

Taft in Seattle Talk Hits Union Bosses

Carrying Attack to Labor Stronghold
He Says New Act Protects Rank and File

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 23.—Senator Robert A. Taft today carried his attack on union bosses into this West Coast labor stronghold with an appeal to rank and file labor itself.

In a speech here tonight, he said the Taft-Hartley act writes a nine-point "Bill of Rights" for individual union members but curbs the "arbitrary power" of labor chiefs.

Taft voiced his "gratitude" to Democratic as well as Republican members of Congress who supported the Taft-Hartley Act, but failed to give them a broad re-election indorsement.

He told the combined Republican clubs of King County:

"Every man who voted for the law is entitled to the gratitude of those who wish to maintain a Government without special privilege, and with liberty and justice for all."

Substitutes for 'Support'

The original prepared speech used the word "support" instead of "gratitude." When Newsmen interpreted this as a reelection indorsement of Democratic as well as Republican friends of the bill, the word "gratitude" was hastily substituted.

Taft aides said he was against any labor "purge" of members of either party on the basis of their Taft-Hartley stand.

Earlier in his speech, Taft noted that more than half of all the Democrats in Congress voted to override the President's veto.

Again ridiculing "slave labor" charges against the act, he challenged labor leaders to "particularize" their complaints, saying:

"Of course they do not specify the particular matters to which they object, because if they did their arguments could be easily answered and the labor union members themselves would be even more in favor of the specific provisions of the act."

Finds Warren Sentiment

Passing through Portland, enroute to Seattle, Taft ran into more "Western Bloc" sentiment for California Governor Earl Warren.

Gov. Earl Snell, a posible favorite-son candidate himself, was quoted as saying: "It would please the people of Oregon if one day Gov. Earl Warren would be President of the United States."

The Portland Oregonian, independent Republican newspaper, observed: "If the western states get together behind Governor Warren, who does have some chance for the nomination, they would have a powerful bloc which could not be disregarded."

Greeted at Portland

A GOP delegation led by National Committeeman Ralph Cake, who headed Wilkie's 1940 drive here, and Judge Walter L. Tooze, of the Federal Circuit Court, a long-time Taft supporter, greeted Taft at Portland.

Sentiment in this state is said to be sharply divided between old line Republicans for Taft, Dewey organization strength holding over from 1944, and a strong young Republican movement for Harold E. Stassen. Threatening this division were the first western evidences of an Eisenhower boom.

The "Western bloc for Warren" idea was being cautiously advanced as one means of placing the west in a powerful convention trading position if a deadlock develops between Dewey and Taft.

First Speech In Northwest

Taft arrived for his first speech the Pacific Northwest following an overnight run from California's Sacramento valley.

Before driving on to Tacoma, for a major foreign affairs speech Thursday, both Taft and his wife Martha will address separate luncheon meetings today, Taft before the Seattle Rotary, and Martha Taft before the local Republican Women's Club.

Here is the "Bill of Rights" Taft said the labor act provided for individual employees:

1. No "imposition" of a union shop unless a majority of plant employes vote for it.

2. Even under a union shop a man who pays his dues cannot be barred from a job because the union "arbitrarily" refuses to admit him.

Must Join In 30 Days

3. Since the closed shop is entirely banned, a man does not have to be a union member when first employed. He has to join in 30 days, however, where a union shop has been voted by a worker majority.

4. The board is empowered to prohibit excessive or discriminatory dues.

5. Unions must file financial reports and in other respects account to their members.

6. Employes cannot be "coerced" by a union to join or not to join.

7. Dues cannot be checked off from wages without an employe's written consent.

8. Under the welfare fund provision, the employe is "entitled to have these funds treated as trust funds, administered equally for his benefit and properly supervised and audited."

Entitled to Protest

9. Union members are entitled "to protest against the use of their dues contributed for union purposes to defeat candidates they may favor in any national election."

Taft renewed his attack on union bosses in the Seattle bailiwick of Dave Beck, powerful head of the AFL Teamsters Union in 11 Western States.

He said the people "will be overwhelmingly in favor of defeating the effort of labor union leaders to dominate the Government" if that is the election issue.

Without naming names he hit at John L. Lewis and other labor chiefs who refused to sign "anti-Communist" affidavits. He said they are in "a ridiculous and unpopular position."

Health Dept. Asks Record 1949 Budget

The District Health Department wants to spend nearly six million dollars for capital improvements at Gallinger Municipal Hospital and Glenn Dale Tuberculosis Sanatorium during the 12 months beginning next July 1.

This amount far exceeds the total appropriations for city hospitals this year. It was sought by Health Officer George C. Ruhland in a record $14,606,790 hospital budget request for fiscal year 1949, released yesterday by the Commissioners.

The total—almost 150 per cent higher than this year's budget—doesn't include cost of treating District patients at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, which is paid out of Welfare Department funds.

But it does seek sufficient money to hire 880 new employes, 794 at Gallinger and 86 at Glenn Dale.

New Gallinger Buildings

Bulk of the increase would be spent on construction of these new buildings at Gallinger Hospital:

A two-million-dollar psychiatric building to provide for 300 patients. "The present buildings are inadequate and no longer suitable for psychiatric service," Dr. Ruhland said.

A one-million-dollar crippled children's building to replace a 100-year-old structure.

Housing accommodations for internes and resident doctors (cost: $650,000). Present frame housing is scheduled to be torn down.

Mounting construction costs, Dr. Ruhland explained, also makes it necessary to add $990,000 to the $620,000 already appropriated for a new pediatrics building, and $233,000 to a previous $190,000 for a new laboratory building.

Remainder of the Gallinger capital outlay would be used for installing an incinerator, putting tile floors in dining rooms and kitchens, and converting elevators from manual to automatic control.

Plans for Glenn Dale

At Glenn Dale Sanatorium, Dr. Ruhland proposes to spend $426,000 for a warehouse to store frozen goods, meats, vegetables, cereals and other items; $281,000 for a medical officers' apartment house, and $154,000 for a utility shop to house lathes, welding equipment and other tools.

Biggest personnel boost asked in the budget is an additional 511 employes for the Gallinger nursing service. The number would include 348 staff nurses and supervisors and 33 student nurses.

Other new employes would include three occupational therapists, one for Gallinger's psychiatric department, two for the Tuberculosis Hospital at 14th and Upshur sts. nw.; and three social service workers to speed discharges for charity patients.

The budget request would add 44 employes to Glenn Dale's dietetic service. This would enable dietary personnel to work a straight 8-hour shift. They now work split shifts, requiring 14 hours to do a 8-hour job, Dr. Ruhland said.

Glenn Dale requested 32 additional ward service employes instead of asking for more nurses, "due to the general (nurse) shortage throughout the country," he explained.

The sanatorium also wants three new medical officers, a medical case workers an occupational therapist, and six new receptionists.

A 10 per cent special salary differential for Glenn Dale employes was proposed as an inducement for badly-needed personnel.

Gallinger Hospital wants more than $81,000 for replacing and replacing and repairing equipment. Funds for $86,000 worth of new equipment were also asked for Glenn Dale.

The Health Department also requires $553,500 to pay District patients' bills at Children's, Emergency and Casualty Hospitals and the Washington Home for Incurables.

Funds totaling $400,000 were asked to pay Freedmen's Hospital for similar services.

Requested appropriation for repairs at Columbia Hospital and Lying-in Asylum cut from $10,000 this year to $5000 for fiscal 1949.

D. C. Department's Demands In Budget Called 'Fantastic'

Charges that budget requests of District government departments are "ridiculous," "utterly fantastic" and "unrealistic" have been leveled by the Washington Taxpayers Association.

In a letter to the District Board of Commissioners, Rufus S. Lusk, president of the association, declared the proposals were "made largely for propaganda purposes," and asked for pruning by department heads in order that a "realistic budget" may be considered at public hearings scheduled for October 9.

Lusk said that to meet the demands of department heads "would require a real estate and personal tax rate of $3.50 at least, plus all kinds of new taxes, including a 2 per cent sales tax."

The downward revision in budget estimates suggested by the association should be aimed at fitting in budgets with the expected revenues of the city government, Lusk said.

"This will mean that the estimates for the coming fiscal year must be the same, or nearly the same, as they are today, and—this is of far more importance—the department heads must determine those items which they need most, and not refer the final pruning—and pruning there will and must be—to the Commissioners."

D. C. Recreation Dept. Wants To Double Budget for 1949

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

The District Recreation Department wants to spend more than twice as much money for recreational purposes in Washington during the 1949 fiscal year as was appropriated for 1948.

Bulk of the increased funds would go for capital outlays, either to expand services at existing recreation centers and playgrounds, or to provide new recreational facilities in areas which have so far been deprived of organized recreation in any form.

Exceeds $3,000,000

Included in the budget forwarded yesterday to the Commissioners was a total of $3,367,641, of which $2,132,600 would go for capital outlay. Last year, the department received $1,276,800 for its operation, of which only $220,500 was for capital outlay. It had requested a total budget of $3,254,000.

Many of the department's requests have been submitted to the Commissioners in previous budgets. The department asked an increase from $1,058,300 to $1,227,000 in its operating expenses, of which $249,100 would go to the National Capital Parks for maintenance purposes. Substantial personnel increases to care for expansion at existing playgrounds or those planned for operation next year also are included in budgetary equests.

The department asked for four specialists both for white and Negro recreation areas and centers to rotate through the centers as a whole. These specialists would be in the fields of woodworking, printing, dancing and artcraft. It requested $15,000 to buy such athletic equipment as balls, bats, nets and racquets.

Asks 12 Directors

It pointed to the need for 12 senior recreation directors at centers where the daily average attendance is now 500 or more. At these centers, the recreation department said it wants to carry on a "large community planning and directing program".

Aside from general maintenance work, here is how the Recreation Department's budget would augment service at specific centers.

Anacostia: assignment of a senior recreation director because of an average daily attendance of more than 500; Beers: provision of part time leadership, for the summer only, because of urgent community demand; E. V. Brown: purchase of $500 worth of recreation equipment for the school building.

Bundy: assignment of recreation director as full-time annual employe; Burrville: assignment of a senior recreation director because of an average daily attendance of more than 500; Congress Heights: assignment of full-time recreation director on annual basis, and provision of a leader for a pre-school center.

Coolidge: Installation of heating system and addition to the existing building; Dakota: construction of a shelter building; Davis and Deal; operation of the centers three-fourths of the year, and full time during he summer;

Douglass-Turner: assignment of a senior recreation director because of an average daily attendance of more than 500; provision of a recreation director to serve under the senior recreation director; Dupont-Stoddert: assignment of recreation director as a full time annual employe and increase of personnel on the Stoddert playground.

East Garfield Park: construction of a shelter building; Eckington: assignment of a recreation director as a full time annual employe; Edgewood: provision of a preschool play center leader, where the regular staff, by working a split shift, already had tried the program for a year.

Fort Chaplin: construction of a shelter building; Fort Greble, construction of a shelter building, provision of a recreation director on a full-time annual basis; and increased personnel.

FORT MAHAN: construction of a shelter building; Fort Reno: construction of a year-around swimming pool; Fort Stanton: construction of a shelter building; Friendship: operation of the center three-fourths of the year, and during the summer on a full time basis with part time leadership;

Gallinger: assignment of recreation director as fulltime annual employe; Georgetown: construction of a modified field house; Hamilton: construction of a shelter building, and an increase in personnel; Happy Hollow: assignment of a senior recreation director and of a recreation director on a full-time annual basis.

Hillcrest: construction of a field house, and the addition of a preschool play center leader; Howard: assignment of a recreation director as a full-time annual employe; Janney: assignment of a recreation director as a fulltime annual employe.

Jefferson: demolition of a garage structure at the center, assignment of a recreation director as a full-time annual employe, and increase in personnel; Kalorama: construction of a shelter building; Kelly-Miller: assignment of a senior recreation director.

Kenilworth: assignment of a senior recreation director because of an average daily attendance of more than 500; assignment of a leader for a pre-school play center; Langdon Park: assignment of a senior recreation director because of an average daily attendance of more than 500; Langston: provision of a senior recreation director because of an average daily attendance of more than 500.

Lincoln: assignment of a senior recreation director because of an average daily attendance of more than 500; Livingston: construction of a shelter building; Logan: assignment of recreation director as full time annual employe; Lovejoy: assignment of a recreation director as a full time annual employe.

Macomb: construction of a utility building, an increase in personnel; McMillan: assignment of recreation director as fulltime annual employe; Mitchell Park: provision of a leader for a pre-school play center, where the regular staff, by working a split shift, already has tried out the program for a year.

Monroe: assignment of a senior recreation director; New York Avenue: assignment of a recreation director as a fulltime annual employe; Noyes: construction of a utility building, operation of the center during three fourths of the year, full time in the summer; Palisades: construction of a gymnasium.

Tariff Parley in Crisis

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 23 (AP).—Official British sources said today that only the smallest chance remains to prevent the complete breakdown of the Anglo-American tariff negotiations here, due to continued United States demands for abolition of imperial preferences.

$800 to Chase Hospital Cooking Smells Asked

Patients at Glenn Dale Tuberculosis Sanatorium lose their appetites if they "smell food cookings for an hour or two before it is served to them," Health Officer George C. Ruhland observed in his fiscal 1949 budget request.

To remedy the situation, Dr. Ruhland asked the Commissioners for $800 next year to buy "chemical air refresher." The chemical, he promised, will eliminate all cooking odors above the kitchen floor.

Martin Says Many Democrats Will Vote Republican in 1948

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—Speaker of the House Joseph W. Martin (R., Mass.) today asserted that "thousands of Democrats" would assist in the election of a Republican President in 1948.

Addressing the Illinois congressional delegation at the beginning of a speaking tour that will carry him to the West Coast and back to Rockford, Ill., by October 21, Martin asserted that Republican Party workers would receive Democratic assistance during the 1948 campaign.

"One high Democrat—you'd be surprised if I told you his name—told me it is high time the Nation changed Administrations," Martin said. "The Augean Stables need cleaning, and you will find thousands of loyal Democrats—men who have never voted the Republican ticket in their lives—voting the Republican ticket in 1948."

Martin disclaimed presidential ambitions for himself at an informal news conference preceding the meeting. He said: "I am not a candidate and I have no intentions of becoming one. I have the job I want"—Speaker of the House of Representatives.

He said "nothing in my knowledge" led him to believe a special session of Congress is necessary at the present time.

"The New Deal Administration is not keeping the Republican Party informed of the foreign situation," Martin added. "It has not shown any need for such a session, but if the President wishes to call a session, that's his privilege."

Fla. Storm Moves Slowly Up Coast

Warnings Flown From Charleston To Cape Hatteras

Miami, Fla., Sept. 24 (AP).—Fagged out by more than a week of anxious weather, including a mighty hurricane and a half dozen tornadoes, weary Floridians watched with relief today the progress of a stubborn tropical storm as it moved slowly out of the Gulf of Mexico.

Northeast storm warnings were ordered up north of Charleston, S. C., to Cape Hatteras, N. C. The red weather flags are now displayed from Cape Hatteras to Apalachicola, Fla., except small craft warnings from Palm Beach south.

Chief Forecaster Grady Norton reported the storm, with winds in gusts of 60 to 70 miles an hour, was moving slowly northward about 8 miles an hour, with the center about 60 miles northwest of Tampa.

He said a slow northward movement was indicated during the next 12 hours, then a switch toward the northeast. The center is expected to swing inland in the Cedar Creek area, opposite Daytona Beach.

High tides for a time threatened Florida's west coast as the storm was felt. Orders to evacuate one stretch of coast were rescinded as the storm began to move.

At Tampa, Meteorologist W. W. Talbott said persons living in "unusually" low coastal areas would be endangered by high waters.

Norton said when the storm struck a new course, it probably would be to the northeast—across the principal orange and grapefruit lands between Lakeland and Orlando.

Three or more tornadoes—off-shoots of the storm—took their toll in houses and trees in the Jacksonville, Ocala and Marion County areas, but no one was hurt.

The latest tornado hit Jacksonville's southside today, taking off several roofs. A shift in the wind was pushing water away from a 3-mile-long dike, no taller than a man, that was holding back tons of flood waters from the towns of Belle Glade, Pahokee, South Bay and Canal Point.

Md. Registry Boards Will Sit 3 Weeks

Plans were completed yesterday to extend from one week to three weeks the time that supplemental registry boards will sit in Bethesda and Silver Spring, beginning next month.

The move, decided yesterday by the Board of Supervisors of Elections, was hailed as a victory for the Montgomery League of Women Voters. Only last week the women's group protested that the one week schedule—originally announced would allow insufficient time.

The roving boards will sit in the Bethesda County Building and the Silver Spring Armory from October 13 through November 1. Hours will be 12 noon to 5 p. m. and 6 p. m. to 9 p. m.

In addition, the boards will sit during the same hours at the following places: Clarksburg, October 7; Damascus, October 8; Gaithersburg, October 9; Kensington, October 9; Kensington, October 10; Burtonsville, October 11; Takoma Park, October 13 and 14; Olney, October 15; Barnesville October 16, and Glen Echo October 17 and 18.

Parents Refuse Aid for Child Bitten by Snake

Harlan, Ky., Sept. 23 (AP).—Health Officer S. L. Andleman said today a 12-year-old girl near here might lose her hand or her life from the effects of a snake bite suffered at a religious meeting at nearby Cumberland.

Dr. Andleman identified the girl as Dorothy Noland. He said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Noland, of Cawood, refused to allow medical treatment.

The county health officer said other public officials here had been asked to intervene.

The child's hand was described as in a gangrenous condition.

Snake Cultists Duck Police Over State Line

St. Charles, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—By moving just a few feet from one side of the Kentucky-Virginia State line to the other, 50 southeast Virginia snake cultists warded off police action here Sunday night.

The Rev. Oscar Hutton of St. Charles took his flock to a mountain top where a State-line marker was plainly visible. When Virginia State troopers appeared, the snake-handlers were in Kentucky and when highway patrolmen from the latter state visited the scene the faith healers were in Virginia.

Landlady Faces Fraud Charge In Basement Rental Deal

Mrs. Bertha M. Jackson, 70, of 117 11th st. se., was charged yesterday in Municipal Court with defrauding a man of $300 after he sought to rent two basement rooms from her.

Police said she advertised her basement apartment for rent and requested would-be tenants to pay in advance $45 (a month's rent) and a deposit of $300 for furniture which they had to agree to buy at a total cost of $600 in order to get the apartment.

Then Mrs. Jackson would set a future dates for the tenant to move in, but was never at home when they came to see her, according to police.

They said that when one of the would-be tenants, George D. Costanz, jr., of 7719 Eastern ave. nw., demanded his $300 back, Mrs. Jackson gave him a bad check.

She was released under $1000 bond and the hearing was continued to October 3.

Quick Hewitt Nuptials Spur Inquiry Into Woman's Death

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

HEIRESS AND NEW HUSBAND—Frank "Rodeo Roy" Nicholson, San Francisco radio "disc-jockey," smiles on his bride, the former Ann Cooper Hewitt

San Francisco, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The homicide squad began an investigation today into the death of a 36-year-old woman whose disc-jockey husband married an heiress 24 hours after his wife died.

Mrs. Gertrude Nicholson died last Friday, apparently as a result of an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Her husband, Frank Nicholson, married Heiress Ann Cooper Hewitt, 33, the next day at San Rafael, Calif. Nicholson doubles as a cowboy singer and disc jockey over California radio.

Eleven years ago Mrs. Hewitt sued her mother and two doctors for $500,000 on grounds that they had sterilized her without her consent.

"We all agreed I would marry Frank as soon as Mrs. Nicholson withdrew from the scene," the heiress said today. "Well, she withdrew."

She said she had known Nicholson only eight weeks. She was divorced in Reno last Thursday from her third husband, Frank Whitaker.

Nicholson did not believe his wife committed suicide.

"She took a little aspirin but you can't tell me that killed her," he said. "It must have been a heart attack or a brain hemorrhage."

Coroner John J. Kingston scheduled an inquest for October 7.

Aged Woman, Former Slave, Is Missing

Fairfax County police yesterday broadcast a lookout for a former slave, described as "about 100 years old," who disappeared last Friday night from the home in which she lived alone at Burke Station.

Friends and relatives of the woman, Mrs. Martha Thomas, expressed the fear she might have been kidnaped, although conceding she owned little of value other than a four-room house and 40 acres of property worth about $25 an acre.

A nephew, Fred A. Jentons, a real estate salesman who lives at 1865 Kalorama rd. nw., said he believed his aunt might have been abducted by someone who believed her property was worth "far more than its actual value." He said Mrs. Thomas had not stayed away from home overnight for many years, had always notified a neighbor when leaving, and was too feeble to walk a great distance.

Mrs. Thomas' disappearance was reported by a neighbor, Mrs. Theresa Winger, who has helped care for her for about six years. She said she saw the missing woman about 9:30 p. m. Friday, but found the house vacant when she returned the following morning to serve Mrs. Thomas' breakfast. She reported the bed apparently had not been occupied.

Another neighbor told police an unidentified auto drove into the Thomas yard about 10 p. m. Friday and drove away in a few minutes. Both police and neighbors have made an intensive search of the area around her home without results.

Mrs. Winger said Mrs. Thomas had lived alone in the Burke Station house since the death of her husband about 30 years ago. She said the aged woman told her she was 15 years old at the outbreak of the Civil War, which would her about 101. She said Mrs. Thomas often reminisce! about the war, when she served as the personal slave to a young woman in Richmond.

Acording to a police description, the mising woman is about five feet tall, with gray hair and light brown skin. When last seen, she was wearing a dark sweater and a brown spotted dress.

Apartment Rent Rise of 6% Granted

The District Rent Control Administration yesterday granted rent increases averaging about 6 per cent for 124 apartment units of the Croydon, 1815 17th st. nw.

Apartments which currently rent for $45 will go up to $48.25 a month; those costing $55, to $59 per month.

Examiner Denis K. Lane estimated the recommended boost would bring the owner, John J. McInerney, an additional income of $5013 per year. McInerney had asked a 15 per cent hike to add $11,340 a year.

Tenants have 10 days to appeal for reconsideration to Rent Control Administrator Robert F. Cogswell.

2 Tax Evading Liquor Dealers Fined $7500

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 23—Fines totalling $7,500 were imposed today on two Washington men who operate a liquor brokerage concern in downtown Washington, after they pleaded guilty in Federal Court here to attempted evasion of income taxes.

Ferdinand M. Ney, charged with attempted evasion of more than $15,000 in taxes for 1943, was fined $5,000 by Judge W. Calvin Chestnut. William Stein, charged with $3,5000 tax evasion, was fined $2,500.

While they admitted the basic charge, the defendants contended that large amounts of money paid to them had gone to others in "black market" payments. Ney testified that overcharges and side payments of cash in liquor deals constituted "the customary way of doing business" in the liquor industry when OPA price controls were in force.

Naming names, Ney gave detailed accounts of alleged transactions. He said one representative of Baltimore and Washington liquor stores demanded a side cash payment about equal to the more than $9,000 paid for certificates representing 97 barrels of whisky the brokers obtained for a Florida client. The man, appearing as a government witness, denied Ney's story and said: It's just not so."

A Baltimore wine and liquor dealer, also denied Ney's statement that the brokers were asked to charge excessive commissions and "kick back" a portion to swell his income because his salary was "frozen."

Home Country is a collection of Pyle's finest early columns, written before he became our most beloved war correspondent. These endearingly human tales of his travels through the U. Grief's slow wisdom. Should sorrow be expressed or concealed? In this condensation from his best-seller Peace of Mind, Dr. Joshua Liebman shows how unwise attitudes toward grief can cause mental and physical ills . . . and outlines a sound approach to bereavement.

But you can't talk, either. When you talk, do you groan, wiggle your stomach, keep full of air? No? Then you aren't talking. Robert Potter tells how (in his 40's) he's learning to talk . . . how some screwy-sounding practice may give you a richer voice.

Sailor Tried in Slaying . . .

WIFE STANDS BY ACCUSED MAN—Holding his wife's hand, Seaman 1/c Joseph Daniel Brouillette arrives at the courthouse in Leonardtown, Md., where he went on trial yesterday for murder of a Navy officer's wife. The sailor's mother, Mrs. Jules G. Brouillette (right, background), walks with them said her husband wouldn't like it and my wife wouldn't either.

"She started to get up. I reached for her. She fell off the bed. I tried to help her up and she started to struggle. She hit me and I believe I hit her sevral times.

Denies Choking Victim

"Did you choke her?" Bailey asked.

"No, I did not.

"She fell down again. I picked her up and put her on the couch."

She said he ripped his hand down the front of her clothing but didn't remember much after that.

"I was too hazy. I got scared and went home."

On cross-examination, Brouillette repeated that he had not grabbed Mrs. Katona around the throat.

The State's attorney asked what his intentions were when he ripped Mrs. Katona's clothes.

"I don't know why," Brouillette answered. "She had been leading me on all night. I though we were going to have sexual intercourse. I knew if she refused I wouldn't force her."

"Did she refuse?"

"Not in so many words."

A Navy ring, found at the murder scene, was quickly identified by Brouillette and by his wife, who said she had given it to him. It was the ring which first linked Brouillette with the murder. He was arrested late in the evening of the day following the slaying.

The defendant's testimony was virtually the same as his unsigned but uncontested statement which State's Attorney C. Henry Camalier read in his opening statement to the jury.

No Defense Objections

At no time during the trial did Defense Counsel Paul J. Bailey object to the unsigned statement or to admission of events leading up to the actual slaying. He made only a short statement to the jury, emphasizing that Brouillette had supplied the State with its most important evidence.

"He will take the stand and give the truth as he knows it," Bailey said.

As the jury filed out for its evening meal, Bailey told The Washington Post, "I want to save the kid's life."

"I want to show that it wasn't premeditated, first degree murder."

On the bench was a tribunal headed by Chief Judge William M. Loker. The other two members were Judge John D. Gray and Judge Charles Marbury.

Wife and Parents Present

Brouillette's wife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jules Brouillette of Manchester, sat with him through the day.

Both parents took the stand as character witnesses, the father testifying he and his son enlisted in the Navy together in 1942.

Four sailors from the Naval Test Center described Brouillette as a "good shipmate."

In his two hours on the stand, Brouillette said he went to the nearby cabin where he lived after leaving Mrs. Katona in the shack. On several instances during his testimony he said he was "very, very drunk."

He said he had won $31 from Mrs. Katona during the night's gambling and had that in his billfold when he awakened in his cabin about 9 a. m. the next day.

He became frightened when he saw blood on his dungarees, sweatshirt and hands; then took the clothing, Mrs. Katona's purse and her glasses, wrapped them into a small bundle which he buried in the woods as he went to the base to report for duty.

that the United Sates can help feed the hungry abroad.

Yesterday President Truman and Secretary Anderson held a conference at the White House. They talked about 1948 politics—specifically, about Anderson and the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee.

No Announcement Made

No announcement was made as to what decision was reached.

There were indications, however, that Anderson will continue for some time as Secretary of Agriculture and therefore as a member of the Cabinet Food Committee, which is wrestling with the great problem of short crops here and abroad and the danger of famine in Europe and Asia.

The time is not too far off when Mr. Truman will have to settle the question of a new chairman. Another matter to be settled is selection of a city for the '48 Democratic national convention. The Republicans picked their convention site—Philadelphia—months ago.

Among those who have figured in the speculation over a new Democratic chairman, in addition to Secretary Anderson, are Gael Sullivan, now executive director of the national committee; United States Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island and former Representative Joseph E. Casey of Massachusetts.

forget politics until after next year's conventions.

Another Brooklyn Democrat, Representative Emanuel Celler, blamed the high cost of living on the Nation's farmers. He urged temporary suspension of farm parity and farm price supports, as contributing to inflation. He said some farm products, such as dried and canned fruits, of which there is a "glut" on the market, would come down if supports were lifted.

In Washington Secretary of the Interior Krug urged the public to eat more fish to reduce living costs. Prices are about the same as a year ago, he said.

End of Price Increases In Sight, Says Retailer

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—The vice chairman of the National Retail Dry Goods Association told the Joint Congressional Committee investigating the cost of living today that "the end of price increases is in sight."

Robert A. Seidel, who is also vice president of W. T. Grant Co., a large chain store concern, said that already price increases in many department store lines have been checked.

But the committee chairman, Senator Ralph E. Flanders (R., Vt.), said that while the dry goods field may be approaching normal conditions, "the great problem still is food."

And higher prices of shirts next spring were predicted by E. C. Pfeffer, official of Cluett, Peabody & Co., shirt manufacturers, "because of increased material costs."

Generosity Abroad Blamed

Cleveland, Sept. 23 (AP).—President Charles M. White of the Republic Steel Corp. today blamed America's "generosity abroad" for high prices in this country, at hearings before a Joint Congressional Committee investigating soaring commodity costs.

"As we export great quantities of material to Europe, our domestic supply of them goes down and the prices naturally go up," White told Representative Bender (R., Ohio), chairman, and other members of the midcontinent subcommittee of the Joint Committee on the Economic Report. "It is the old economy of supply and demand," he added.

The president of the Nation's third largest steel firm admitted his firm was "holding about even in profits," compared with wage increases granted to steel workers in the last eight years.

Brooklyn-Staten Island Bridge Plan Disclosed

New York, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—A plan to link Brooklyn with Staten Island with the world's longest suspension bridge—400 feet longer than San Francisco's Golden Gate bridge—was disclosed today by City Construction Coordinator Robert Moses.

Moses said permission to construct the proposed 4600-foot bridge, 237 feet above the narrows between the two boroughs, will be sought from military authorities. New York's longest bridge at present is the 3500-foot George Washington bridge. The Golden Gate bridge is 4200 feet long.

Arabs Warn Of Partition Fight on U. S.

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Arab countries today threatened counter-measures against the United States as Syria predicted a complete rupture of relations with any members that support the proposed partition of Palestine.

The Middle East bloc said the Arab world would "take all necessary measures to oppose the United States both inside and outside the United Nations" if Secretary of State Marshall supports partition.

Syrian Chief Delegate Faris Elokhoury said the Arab countries would "break off all relations" with members supporting partition.

He also said "money, men and arms" would be thrown into the battle to have a free Palestine.

478 Jewish Orphans Enter 'Promised Land'

Jerusalem, Sept. 23 (AP).—A group of 478 Jewish orphans reached new homes in their "promised land" today as Palestine's 700,000 Jews began obervation of Yom Kippur, the day of atonement.

The orphans were granted immediate entry to the Holy land from Cyprus.

Early today British troops and police searching through the Yemenite quarter in Jerusalem entered at least two synagogues where preholiday services were in progress.

Arab Leaders State Case to Marshall

By a Post Reporter

Flushing Meadows, Sept. 23—Leaders of all the Arab delegations here stated their case privately to Secretary Marshall today.

Nothing official was said about the luncheon, but it was learned that the Arabs stated their position courteously but firmly.

Although the United States probably will support partition, here there is not the slightest prospect at the moment that it will also support the British demand for United Nations armed forces to carry out a partition scheme. This would call for the use of American troops, and the delegation here shies away from any such involment.

Fanatics Balk Negotiations, Dutch Assert

The Hague, The Netherlands, Sept. 23 (AP).—A Dutch government declaration said today the influence of "fanatics" and "malevolent elevents" in the Indonesian republican government was a strong bar to renewed negotiations but indicated military action would not be resumed for the present.

The declaartion was read before Parliament by Prime Minister L. J. M. Beel as Hubertus J. Van Mook, Acting Governor General, returned to Batavia from a 24-day trip to Holland and the United States.

The government statement said the situation in Indonesia appeared to be easing.

The government announced that it was taking over both de facto and de jure authority in the areas of western and eastern Java occupied by Dutch troops.

Seeks Belfry

Vicar Defies Devil to Bar Bell Ringing

Newington, England, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The Rev. A. H. Lance, vicar of Newtongton, defied the devil today and called for funds to rebuild the belfry of his 800-year-old church and get its bells ringing again.

Traditionally, the devil hates the bells of Newington. According to legend, he once visited the parish and was so disturbed by the bells that he climbed the belfry, put the bells in a sack and jumped down.

He landed on a rock, which to this day bears distinct hoof prints, the legend says, and departing left a sulphurous curse to the effect that if anyone moved that stone no bells would ever ring in Newington Church again.

During the war, the church road was widened and the stone was moved to a churchyard. About the same time, the church tower fell into a bad state that the ringing of the bells was forbidden.

Now the vicar, who was a chaplain with the RAF during the war, is canvassing Newington's 1200 inhabitants for money to rebuild the belfry.

'Politics Is New Theology,' Sheen Tells Buffalo Throng

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 23 (AP).—The Right Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen of Washington, D. C., declared tonight at the Buffalo Centennial Eucharistic Congress that "politics has become the new theology."

Monsignor Sheen asserted in a prepared address:

"The separation of the church and the state finally became separation of religion and the state. But while religion was keeping to its domain, irreligion came in the back door and preempted the political order, with the result that for the first time in Christian history atheism has been given a political form and a social substance.

"Politics has become the new theology."

He addressed the congress' first general assembly which followed a colorful outdoor pontifical mass at which Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, opened three days of mass worship with a plea for peace.

The mass was celebrated by the Most Rev. Amleto Cicognani, titular archbishop of Laodicea, the apostolic delegate to the United States.

Britain Will Open Mail to Bar Illegal Sending of Currency

London, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The Treasury announced today that military-style scrutiny of outgoing and incoming mail will be started October 1 to enforce Britain's rigid currency regulations which forbid sending illicit money or valuables into or out of the country.

Opening and searching mail will be resumed by Customs and Post-office officials "to detect sterling notes (the pound sterling is worth about $4), diamonds, postage stamps" or other mediums of exchange.

"Any goods found in this way will be confiscated, and prosecution may follow," a spokesman declared.

The spokesman said the treasury wanted to stop Britons traveling abroad from evading currency regulations by mailing large sums of money to vacation addresses.

Britain May Take Over Gas Industry Next

London, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Fuel and Power Minister Emmanuel Shinwell hinted tonight that the gas industry might be next to come under the Labor government's nationalization plans.

Shinwell said he would like to see a "triology" of coal, electricity and gas under government ownership.

Connally Sees Stronger U. S. After 'Crisis'

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The United Nations will emerge from its present "crisis" stronger than ever, Senator Tom Connally (D., Tex.), ranking minority member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, predicted yesterday.

Connally, one of the original architects of the United Nations Charter, said he was "not particularly happy" over the present situation in regard to Russia.

He charged that Russia's attacks on American policy within the United Nations are an indirect attack on the United Nations itself.

Russia, he said, recognizes the United States as one of the most powerful supporters of the United Nations.

This country, he declared, should stand firmly upon a policy of continued and complete support of the international organization.

The Texas Senator, who participated in the Inter-American Conference at Rio de Janeiro, told a press conference he believed the pact was "a substantial contribution to world peace."

"The world now knows that a nation which attacks us cannot expect any aid from anyone else in this hemisphere and that the others will line up with us," Connally declared.

Connally, former chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he could not commit himself on the necessity for a special session. He said he would consult President Truman at the White House in the near future.

Awaits Harriman Report

Connally suggested that he thought it would be unwise to call a special session to discuss the Marshall program and the Paris report until there is a report from the committee, headed by Secretary of Commerce Averell Harriman, charged with the responsibility of taking stock of Americas assets.

"The drafting and adoption of the treaty (at Rio)," Connally declared, "when compared with the work of other international conference in recent years, involved less time and toil.

"The Declaration of Chapultepec had been agreed upon by most of the American republics and had been under study for more than two years."

Lie Deplores Disunity Within Ranks of U. N.

By Robert Bruskin
Post Reporter

Flushing Meadows, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Fear and suspicion among the great powers are shaking the "very cornerstone of the United Nations," Trygve Lie, secretary general, said today.

He appealed eloquently before the General Assembly for an end to the "disunity among them which today creates our greatest difficulties."

"The peoples of the world," he said, "and many governments as well, are shocked, frightened and discouraged to find that these same nations which created the United Nations are now so openly unable to agree."

The greatest difficulty, he asserted, "lies in the fact that the great powers suspect each other and each other's intentions."

"It is fear that is the greatest danger. Fear breeds hate, and hate breeds danger."

Russia Thrice Voted Down

Despite his plea for a spirit of compromise, Soviet Russia was voted down three times a few hours afterwards in her efforts to prevent the General Assembly from discussing Greece, Korea and Italian treaty revision.

"These conflicts and differences," he said, "do not result from the rule of unanimity among the great powers The veto issue is more of a sympton than a cause."

The Security Council, where the veto can be used, and the General Assembly, where there is no veto, "are" both being hampered seriously in their work by these conflicts and differences."

"It is easy to find strategic, economic and ideological differences which explain the disunity; but it is impossible and intolerable to think that these differences should ever be allowed to lead to war.

"I don't believe that there is any nation or any government in the world which does not want to prevent another war."

Despite his bleak picture, Lie said emphatically that no matter how strong the political differences, they do not "constitute a threat to the existence of the United Nations."

He urged that the organization permit all applicants to be admitted to membership, if they can live up to the requirements of the Charter.

Would Give Up Veto

Secretary Marshall, among his earlier proposals, offered to give up the power of veto on questions of membership before the Security Council. The Soviets have used the veto eight times in refusing applicants. Twelve nations are now awaiting membership.

"It is tragic that the United Nations," he added, "up to this time, has been able only to a limited degree to fulfil its great obligations in the economic and social fields.

"Economic instability and confusion are rampant in most of the lands of the world. Millions of human beings are threatened by faminine. In by far the largest part of the world chronic malnutrition, lack of education and lack of means to insure the public health are the rule."

The "world is an economic unit" and assistance to those countries "can only be fulfilled by full international cooperation," he said.

Efforts are being made to curtail expenses of the United Nations, he said, because many governments have serious foreign exchange difficulties.

The United States, Britain and Russia have already asked for more economies in its operations.

U. N. to Debate Korea, Greece

and Japanese people for demanding, immediately after their entrance into force, the modification or suppression of the treaties with them."

The Ethiopian was breaking parliamentary rules in arguing the merits of treaty revision instead of confining himself to the point at issue, which was whether treaty revision could be discussed. President Oswaldo Aranha explained afterwards that he had not called the Ethiopian to order "as a tribute of respect for the sufferings of his country."

But none of today's speakers was enthusiastic about raising the question of treaty revision. Jose Arce of Argentina, one of the sponsors of the resolution to discuss it, explained that almost a quarter of Argentina's people were Italian-born or of Italian descent. And that "the Argentine Republic is attached to the Italian people."

He argued, however, that it was perfectly right and proper for the Assembly to debate any issue it chose, and in this he was supported even by those who felt treaty revision at this time would be unwise.

Whereas Vishinsky had argued vehemently that a discussion of treaty revision would be "unfounded, illegal and unconstitutional," Foreign Minister Herbert V. Evatt of Australia argued that the Assembly could discuss anything that is likely to impair friendly relations among nations.

"I have as much right to speak on the peace treaty as Mr. Vishinsky or any representative of his country," said Evatt sharply, "because of the sacrifices of the servicemen of my country long before the Soviet Union was in the war against Italy."

Sir Hartley Shawcross of Britain and Yvon Delbos of France took similar positions; neither of them thought it wise to discuss treaty revision now, but neither thought the Assembly should be prevented from discussing the issue.

Warren R. Austin of the United States said it made no difference; that the peace treaty had just entered into force.

Time Held Unimportant

"Does time make any difference with respect to justice?" he asked. "Should Italy have to wait 10 years and then come to you and ask to have you consider her plight with respect to a treaty made 10 years before?"

Explaining that he was not passing on the merits of the question, Austin said it was the duty of the Assembly under the Charter to discuss the treaties if any member or nonmember of the United Nations wanted to be heard on them.

Echoes of Secretary Marshall's speech of last week, and of Vishinsky's bitter reply, were heard in today's debate. Vishinsky, arguing the substance of the Korean issue, said the United States rather than Russia was to blame for the present stalemate. Austin replied in words he also used last year: "The problem for the world is not who is right but what is right."

Special Palestine Committee

He described Korea as "this poor country which has come to this sanctuary asking for your consideration," and insisted that it was the Assembly's due to consider the case.

"You do not have to decide between the United States and Soviet Russia in doing this," said Austin. "We think it is highly important, in the interests of the Charter as well as in the interests of that small country, that the General Assembly show its capacity to act and not expose itself to the world as a perfectly futile organization."

On the last day of its general debate today the Assembly also decided, over the opposition of the Arab states, to set up a special committee on Palestine, instead of referring the Palestine problem to its regular political committee.

Adequate Fuel Seen for Winter By U. S. Chamber

The United States Chamber of Commerce said yesterday the Nation's supply of fuel will be "adequate" for the coming winter contingent upon normal weather and freedom from strikes and transportation tie-ups.

The chamber cautioned both household and industrial coal consumers, however, not to wait for winter to put in their supplies. It advised consumers that if they cannot get the exact type of coal desired, they should accept the next best available.

Dechard A. Huicy, chairman of the chamber's natural resources committee and president of the Lone Star Gas Co. of Dallas, Tex., said in a report:

"There may be local shortages due t otransportation difficulties, but these, should they occur, are expected to be of short duration and to cause no widespread difficulties."

Marshall Plan Load Nearly All American

U. S. Investors Would Have to Back Any World Bank Loan, Official Says

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Virtually the entire burden of carrying out the Marshall Plan—the job of putting Europe back on its feet—will fall on the United States, it became evident yesterday.

Garner

In a proposal outlined Monday, the 16 nations that recently met in Paris, fixed $22,4400,000,000 as the sum necessary for the four-year program for European rehabilitation.

Of this amount they suggested that $3,110,000,000 come from the World Bank. However, a bank official yesterday disclosed that even that amount will have to be put up by American investors.

Robert L. Garner, vice president of the World Bank, told newsment that at present the bank has only about 500 million dollars. The only way it can get any more, he said, is to sell its bonds to American investors.

Garner said the European conferees hadn't consulted the bank before writing their report. It couldn't raise three billion dollars all at once, he said, and besides would have to "feel its way."

Furthermore, Garner said, the World Bank was set up by 45 nations, and can't "look only at Europe." It wants to help Latin America and some other countries some time, he said.

Meantime, it became evident that from now on the Marshall proposal rests with President Truman. Mr. Truman's conference with Secretary of State Marshall Monday did not end with a decision as to future strategy. It is expected that the President will soon start a series of conferences with congressional leaders at which full and frank discussions of the Plan will be entered into.

Closer study of the document from the Paris conference will follow its arrival at the White House. It is being carried to this country by the British courier in a plane.

On October 3 the Harriman committee which is studying America's resources in connection with the demands of the Marshall Plan, will meet in Washington. Its report will be studied alongside the European plan.

Immediate Need Pressing

In the meantime the question of immediate, emergency aid for Europe, is pressing upon the administration. Speculation on this question was raised by the announcement that Ambassador Lewis W. Douglas and Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton will return from London later this week. The London embassy said they will confer on American aid to Europe.

In his talk with the press, Garner pointed out that the $3,110,000,000 the 16 European nations earmarked as coming from the World Bank was almost identical to the $3175,000,000, this Government subscribed to the Bank's eight billion dollar capital. Only a portion of this subscription has been called, however.

Little of the remaining $19,330,000,000 the 16 nations say they require is expected from other countries. Both Canada and Latin American nations are already dipping into their gold reserves and dollar holdings to pay for purchases from this country.

The 16-nation proposal was termed "a great piece of work" by British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin in London. European newspapers, outside those with Communist leanings, hailed it as a starting point for economic recovery.

French Ambassador Bonnet and Belgian Ambassador Baron Silvercruys met separately with Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett yesterday.

Both took a very gloomy view of the immediate European food situation. Bonnet said the French already are down to a bread ration of 200 grams daily, half that of Germany, and that his country is running out of dollars with which to buy grain, fats and fuel.

He asked for safeguards against a reduction of United States exports to France.

U. S. Asked to Finance Hemisphere Imports

Paris, Sept. 23—The 16 European nations' request for Marshall plan aid proposes that the United States finance nearly six billion dollars in essential imports from Argentina, Brazil, Canada and other Western Hemisphere countries, it was announced tonight.

The inventory on continental assets and needs, approved, signed and dispatched to Washington last night by the conference on European economic cooperation, lists $5,970,000,000 in food and raw materials required from American countries other than the United States.

This sum, according to a conference official, is expected to be underwritten by the United States and it creates in this way a plan within a plan.

That is, in addition to the general objective of European recovery during the four years ending 1951, the American Government wants both American continents to share in Europe's reconstruction. To spread the European inventory orders around and maintain coordinated production across the Atlantic, the United States is prepared to finance the contribution of the whole Western Hemisphere.

Ferguson Prefers Loans To Foreign Business

Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) suggested yesterday that the United States loan money under the Marshall Plan to foreign concerns, rather than governments, in order to aid the growth of free enterprise in Europe.

Ferguson, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the total need under the Marshall program could be slashed well below the proposed 19 billion dollars if his suggested method were followed.

Postwar American gifts and loans to Europe, Ferguson declared, have retarded free enterprise because they have been made to governments.

Loans and gifts made this way, he said, become political and are used to enable governments to stay in power by virtue of American money and food.

Chief instruments of lending money to European concerns to get economy under way again should be the Export-Import Bank and the Reconstruction Finance Corp., Ferguson declared.

He proposed that RFC could also guarantee loans to American concerns, like General Motors Corp., seeking to develop facilities in western Europe.

Four Held in Gambling Raid

Police of the vice squad yesterday arrested four men on gambling charges in simultaneous raids on two Northeast establishments.

Police reported that the raids climaxed a six-month investigation of the operations at the Apollo Club, 645 H st. ne., and a valet shop at 643 H st. ne., which police say was used as a "pick-up" spot for gambling at the club.

Arrested were Earl O. Stuart, 30, 1150 17th st. ne., who was charged with operating a lottery, setting up a gaming table, and possession of numbers slips, and put under $3500 bond; Alvin V. Scott, 36, 1801 13th st. nw., charged with operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips; Herman Feinberg, 27, of 2605 29th st. se., also charged with operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips, and a 16-year-old shoe shine boy, charged with operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips. Feinberg and Scott are under $1500 bond each. The boy was released in the custody of his parents for action by the Juvenile Court.

A Word About BEEF GRADES
All beef handled by Safeway is graded by Government expert graders while the meat is still in the packing plant. The various grades are determined by certain standards pertaining to the conformation, fat covering and finish of the animal. The grades most commonly sold at retail are: "Choice," "Good," "Commercial" and "Utility." Each carcass is roller-stamped according to its particular grade. While the fat covering on "Commercial" grade is not usually as heavy or as evenly distributed as on "U. S. Choice" and "Good" grades, you can be assured that it will give entire satisfaction. The most important point to consider is that all cuts of meat have the same nutritive value regardless of grade, and in purchasing "U. S. Commercial" grade you are not denying your family any of the nutrition so necessary to human life.

Creation of New Airline Is Opposed

President Truman's air policy commission was urged westerday to oppose creation of any new airlines or air routes now because exisiteng airlines—over expanded since the war—lost $17,000,000 in the first five months of this year.

William A. Patterson, president of United Airlines, who said his own calculations showed that domestic airlines lost that much this year, asked the commission to abandon consideration of new route applications "until present problems are understood and solved."

Patterson suggested also that the commission eliminate "uneconomical" duplication of air services and "study the corporate and route structures to determine whether consolidation and mergers may not be a partial solution to the problems of some companies."

The airline president said the key to recovery of the air transportation business was a change in its "basic philosophy," through which positive steps would be taken to "make air transportation completely safe and dependable."

In addition to criticizing the industry for looking for "artificial" ways out of its troubles, he attacked the Civil Aeronautics Administration for being "either . . . negligent or too passive" in appreciating what is needed to accomplish greater dependability in air travel. He said that while Congress has investigated air accidents, its inquiries haven't produced constructive action.

Stating that no airline or group of airlines can afford to finance full-scale installation of navigation devices, Patterson called on Congress to put up the money.

William A. M. Burden, former Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Air, proposed creation of a cabinet department of civil aviation and appropriation by Congress of five million dollars to finance improved design features in private aircraft.

He said private flying was a necessary part of any program to increase American air power.

Beverly Howard, representing six private flying organizations, said a large number of conveniently located landing facilities is fundamental to the growth of private flying. He charged that many civil air regulations are unnecessary and place costly burdens on private flyers. Mr. Howard recommended that there be better coordination of aviation education in schools.

Robot Ship Chief Sees 3000-mi. Return Trips

Brize Norton, England, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Col. James M. Gillespie, 52, commander of the robot C-54 Skymaster, said today that his flight across the Atlantic proved a pilotless plane could be sent 3000 miles from the United States and back again, all from one radio station.

Gillespie said a plane, with its mechanical brain at the controls, could fly 3000 miles to a target, and return to its base.

"We used a signal from a weather ship to change course, but it wasn't necessary," Gillespie said. "We could have come all the way over from the first setting of the dials. As it was, we were beamed to within 15 miles of the airport here, where the RAF beam picked us up and brought us in."

Gillespie said the flight was a forerunner of a day when automatically-controlled airliners will make safe landings in weather now considered "impossible" for flying.

Elimination of the human element, he said, would permit planes to take off and land without danger on closely-spaced, concentrated schedules in almost any weather.

Neblett's Plan

Arming All U. S. Against Atom Urged

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 23 (AP).—Col. William H. Neblett of Arlington, Va., president of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States, suggested today division of the United States into small military districts as a defense against an atom bomb attack.

Neblett

In an address to the twenty-seventh annual convention of the Military Order of the World Wars, Neblett said his association believed any attack against the United States would come through the air by way of the North Pole.

Neblett said the United States Navy still was so powerful it would repel any seaborne invasion, and because of that, war "will be extremely unlikely during the next two or three years."

After that time, he said, the Nation must be fully prepared—"anything may happen"—and an effective defense against an aggressor could be established. He continued:

"We would have to start by dividing the whole country into small military districts. In each district, a small citizens defense force should be organized.

"Each unit should be commanded by local officers, and actually armed with the most modern weapons. Education in this method of defense should be begun in all schools and colleges.

"Launching sites for all types of modern missiles should be strategically located throughout the country, and, by a system of rotation, constantly manned."

Neblett said he estimated a full-scale atomic bomb attack on the United States would kill or wound two-thirds of the Nation's population within five hours.

Robot Plane Trip Tribute To Heroes

By Franklin Banker

(Former Associated Press War Correspondent with the Eighth and Ninth Air Forces in Europe.)

Pittsburgh, Sept. 23 (AP).—Flight of the AAF robot plane from Newfoundland to England pays tribute to the late Lieut. Joseph P. Kennedy, jr., son of the former Ambassador to England, and other heroes who gave their lives in World War II to develop the robot plane.

Hitler dreamed of sending a robot bomb to devastate New York, but his efforts ended with the buzz bombs and rockets dropped on England and the west coast of Europe.

Meanwhile the USAAF was developing a robot bomber to counteract Hitler's V-1 and V-2. In England, battle-worn B-17's and B-24's in 1944 were loaded with tremendous charges of explosives to be dropped on German V-bomb sites.

At that stage, "mother planes" were used to guide the robot craft into the air by radio control—one of the greatest secrets of World War II.

Lieutenant Kennedy—a Navy officer cooperating in the highly dangerous project—was killed in the takeoff of one of these "drone" bombers on a combat mission.

These planes were developed at a secret USAAF base in England. Kennedy, a volunteer, offered to take one of these "drone" bombers into the air. (Yesterday's Skymaster, one stage advanced, took off by robot control, but in Kennedy's day human pilots had to do it.)

Kennedy got his Liberator (laden with 21,170 pounds of explosives) safely into the air, but something went wrong and it exploded. Kennedy and his copilot, Lieut. Wilford J. Willy, of Fort Worth, Tex., were killed.

New Air Force Puts Civilian At Head of Public Relations

The new Department of Air Force has departed from traditional service practice in organizing its public relations and Congressional liaison setup, it developed yesterday.

Unlike the Army and Navy, which always have named high ranking officers to handle such functions, the Air Force has appointed a civilian to head up these civilian contacts.

Stephen F. Leo, 38, of 6 Tauxemont rd., Alexandria, is the new Director of Public Relations of the Department of Air Force. An AAF enlisted man and later captain during the war, he holds a post which the Army fills with a general and the Navy with an admiral.

Under the Air Force reorganization, public relations come directly under Secretary W. Stuart Symington. Formerly it was a part of Gen. Carl Spaatz's military staff. Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan has his public relations office under him, rather than as a part of the Office of Naval Operations. During the war, a similar setup existed in the War Department, but after VJ-Day, public relations was retruned to the military staff.

Two main divisions have been set up in the Air Force under Leo. Maj. Genl Emmett O'Donnell, jr., will be Director of Air Information, handling press, radio contacts, and serve as Leo's deputy. A new division of legislative and civil liaison is being organized. It probably will be headed by a general officer.

Leo, a native fo Portland, Me., has been civilian adviser to General O'Donnell for the past 10 months. He was for years a newspaperman employed by the Guy P. Gannett chain in Maine.

No Immediate Savings Seen By Forrestal

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

America's new defense chief yesterday served notice that the Nation need expect no immediate, important savings or major changes under the revamped security setup.

Gray

In his first press conference as Secretary of Defense, James Forrestal outlined in general how he intends to operate in his newly created post. He promises few spectacular developments—for the near future at least.

Questioned by a packed roomful of American and foreign newsmen while newsreel cameras clicked, Forrestal had these things to say:

(1) He couldn't "offer anything but a general and pious hope that the armed services will achieve economies and become more efficient" under the new organization. "Integration of the services will take many months and probably years."

Services Well Managed Now

(2) There can be improvements in any organizations as large as the Army, Navy and Air Force, but he regards the three services as "exceptionally well run and capably managed now." Otherwise, they "wouldn't have won the war," he added.

(3) His concept of his duties as Secretary of Defense: "To secure common practices, and as far as feasible, common policies, but not to get into the details of organization." He said he didn't like to talk about future action but let new policy be "manifest in action."

(4) He plans to issue but few directives, as he prefers to "deal with people rather than paper."

5. The three services will run their own public relations, and be their "own spokesmen" in making announcements regrading policy. Stressing that the "integrity of the services is important," Forrestal said he hoped "to disappear quickly from the public eye" in his new job and devote his time to coordination of their efforts.

When a newsman pressed him as to his power to override the individual Secretaries on policy, Forrestal gave no direct answer.

"My conception of my job is that I am a member of a team working toward a common end," he said. "If I have to use authority I might as well get out of the job. I don't expect any difficulty."

No qualified observers interpreted Forrestal's words as meaning that he would be a figurehead or mere umpire in his new job. Rather, he seemed to be deeply conscious that he will set the pattern for the important post and has definite ideas on this score.

What he evidently was saying was that the Secretary of Defense should operate to some extent behind the scenes, deciding top policy and getting results by the potential power of his high office rather than constantly issuing orders, mapping publicised programs and generally "pulling his rank."

Gray Named Army Aide

Meanwhile, as a further step to complete the new defense organization, President Truman yesterday appointed Gordon Gray, 38-year-old, Winston-Salem, N. C. publisher, to be Assistant Secretary of the Army. Gray, who rose from private to captain in World War II, is president of the Piedmont Publishing Co., which operates the Winston-Salem Journal, the Twin City Sentinel and radio station WSJS.

Forrestal announced several additions to his staff yesterday. He appointed John H. Ohly, 2722 N st. nw., as special assistant handling contracts with the various agencies under the National Military Establishment. Ohly, 36, has served in various posts in the War Department since 1940. He probably will be secretary of the War Council.

Named liaison officers on public relations were Col. John L. Chamberlain, jr., for the Army; Capt. E. John Long, USNR., for the Navy, and Col. Joseph C. Reddoch for the Air Force. The defense chief told reporters he expected eventually the executive heads of the three departments will be concentrated at the Pentagon, but that no immediate Navy move is expected.

Civilian Clothes on Duty

Forrestal disclosed the matter of allowing service personnel to wear civilian clothes while on duty was under active study. The main difficulty, he said, is requiring them to buy new outfits at the present high prices. One suggestion is that it be made optional.

The defense chief said the question of creating a unified theater of operations for the United States was under study. He said he doubted if all Army, Navy and Air Force recruiting would be put under one organization, and disclosed he had given general approval to the Army-Air Force agreements announced last week.

As Forrestal left the Navy yesterday to occupy his new office in the Pentagon he was "piped overboard" in traditional fashion. A Marine guard of honor stood at attention, a Navy band sounded ruffles and eight sideboys lined the entrance as he left the Navy Building.

LEAVING THE NAVY—Striding between sideboys in dress whites, James V. Forrestal leaves the Navy. The traditional "piping ashore" ceremony afforded commanders when they leave their ships, is sounded as Forrestal (left center), recently sworn in as Secretary of Defense, walks out of the Navy Department Building with his successor, Navy Secretary John L. Billion Backed Farben Nuernberg, Germany, Sept. 23 (AP).—The I. G. Farben chemical combine obtained more than $1,220,000,000 in credits and subsidies from the Nazi government for its enthusiastic part in Hitler's four-year plan of war preparation, according to documents introduced in the Farben war crimes trial today.

Hero Doubly Welcome

Lima, Peru, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Peruvian long distance swimmer Daniel Carpio, who swam the English Channel recently, was given an enthusiastic but expensive welcome today. While thousands of admirers carried him on their shoulders from the city hall to his hotel, someone picked his pocket of $200.

Hand of Communists Seen In Trieste General Strike

Trieste, Free Territory, Sept. 23 (AP).—Radio Trieste announced that Sindicati Unati had called a general strike in Trieste this afternoon and the British-American military government promptly declared the action was "the first Communist attempt to hamper the essential life of Trieste and bring discredit" to the week-old free territory.

The military government said it would take "all steps necesary to ensure that every man and woman wishing to work will be given the fullest protection."

Sindicati Uniti had called strikes previously in the shipyards and gas works, bringing the number of idle to approximately 5000.

The military government statement said "it is obvious that agreement is being prevented by certain outside elements who for their own selfish political reasons are attempting to spread the strike.

"The Allied military government will take definite action against those present who are found intimidating or threatening peaceful citizens . . ."

The Italian Nationalist Union has opposed the Communist action.

Choice of Governor For Trieste Difficult

Flushing Meadows, Sept. 23.—The Security Council faces another day of probable failure tomorrow in its long search for a Governor of Trieste who will be acceptable to Russia and the western powers.

The United States prefers to keep the present military government in Trieste without a Governor, rather than rush into the appointment of someone who might not be strong enough to handle an emergency in Trieste.

and could hear the lieutenant arguing with him about it."

Lenhart said Hendrick, sent by the Yugoslavs to get the horses, "came running back white as a ghost, saying he had to get the horses or it would be too bad for the lieutenant."

The three prisoners were seen riding away on the horses, with the Yugoslav guard following on foot. The Yugoslavs also took along the outfits' mascot, a dog named Tiny, Lenhart said.

Lt. Van Atten and the two enlisted men were due to return to the United States soon.

foreseen that France may go under before then.

Observers agree that French bankruptcy could easily throw the nation into an open battle for power between Communists and Rightists.

President Auriol, Premier Ramadier and Schumann received no comfort from Snyder, it was reliably reported. The French government officials learned, it was said, that the Secretary of the Treasury was in Paris only to listen and not to make any commitments.

This report conforms to the news here that any plans for short-term emergency aid to European countries are being developed exclusively in Washington.

The French financial situation has been greatly aggravated by the failure to have the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development approve a loan application for 250 million dollars.

Free State Plan Revealed

Berlin, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—The French-licensed newspaper Kurier reported today that Dr. Rudolf Paul, former president of the Russian - occupied state of Thuringia, has turned up in the American occupation zone with a satchel full of documents outlining plans for an independent socialist state in eastern Germany.

Paul

The Kurier said Paul, who, with his wife, vanished September 1 after a reported difference of opinion with the Russians, seized every confidential paper available to him before his flight. It added that the papers were now safe in western Germany.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay declined comment.

The Kurier said Paul's plan for an east German state would be put into effect through a "spontaneous" movement by the people of Soviet-occupied Germany if the November Big Four conference in London failed to reconcile differences between the East and West.

Paul was a veteran member of the Russian-sponsored Socialist Unity Party (SED), and was known as the Russians' "German front man."

He and his wife disappeared during the Leipzig fair, when traffic between the American and Russian zones was heavy.

Heinrich Mertens, lord mayor of Jena in the Soviet zone, his wife, five children and maid appeared in Frankfurt today. Mertens asked to be treated as a political refugee.

Labor Battalions Again Stage Italian Farm 'Occupation'

Rome, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Communist-led farm labor battalions marched onto private estates of the Roman countryside again today and announced they were taking possession of the land. Most of them dispersed when police arrived, but two workers and three police were injured in fist fights at Arezzo.

The "symbolic" occupation occurred on the second day of a crippling strike by an estimated 80,000 farm hands in Rome province. They demand increased pay and better working conditions.

Other developments in the leftist attack aimed at unseating Premier de Gasperi's government were:

1. The crucial parliamentary debate on de Gasperi's government was postponed today for at least three days because of the present session in Rome of Guglielmo Giannini's Common Man Party.

2. Turin police announced the arrest of 17 heavily-armed partisans and cautiously reported indications of a partisan "back to the hills" movement. This was significant in view of Communist Chief Palmiro Togliatti's boast that "30,000 well-armed partisans" could take over the government.

3. A leftist coalition in the assembly succeeded in defeating today a minor constitutional amendment, supported by the government, by a margin of 47 votes. This gave rise to leftist predictions they could turn de Gasperi's cabinet out of office when the vote of confidence takes place.

two defense attorneys, and many defense witnesses were barred.

And, without naming him, the department pointed a finger at Dimitrov, once accused by the Nazis of taking part in burning the Reichstag in Berlin in the early days of Hitler's power.

Seen in Another Role

It said that 14 years ago in Leipzig, Germany, "a Bulgarian defendant evoked world-wide admiration for his courageous defiance of the Nazi bully who participated in his prosecution." The department went on:

"Today that defendant has assumed another role and it is now the courage of another Bulgarian whose steadfast opposition to force and oppression has evoked world-wide admiration."

Petkov, who steadfastly denied the charges that he plotted to overthrow the government by a coup d'etat involving armed force, had been arrested last June 6. His trial began on August 5.

He had held little hope that he would escape the death penalty.

"Prepared to Share Fate"

In a fatalistic statement, Petkov recalled that his father and brother "were murdered in the streets of Sofia as traitors," and "I am prepared to share their fate."

Petkov's opposition to the Communists broke into the open in September, 1945, when he withdrew from the Communist-dominated Fatherland Front coalition and called for free elections. He charged that the Fatherland Front government was subjecting the opposition to beatings and killings.

[The next step in the Bulgarian campaign against opposition leaders, alleged to have been guilty of conspiracy, is to come with the trial October 1 of Nedelko Atanassov, Alexander Detchev and Tonyo Georgiev, former deputies of Petkov's party. Atanassov, a defense witness in Petkov's trial, is charged with perjury. The others are charged with spreading "false rumors of foreign intervention" and with inciting farmers to sabotage the government's agricultural program, the United Press said.]

You see here a hood-filling straight-eight power plant exactly like those which put an eager rush of Fireball energy at the command of folks who own 1947 Buicks.

But you don't have to be the owner of a 1947 Buick to boss this husky package of concentrated power around!

If you hanker for the thrill of having, beneath your toe, the surging power of a new Fireball engine, we're in a position to talk business right now.

How come? The answer is simple:

Out in the Buick factories, engine production is forging ahead—engines are coming off the line faster than bodies or other parts needed to build complete automobiles.

All of which means we can give you prompt delivery on 1947 power plants—brand-new, straight-from-the-factory Buick engines, ready to repower any Buick built in the past ten years.

If you own a Buick built between 1937 and 1942, the whole thing boils down to this:

We lift out the old engine—put in a new one—and send you on your happy way in less time than it would take for an overhaul.

That's why we say, buying one of these engines is the next best thing to getting a new Buick—and when you do get a new one, you'll have a better car to turn in.

Come in and let us show you how simple the whole thing is.

Prince Senses Forced War in Jinnah Course

New Delhi, India, Sept. 23 (AP).—An Indian prince charged today that Governor General Mohamed Ali Jinnah appeared to be forcing a war between his Moslem Pakistan and Hindu India by accepting the arbitrary annexation of a border state whose population is 82 per cent Hindu.

Maharaja Jam Saheb of Nawanagar, Indian army colonel and veteran of two world wars, said the situation was so explosive that the Indian government had sent troops to the borders of the western Kathiawar states of which the disputed state—Junagadh—is a member.

The Maharaja said the Moslem rulers of Junagadh, without benefit of plebiscite, had decided to join Jinnah's Pakistan. Eighty-two per cent of the 800,000 people in the state are Hindus, the Maharaja said.

Blood Thirst Not Slaked

(The raging blood thirst of Hindus, Sikhs and Moslems has not been slaked and the decline in the number of daily casualties from thousands to hundreds is due solely to the fact that trouble areas are virtually under a state of martial law, United Press reporter Robert Miller said today.

(The governments of India and Pakistan, while trying to carry out one of the greatest mass migrations in modern history, involving four million persons, find time to threaten each other with war.

(The refugee camps almost make Japanese prison camps seem sanctuaries. The refugees are dying by hundreds of disease. They eat, sleep and sit in the mud and slime left by the late monsoon rains.

Emotions of the public are kept at boiling point by inflammatory editorials and distorted news reports on both sides, Miller said.)

Picture in U. S. Press Called One-Sided

B. R. Sen, charge d'affaires of the Indian Embassy, asserted yesterday that the American press is giving a "one-sided and out of focus" picture of India's religious rioting.

Sen said that "for the past three weeks, American correspondents in India have been concentrated around Delhi" on the India side of the border and, therefore, have reported "almost exclusively" the news of Hindu and Sikh massacres of Moslems.

The corresponding Moslem excesses against Hindu and Sikh minorities on the Pakistan side in the Punjab have not been nearly so fully reported, he contended.

This is giving the American public a distorted idea of who is to blame for the violence in India, Sen said.

Argentine Says U. S. Press 'Insults, Slanders' Mme. Peron

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Argentine Embassy said today in a newspaper advertisement that "some sectors" of the American press were attempting to discredit Argentina and had "launched a campaign of insults, vilification and slander against the wife of the Argentine President, Eva Peron.

Senora Peron

The statement, signed by Martin Luis Drago, Argentine charge d'affaires in the United States, said the Embassy would not "lower itself" by discussing the articles, but added:

"It wants to inform the American people that the same groups . . . are now desperately trying to undermine the efforts of both nations to work in an atmosphere of peace and cooperation in the solution of problems that affect the Western Hemisphere."

Spanish Bread Ration Cut Nearly in Half

Madrid, Sept. 23 (AP).—Education Minister Jose Ibanez Martin announced today that Generalissimo Francisco Franco's cabinet had decided to reduce the daily bread ration for Spanish working classes from 250 grams (approximately 8.8 ounces) to 150 grams. Others will be cut to as low as 100, because of an unsatisfactory grain harvest and import prospects.

First In Crime

Washington today, in something of a comedown from what was said of the great man for whom the city was named, is first in burglary, first in aggravated assault and petty larceny, and first in the distortion of crime statistics. The FBI report covering the first half of 1947 must have had a shocking impact upon local residents. For it clearly puts the Capital in the position of the leading crime center among the 10 cities of comparable size. And in some categories Washington has more crimes than great centers of population such as New York and Chicago. The extent of this lawlessness is perhaps best illustrated by the 1025 cases of aggravated assault here in the first six months of 1947, compared with 660 cases in Chicago and only 36 and 83 cases respectively in such law-abiding cities as Milwaukee and Buffalo.

What the increase in crime here is no one knows. For the report covering the first half of this year includes all crimes reported to the police and disclosed by the FBI, whereas the report for the first half of last year excluded a vast number of crimes that the police had "pocketed." The showing last year was bad enough; yet in several instances the number of crimes reported has more than doubled. Here is startling evidence of the fact that the Capital City has been living in a fool's paradise. We think we shall be excused if we take pride in the fact that the exposure of phony crime statistics by The Washington Post resulted in bringing the true situation to light.

Now that the people know that Washington has three times as much petty stealing as Milwaukee, five times as much as Boston and about 12 times as much as either Pittsburgh or Buffalo—that it has more burglary than Cleveland and St. Louis combined and more aggravated assault cases than six cities of similar size combined—what are they going to do about it? Certainly the Police Department ought to be strengthened in personnel, discipline and methods. The appalling concealment of crime alone suggests the nature and extent of the rehabilitation that is necessary.

We are thoroughly convinced, moreover, that such a piling up of crime would not be tolerated by the people of the District if they had any control over their local affairs. No city officials who faced a record of 447 robberies in six months, plus 1025 aggravated assaults, 2641 burglaries and 823 grand larcenies would have the gall to seek reelection. By the same token an appointed Commissioner who permits such a toll of lawlessness to accumulate ought to realize that he cannot hold the confidence of the people. Unfortunately, the term of Commissioner John Russell Young, who has immediate supervision of the Police Department, does not expire for nearly two years. We think he will have to act quickly to clear up this disgraceful situation if he is to avoid a clamor for his resignation. Meanwhile this appalling cost of disfranchisement in terms of lost property, human suffering and wrecked lives ought not to be lost on the committees of Congress that are studying home rule plans for the District of Columbia.

Shameless Gouging

Charges of outrageous profiteering in wheat by the Argentine government have been confirmed by responsible American officials, one of whom recently saw a purchasing agreement calling for payment in American dollars of $5.90 for a bushel of Argentina's wheat. It is difficult to find words to describe this kind of shameless grasping for profits at the expense of needy nations.

It would be bad enough if the profiteers were private citizens, but in this case it is the government that is raking in the profits while paying the farmers less than a fourth of its own selling price. According to report, these ill-gotten gains are being used to finance Argentina's industrialization program and build up her military machine. In view of the ill will created by such conscienceless profiteering, the Peron regime may well look to its defenses. For a nation that hopes to benefit by exploiting the world misery is likely to be bereft of friends when it needs them.

The policy followed by our Government offers a heartening contrast to that of Argentina, though we cannot afford to be complacent with wheat selling at present exorbitant prices. However, the high prices we are charging foreign countries for wheat are the result of mistaken domestic policies that have brought distress to Americans as well as to countries dependent on us for wheat supplies.

The profits from wheat sales at least are returned to the farmers and the traders of the country. For the Government buys at the market price and sells at cost. Furthermore, a goodly part of the funds for foreign purchasing come from loans and credits, a large proportion of which will probably never be repaid. Whatever its failings therefore, the United States Government cannot be accused of using our surpluses to grow rich at the expense of impoverished foreigners. On the contrary, it is committed to policies that impose additional burdens on our heavily taxed people and exact sacrifices from the consuming public in the form of high and rising food costs.

The people of Argentina, we know, must be hanging their heads in shame over the sorry exhibition at the bar of history that the Peron regime is affording.

Petkov

It is highly probable that Nikola Petkov, the Bulgarian peasant leader who was hanged yesterday at Sofia, was doomed in any case. At any rate, it has not been the policy of any Communist government to spare the life of any politician around whose person an opposition might conceivably be consolidated. What is certain is that the diplomatic efforts by the United States and Great Britain to save Petkov from the gallows merely made his fate inevitable. It was not to be expected, in view of Communist behavior in Europe since the Potsdam conference, that the Kremlin would ignore this opportunity for another gesture of defiance toward the United States.

The charge on which Petkov was sentenced to death, that he was plotting the forcible overthrow of the Communist dictatorship of Comrade Dimitrov, is of course absurd, since the Bulgarian Communist government is manifestly illegal under the terms of the agreements reached at Yalta and Potsdam. Indeed, the whole point at issue between Petkov and the Communists was whether these agreements were to be taken seriously. Petkov believed they were, and after his withdrawal from the Fatherland Front, demanded a free election. The answer of the Communists was a campaign of terror and suppression, which reached its climax in the expulsion of Petkov and his followers from the Bulgarian Parliament. After that, his arrest and trial were a matter of course.

The case of Nikola Petkov should afford the final lesson, if one were needed, in the fallacy of the Popular Front. Petkov was merely the latest of many radical politicians who believed that collaboration with the Communists for achievement of limited aims is possible. Doubtless he felt secure in the knowledge that his party represented the aspirations of the great majority of the Bulgarian people.

It is no wonder, then, that the execution of Petkov has plunged the delegates at Lake Success into such profound pessimism; and that many of them began to speculate about how long it will be before Mikolajczyk in Poland follows him to the gallows. For there can be few of them who do not now realize that the course the Communists have pursued in Bulgaria is all of a piece with the course they have been pursuing in the world at large. With this realization the hour of decision has been brought perceptibly nearer.

Age Of Challenge

There is an abundance of seasoned wisdom in the address which Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson delivered before the American Bar Association in Cleveland. He sees the confusing and difficult period through which we are now living as "the age of great challenge." Some seek to escape the challenge by ignoring it. Others are content merely to drift. Still others, seeing that we live in a changing world, would abandon all institutions and standards of value inherited from the past. And, finally, another group, fearing consequences which they do not approve, cling desperately to old forms of action and insist that institutions shall remain unchanged and inflexible. All these trains of thought the Chief Justice abandons as unworthy of "the great age of challenge."

"Repose," Justice Holmes said, "is not the destiny of mankind." Some Americans have been dreaming of settling down to a quiet and easy peace. That dream was always an illusion. What we and our allies have won is only a new opportunity to tackle and solve immense problems by the democratic method. Or, as the Chief Justice puts it, "In achieving success, we have fallen heir to the grave problems growing out of a postwar world in need of physical and spiritual rehabilitation." Such is the nature of success. In a dynamic world it merely opens up new vistas of responsibility.

How shall we meet the added responsibility that victory has brought? Certainly not by drifting, by standing pat, by abandoning the accumulated wisdom of the past or by burying our heads in sand. The Chief Justice suggests: "We need, first of all, to reaffirm our faith in the fundamental values upon which has been based all that is worthwhile in our society. We need to revitalize our conviction that that society is best which gives the greatest practical recognition to the dignity of individual men and which affords greatest opportunities for the development of the higher potentialities of all men. . . . We need, finally, to devote our full intelligence and greatest efforts to the task of devising ways and means whereby those essential values can be given their most complete expression in a world of flux and change. . . . We must be alive and alert to the problem of a shaken world. . . ."

This sage advice, that we project our basic principles into each new situation while adjusting programs to the changing needs of the times, comes from a man who has already tested its soundness in his work on the Supreme Bench. Mr. Vinson's speech at Cleveland is something more, therefore, than a cool, shrewd and objective commentary on the dilemma of our times. It also offers pleasant reassurance that Mr. Vinson is following in the great tradition of the Chief Justiceship.

McNeil And Bidault

The verbal violence of Mr. Vishinsky seems to have left the British and the French at Flushing Meadows as unmoved as it did the American delegates. In the case of France this attitude marks an independence of feeling which is of some significance in the developing world scene. Since San Francisco, Georges Bidault, France's Foreign Minister, has borne many insults from the bullying Molotov and the vituperative Vishinsky, but internal strains in France have hitherto compelled him to endure them in silence. However, at the Paris conference, called to consider a continental approach to the Marshall initiative, he struck out on his own, heedless of the threats of the door-banging Molotov. To Mr. Vishinsky last Saturday he insisted that, in spite of the Vishinsky effort to make his flesh creep over American designs, he would hew to the same line, and called in question "for the tenth time" Soviet departures from the truth.

France (and Britain) has had enough evidence nowadays to know what American policy is in western Europe. It is to build up western Europe so that a balance may be maintained on the old continent, a balance to save Europe from falling under Soviet domination. The United States, which up till a year ago was cold toward European ideas of integration, has now caught up with what is a historical imperative. It would like to see a unity on the opposite rim of this continent because the unity would promote strength and independence. Our security and our interest, let alone world peace, would be furthered by it. There is every evidence that, if the Marshall Plan is concretely expressed in European policy, the means will not be lacking from America. In this respect in particular, there could not be a sharper antithesis between the policy of the United States and that of the Soviet Union. The imperialistic interests of the Soviet Union would be served by keeping western Europe weak and divided, not by helping to restore it to economic health. For the Kremlin is aiming at the role of a colossus whose word will be as decisive in Paris as in Warsaw.

The Kremlin's insistence on the loss of sovereignty involved in a Marshall Plan integration of Europe has fallen as flat as the charge of American warmongering and imperialism. It is, of course, a red herring. Hector McNeil, Britain's Minister of State, spoke of Mr. Vishinsky's related argument that no nation could so dispose of its sovereignty under U. N.'s Charter. "The Charter," said Mr. McNeil, "does not insist upon absolute sovereignty. What the Charter does insist upon is the sovereign equality—and that is the operative word—of the member states." If the French had conformed to Soviet threats by desisting from embarking on the Marshall Plan, they would have advertised to the world a loss of French sovereignty to the Kremlin. On the contrary, they demonstrated French sovereignty in joining with France's neighbors in a common pursuit of reconstruction for the common benefit. We rejoice over the growth in French sovereignty which was demonstrated by the forthright statement last Saturday by Mr. Bidault.

Tax Equality

The Democrats of New York State are now sponsoring a bill to be introduced at the next session of the Legislature to make New York a community-property State. The purpose, of course, is to permit married couples to split their income on a 50-50 basis for purposes of taxation, as is now permitted by 13 other States. The inequalities resulting from the different treatment of family income in community-property and noncommunity-property States has long called for some sort of remedial action on the part of Congress. The longer it delays, the greater becomes the pressure on the noncommunity-property States to take the initiative in deciding the issue.

We do not think that the States should be left to deal with this problem, not only because it would be a long time before all of them adopted the same system—if ever—but because we consider the split-income plan objectionable in many respects. As we have repeatedly pointed out, the proposal would be a windfall for the rich, while low-income families would derive no advantage from it. Furthermore, it would entail considerable loss of revenue to the Treasury. The preferable method of removing inequalities due to different methods of taxing family income is for the Federal Government to make joint-income-tax returns mandatory for all married couples, regardless of the State of residence.

This plan would yield additional revenue and at the same time make family rather than individual incomes a measure of the taxpaying ability of married couples—a fairer test of capacity. Even this proposal would not eliminate all the inequities in present methods of taxing family income, as Treasury experts point out in a recently issued study. But it would be a long step in the right direction.

APPLE FLAME

Our tree is shining in the sun
And proud of all that it has done.
And when these tossing leaves of gold
Glide to the windstorm, fold on fold,
The tree will know that it has sent
More than a single ornament—
The small, tart fruit for both of us,
And leaves, gold and miraculous.

Argentina's "Tribuna"

The Executive Committee over which I preside and in whose name I am honored to address you, is a popular organization of several institutions representative of industry, labor and culture. Its function is to organize a popular homage to our local newspaper Tribuna, as an expression of the applause of the democratic and antifascist circles on account of its firm position in defense of freedom and right.

The press of the great Nation of the north has paid frequent attention to the Argentine situation, denouncing the totalitarian tendencies of the government that has permitted the most dangerous remnants of Nazis fascism of the Old World to penetrate and spread in the American hemisphere, making our country the center of their activities.

By demagogy and force, the trade union movement has been tamed; the universities have been subjugated; justice has been chained; culture has been reviled by bribes or by fear; in one word, the democratic spirit of the constitution has been violated, and the rule of its most fundamental institutions has been annulled.

As a logical consequence, such a system cannot admit free criticism and to avoid it must padlock public opinion in its highest expression, a free press. This is the time when to silence it, great newspapers are closed, circulation of others is rendered difficult, and journalists' lives are in danger if their treatment of facts differs with the opinions of the governing team.

Tribuna of Rosario (Province of Santa Fe), together with a limited number of papers of the federal capital and other cities of the country, has not been subjugated and continues defending the democratic ideals and the antifascist position. It offers a remarkable example of integrity, which deserves to be stimulated by all those who see in the majesty of the fourth estate the bulwark against which the excesses of the despots must dash to pieces. That is why our homage to Tribuna will be, by extension, an homage to all the free press of Argentina. In such a state of affairs, it is necessary to combine the cry of rebellion from the trodden citizenry with the brotherly gesture of the press of the continent, by giving its support to the Argentine journals that accomplish with dignity and courage, their noble function.

The projected homage, which consists in the placing of a bronze plate, the signature of a commemorative album, and a great popular banquet, will take place in the second half of next month.

President, Popular Committee for Homage to the Daily Tribuna of Rosario.

Government Financing

Leading financial authorities profess to be worried about the volume of Government securities held by banks. Present Government financing seems designed to retire bank holdings by a refunding operation placing several billion of nonmarketable long-term bonds in the hands of individual and institutional investors and retiring an equivalent sum of bank holdings. Would it be possible to outlaw at this time a deceptive practice of New Deal financing and retire bank holdings without the assistance of institutional and individual investors?

During the New Deal period the wages of workingmen collected as social security taxes were used for current operations of the government by the simple expedient of running off an equivalent par value of paper promises to pay from Government printing presses and putting these promises in the Treasury basement for "safekeeping." This practice could now be outlawed and the Treasury required in the future to use social security tax collections to buy bonds from banks.

Social security taxes would then retire each year from three to five billion of bank-held bonds—30 to 50 billion in ten years. The Government bond market would be strengthened. Government credit would be steadily improved. Workingmen of America could be confident that social security reserves consisted of seasoned United States Government Bonds rather than printing press paper promises.

Student Experiment

Malvina Lindsay in The Washington Post of September 18 writes of the experiments of the State Department in sending abroad 1500 students during the past summer "Loosing Mental Apron Strings." The State Department is indeed to be thanked for giving this opportunity to such a group of our young people and for planning to increase the number next season. Appreciation is also very greatly due to the American Friends Foreign Service Committee or its large responsibility in carrying through the undertaking and for setting the tone of free contact and open-minded discussion between these students and the many peoples of Europe with whom they met. It is closely related to the splendid work of a similar nature carried on by the same committee in the International Student House in this city.

European Self-Help

I have just read belatedly the letter entitled "European Self-Help" from Mrs. E. D. Cooksey of Brandywine, Md., which appeared in The Washington Post of September 15, and for the first time I am almost ashamed of being an American.

Mrs. Cooksey refers to a report on his recent trip to Europe by Senator Young (R., N. Dak.) in which he expresses surprise at "how little the people of Europe work," and she concludes her letter with the resentful statement that "we have done more than enough" to relieve the present plight of Britain and the continent. This letter typifies the self-satisfied, smug, well-fed attitude lately of so many Americans. How can the most unintelligent individual be surprised at "how little the people of Europe work" when we all know that for the past 8 or 10 years the huge majority of them have been living on half rations, housed in sieve-like dwellings during the bitter winters and tortured daily by grief, discouragement and fear of the future? It is medically stupid even to expect Europeans to think or feel the way we do while struggling against such an existence.

It is discouraging and depressing that in a country such as ours—with its enormous natural and industrial wealth, its many economic advantages available to all and its standards of freedom and enlightened thinking and education—there should still be those who fail to understand how unavoidably our welfare depends upon that of other nations; who do not grasp the undeniable fact that in this age of lightning transportation and constant interchange and mingling of nationalities and races American prosperity and security are impossible without world prosperity and economic stability.

For our own interests, then, if not for the sake of humanity, let us give unreservedly of what is needed of our wealth to help Europe to her feet again.

Voice Of America Broadcasts

The Washington Post rightly devotes space in its columns to the problem of counteracting hostile foreign propaganda and presentation of the true facts and policy of our country to the people of the world and especially to those who are behind the Iron Curtain. The Voice of America is certainly the most important intermediary. I should also like to add facts showing the importance of the Voice of America to the citizens of the United States themselves.

The United States now is the leading world power and needs a great number of people with a thorough knowledge of foreign languages. The last (September) issue of The Bulletin of AATSEEL (American Association of Teachers of Slavic and East European Languages) gives interesting information. AATSEEL, through the good offices of the White House, communicated with 1700 colleges and universities and held a conference with many informed persons to determine vocational opportunities for foreign language students.

The conclusion of this study found that, taking into account the total of all personnel likely to be needed by the United States Government, by industry, and by the teaching profession during the next five years or so, up to 50,000 people with a knowledge of the Russian language can be absorbed.

Now in more than 200 colleges and universities many thousands of students are studying the Russian language. To these we should add unknown thousands of students of private schools and individual instructors. All these persons need practice in the language without which their knowledge inevitably would deteriorate.

A good radio program is the most useful and easiest medium for everybody to learn, keep, or improve his knowledge of a language. The program of the Voice of America has the usual features of a radio broadcast: music, singing, news, short stories of the life and history of the United States, and official announcements.

The program is broadcast in faultless Russian by many announcers, both men and women. Thanks to this, the listener may become accustomed to understanding many different shades of pronunciation. It is very useful to listen to the singing, both original and from phonograph records, performed by first-class artists. For students of Russian and other languages it is easy to begin to understand the program, because usually they already know the news broadcasts from having read the news in the paper, and they also are familiar with the themes of American history and culture.

The only complaints we get from our members and students about the Russian program of The Voice of America are the time of broadcasting and poor reception in some localities. Very few students can listen to the program during working hours. Complaints of poor reception we receive mostly from New York City and its vicinity.

Vanity Fair's Victory

By Malvina Lindsay

Clothing Crisis

FASHION REBELS have lost their first bout. Apparently they are going to have to take and like—though with some modification—the styles the clothing industry and the fashion elite have decreed for them. But they have lived to fight another day—with their pocketbooks. The question now is: Who will win the next clothing round?

The next few weeks will decide that. They will show whether American women are going to buy new clothes or spend their money for beefsteak. So far this season retail clothing sales have slumped. Merchants blame the unseasonably hot weather. Just wait, they say, until fall shopping gets into full swing.

The fashion industry triumphantly reports that the new styles are winning throughout the country. Retail buyers are ordering them, and the bon ton in every city—the group that has always set styles and social attitudes for the masses—is wearing them. Let clergymen rant, say the fashion czars, women and youth groups sign petitions, pass resolutions. Aren't the masses of American women turning down their hems, climbing aboard the long skirt bandwagon? Aren't women generally (whether they know it or not) in the mood for change after the monotonous, constricting styles of war years? And even if materials are being used lavishly while most of the world is shabby and ragged, hasn't this style revolution saved the American textile industry, where unemployment was showing up?

WHILE LABOR statisticians say they have as yet no reports to show a pickup in the apparel industry, which has been slumping since March, manufacturers say workers are being called back, that factories and dress shops are humming, owing to the new orders of retailers, who had about stopped buying. Except for this boom, they insist, the textile industry in six months would have been at the point of overproduction.

Meanwhile as clothing prices rise, owing in some degree to extra yardage, and food takes half of the family budget, social workers are asking how low-income groups are going to buy—not the new styles—but garments to keep them warm. And moralists decry the waste of cloth in a textile-scarce world.

This is probably the first controversy in history over women's clothes in which sexual morals are not involved. In the uproar of the 1920s over knee exposure, and in virtually every big fashion change through the ages, clergy, press and Mrs. Grundy condemned the exposure of feminine physical charms. Shameless women, they thundered, were leading the world to perdition. Now the question is one of economic morals—or rather the lack of them.

THE PROBLEM cannot be neatly disposed of as a carefully hatched plot of greedy manufacturers. Many forces contributed to the style upheaval, including the inevitable cycle of fashion and social change, postwar inflation, and the dog-eat-dog scramble among industries for the consumer's vanishing dollar.

Partly to blame are many of those now loudly protesting about the new clothes. The public's childish impatience to return to the good old days of "normalcy" as soon as the last shot of war was fired let loose unbridled change in a world completely out of balance. The fashion industry fighting to keep a share of people's pay checks in an inflated economy has no doubt ridden the horse of change too hard. Possibly on the basis of its "anything goes" sales of wartime it has overestimated public vanity. It may, unless buying picks up shortly, find itself with many of its inflated priced, "new look" garments on the racks at the end of the season, and its style victory over Main Street a hollow one.

Many American women this winter are likely to feel a little self-conscious in their voluminous greatcoats (with hood appendages needed only by an Eskimo), in their swirling skirts and "longer look" suits as they think of war-ravaged people shivering in skimpy clothes in cold houses. Yet, they might ask, how could countries without dollars buy this surplus American clothing, cloth or raw materials? And if these accumulating supplies were not used, what would happen to the clothing industry and its workers?

Possibly such thoughts may awaken them to do something about an economically unbalanced world before it becomes so top-heavy it overturns in another depression.

Relaxing Fire Controls

I read with much amazement the news article in The Washington Post of September 16 relative to the relaxing of fire safety minimums in new buildings which the D. C. Commissioners approved. It seems to me that, after all, the years of hard work and tragic experiences which it has taken to educate the public and lawmakers, this is a definite step backward in the interest of public welfare. Everyone of these major relaxations is a direct invitation to disaster.

If a board of 19 men can put a law of this kind into effect in the District, it is high time Congress recognized the urgent necessity of a department of public welfare to check measures which are destructive rather than for the public good. The slight savings in dollars resulting from these changes could never compensate for the terrific loss of life which happens so frequently in buildings constructed with fire traps. Are we going back to the dead old days of the nineties along with the old-fashioned skirts and hats?

Calling Washington

By Marquis Childs

Greek Party System

ATHENS, GREECE.—Politics is the only luxury left to the people of Greece. It is their sport, their recreation, their art—everything.

Childs

A session of the Greek parliament combines the excitements of a bull fight, a football game, and opera in the grand style. Partisans pack the boxes and the galleries. The dramatic entrance of each leader is cheered with wild enthusiasm.

The ladies of Athens attend in their smartest clothes, wearing gloves and hats which one almost never sees on women in the streets. They applaud with a fervor that in the United States might be accorded to a combination of Lily Pons and Bob Feller.

The Greek passion for politics is carried to the point of pathology. The contrast with a country such as Switzerland is startling. The Swiss are careful, cautious managers who feel that they can hardly afford political controversy; the average Swiss could not tell you the name of the President of Switzerland.

Here even minor politicians are national heroes, each with a personal following giving unquestioning loyalty. The political feuds have ancient roots, and when the outsider tries to untangle them he finds himself in a bewildering maze of complications. This is one of the difficulties the American aid mission to Greece has encountered in trying to bring some order and direction to a nation close to chaos.

IT EXPLAINS why so much hope is pinned on the head of the new government, Themistocles Sophoulis. At 86 Sophoulis is both symbol and hero. Repeatedly through the upheavals of the past 40 years he has maintained his integrity.

Living simply in a modest villa in a near-by suburb, Sophoulis has never enriched himself as some Greek politicians have. He has a ready sense of humor and a twinkle in his eye. A crowded press conference that brings many questions from reporters of various nationalities does not ruffle him. He is a republican but in no sense a socialist.

If he can make the mass of the people believe in his good intentions and end the civil strife, then he will have made himself one of the greatest figures in modern Greek history and all the Western world will be in his debt. It is a heavy responsibility to put on a man of such advanced years.

The pathology of Greek politics is a grim object lesson. It is not a matter merely of corruption. Greece is not unique in having had corrupt politicians. The pathology is that of individualism run wild so that wherever more than two Greeks are gathered, there you have a political party.

It was the fractionalizing and the splitting off that in the years between the wars made Greek political life a shambles. Most serious of all, this splitting off was a perfect opening for the Communists. With a dozen seats in the Parliament, they often held the balance of power and they exploited their advantage to the utmost.

With leaders trained in Moscow, such as the brilliant and ruthless Nicholas Zachariades, believed now to be in Yugoslavia or Albania ready to head a "Free Government" of Greece, they made a mockery of parliamentary procedure. It was the perfect opportunity so long as orders from Moscow held the party, to the use of peaceful rather than revolutionary means to gain power.

IN THE trade unions the same kind of splitting off occurred. It went so far it became a cancerous growth protected by a mistaken law granting a trade-union charter to any seven members of any union.

Before the Metaxas dictatorship there were 600 unions. In 1940 the number was 1400. Today it is 2200. At one time 15 separate federations of unions existed. A union of orphans and a union of retired dancing instructors are among the more ludicrous outgrowths.

Under the law any individual can get the state to intervene in a trade-union dispute. Here, too, was an opening ready-made for the Communists and they were not slow in exploiting it. It will take years to get Greek unions back on a sound foundation. Fortunately, the International Labor Office is shortly sending a mission to Greece to help straighten out the tangle of laws that seem to have done more harm than good.

No people could possibly afford the luxury of the kind of politics Greece has had in recent years. It was individualism run riot and the result may still be collective disaster.

U. S. Increases Military Funds For Greece

Athens, Sept. 23 (AP).—An increase of nine million dollars in the military appropriation for Greece under the United States aid program will bring the Greek army to a total strength of 150,000, an American aid mission official announced today.

Roy L. Cochrane, deputy chief of the mission, said in Salonika that the total military appropriation now would be $158,000,000. He said the new funds would cover a temporary increase of 20,000 troops and an additional permanent increase of 10,000 men. The present strength of the Greek army is 120,000.

Cochrane said it was unlikely that the mission would approve a Greek government request for an additional force of 50,000 National Guardsmen because the new appropriation would be inadequate to meet it.

In Athens, Dwight P. Griswold, chief of the mission, announced that more than 200,000 tons of United States food and materials have arrived in Greece since the beginning of the aid program last July. He said additional shipments of about 50,000 tons were expected within 10 days.

Griswold said supplies of food and vehicles for the Greek armed forces formed the bulk of early deliveries by 26 ships, but that 73,696 tons were delivered for civilian relief. Eight ships now were at sea with cargoes exclusively for relief, including 42,330 tons of wheat, he explained.

The government, meanwhile, continued to release political deportees at an accelerated pace. About 9000 have been set free.

Premier Acts To Use Force On Guerillas

By M. W. Fodor
Post Reporter

Athens, Greece, Sept. 23 (By Cable).—Premier Themistocles Sophoulis is confident that the guerillas will come down from the mountains of northern Greece within 60 days, but the "grand old man of Greece" is going to be ready for any eventuality by increasing the size of the Greek army.

The Premier received me in his small office in the Parliament Building. He was having a cup of Turkish coffee, and smoking a briar pipe filled with extremely strong Greek tobacco.

He said that it would take at least two months to get news of the amnesty proposal to all the guerillas in the mountains, although everything was being done to hurry negotiations.

200,000 Forced to Flee

The guerillas have forced 200,000 Greeks to leave their homes in the little villages and the countryside of northern Greece. This horde of refugees has descended on Salonika and other cities, and created a major problem.

There have been so many murders, so many families have been broken up, and so much property destroyed, that the business of getting the bands to surrender and come down is greatly complicated. Many of the guerillas give Sophoulis credit for sincerity in his amnesty proposal, but are afraid of the local consequences if they should surrender.

For this reason, Sophoulis is planning to increase the size of the army by 30,000 men. He also contemplates a national guard numbering 50,000 men, to be created by calling up the eighth class on a purely local basis.

Police Reorganization

At present, the gendarmerie consists of two parts, one a permanent organization and, second, men sworn in for special services. The special service group was created by Gen. Napoleon Zervas, Minister of Public Safety, and are all populist sympathizers. They were responsible for sending thousands of citizens to concentration camps.

Sophoulis plans to disband this special group and to replace it with national guards called up on a nonparty basis, to represent all shades of political thought in Greece.

Thus armed with a genuine amnesty plan and an increased means of military operation, the Premier believes the new government will be able to put its program over—by negotiation if possible, by force if necessary.

U. S. Zone Fails To Show Gain in Industry Output

Berlin, Sept. 23 (U.P.).—Industrial production in the United States zone of Germany failed to rise in August, and there appears little prospect of immediate improvement, it was announced today.

Ruhr coal production has increased to close to 240,000 tons a day.

Matter Of Fact

By Stewart Alsop

The Good Investment

ROME, SEPT. 23.—Here in in Italy, it is easy to foresee and describe the consequences of American inaction in the present world economic crisis. If we do not promptly meet the challenge, Italy's barely reborn freedom will meet an early death. And thus will be set in remorseless motion a chain of events which must end with political and strategic disaster, utter, complete and irretrievable except by the terrible expedient of war, for us in the United States.

It is less easy, yet equally important, to estimate the effectiveness of the remedies which the United States can offer. Yet after exhaustively consulting all available authorities, this correspondent ventures the opinion that Italy is a presently good investment in this inevitably risky world.

Reams of statistics could be offered to support the statement that the Italians have already achieved a triumph in postwar reconstruction. In every ministry in Rome, they give you sheaves of figures—and very moving figures too—showing bridges rebuilt, transport links reopened, factories restored to production, and farm output brought up by the unrelenting labor of the Italian people. But it is immeasurably more convincing, since fallible human nature has a tendency to reject statistical proofs, to visit one of those areas in Italy which were scenes of almost total desolation hardly more than three years ago.

SALERNO, the site of the bloody Salerno landing, was one such. Yet on that enchanted coast today there is hardly a sign of the outpouring of blood, the carnival of destruction, which so recently occurred. More ancient history is immeasurably more conspicuous. Like a dream of the glory of Greece, the honey-colored temples drowse at Paestum among the oleanders. Domed house roofs and pointed windows in the little fishing villages recall the Saracen dominion. And in Salerno's cathedral, although the forecourt with its borrowed Roman columns still shows some signs of shell fire, the guide points happily to mementos of the great Pope Hildebrand and the superb mosaics of the time of Ferdinand of Henenstauffen.

Salerno and the countryside are restored again. The scars of war are cleaned away. The peasants labor to make 10 square yards of arable earth by building 10 square yards of wall to hold the land against the mountainside. The figs, the lemons and the oranges are fruiting in the sun on every terrace. The lights of the fishing fleets twinkle numerously in every bay at dusk. And only the empty resort hotels, vacant because none but Americans can afford to travel, hint of the catastrophe of bankruptcy that menaces western Europe.

The lesson is extremely simple. The Italians work. They work in the factories of Milan and Turin, in the smiling Tuscan countryside, or on the sharp slopes of south Italy. By work they have got their country going again, so that industrial production has risen from 25 per cent of prewar to 70 per cent, while farm output has increased from 60 per cent of prewar to 80 percent.

THIS NATIONAL production must provide, however, for a population increased by nearly three millions since 1940, so that the level of individual life is still far below what it was in the prewar period. It is, in fact, something like an internment camp. The ration of 200 grams of bread a day provides the bulk of the individual Italian's substance. The trimmings—the oil, fish, fruit, cheese and scraps of meat—are obtained in tiny quantities at staggering prices on the black market, or often from relatives who own farms. It is because the level of life is still so low that the Communist Party retains important strength.

And in raising the level of life, everything depends on two things. There must be dollars from the United States, to provide wheat for bread, fertilizer for the long unfertilized fields and coal and raw materials for the factories. And we must somehow prevent the world economic collapse which would cut off the Italian export (as well as our own). Disaster will come in Italy if the dollars are lacking or world economic chaos is permitted to occur.

The specific needs of Italy are, moreover, fairly moderate in total. Securing wheat allocations from the world pool (a vital subject which must be dealt with later at greater length) will actually be harder than making the needed dollars available. In very brief terms, the Italian government has asked Washington for 250 million dollars to cover the deficit for the rest of this year, and for a descending scale of reconstruction credits for four years thereafter. These sums to put Italy on her feet amount to 825 million dollars for 1948, 710 million for 1949, 410 million for 1950, and 130 million for 1951.

The amounts are considerable, but they are also approximately one fortieth of the cost to the American taxpayer of another 20 billion dollars annually for national defense. And the incomparable myopia of a Kenneth Wherry—surely an important case for politico-medical history—is needed not to see that tripling the cost of the national defense will be the first result of letting western Europe slip into the Soviet sphere.

Stassen Warns Of War Risk In Veto Fight

Cleveland, Sept. 23 (AP).—Harold E. Stassen today urged the United Nations to shift its debate to the economic arena—to avert a menace of a Russo-American war—and he called for a special session of Congress "before the end of 1947" on the Marshall Plan for aid to Europe.

If this country insists on abolition of the veto power to the point where Russia quits the United Nations, the candidate for the Republican presidential nomination said the U. N. will be changed from "an organization for peace to an alliance for war."

Masons Urged To Study, Act On Ideologies

Cincinnati, Sept. 23 (AP).—Masons of the world were urged today by D. Melvin M. Johnson of Boston to study how communism, fascism and socialism compare with democracy and then to "awake into activity to recognize, disseminate and vindicate those fundamental principles of human relationships upon which rest liberty, justice, neighborliness and peace."

Johnson, sovereign grand commander, supreme council, thirty-third degree Masons, told the 135th annual meeting of the order that unless Masons "awake into activity . . . we shall degenerate into a society of spectators who sit by the side of the road and watch the world go by."

Fall of Suichung To Communists Worries Nanking

Nanking, Sept. 23 (AP).—The nationalist government looked northward today in expectancy of increased activity in the civil war with Communists.

Nationalist quarters termed a "serious development" the Communist capture of Suichung, a town on the Peiping-Mukden Railway, which has been a government lifeline during the Manchurian fighting.

The Peoples Political Council standing committee urged abolition of the Japanese imperial system and the appointment of a permanent four-power commission to supervise the peace treaty.

In Sinkiang, Gen. Chaing Chi-chung, representative of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, offered the opinion that all that was needed to soothe the "powder keg" internal situation was a "strong application of practical democracy."

Belgian Shops Strike

Brussels, Sept. 23 (AP).—Belgian shopkeepers started a 48-hour strike today in protest against government measures reinforcing control of food prices. However, a few of the larger department stores remained open under police guard. Grocers, bakers, butchers and fishmongers led the walkout. Food ministry controllers had ordered the temporary closing of 865 shops and the permanent closing of 1512 for violations in August.

The Gallup Poll

Most Voters Back Marshall In His Firm Stand on Greece

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 23.—Secretary of State Marshall's call for United Nations action on Greece is closely in tune with American public thinking.

A survey of public opinion completed by the institute only a few days before Secretary Marshall spoke at the U. N. Assembly a week ago shows that the majority of American voters favor firm action in combating Russian influence in the Balkans, and that the possibility of Russia developing atom bombs does not change attitudes substantially.

The Secretary disclosed that Washington would ask the U. N. Assembly to condemn activities of Russian satellite countries in Greece, to demand that these activities cease and to set up a commission to oversee compliance.

Do these demands reflect the tone and spirit of American public sentiment? One answer is provided in the results of the institute's poll. Four alternatives were presented to voters from coast to coast, and each respondent was asked which alternative appealed most to him as the course of action he would like to see taken.

The poll question, and the vote on each alternative follow:

"As you know, the United States is now sending military supplies and other aid to Greece to keep her and neighboring countries from coming under Russia's control. If we find within the next few weeks that this help is not enough, which one of these steps do you think we should take?"

1. Let Russia control Greece and any other countries she wants to 4%
2. Let Russia control Greece but plan to stop Russia from getting control of any other countries later on 6
3. In cooperation with the United Nations organization, send U. S. troops to patrol the Greek border to stop armed men from coming into the country to make trouble 28
4. In cooperation with the United Nations, tell Russia that any further move into Greece will be considered a declaration of war against the rest of the world 40

The first two alternatives, representing comparatively mild, "live-and-let-live" attitudes, total 10 per cent, whereas the third and fourth total 68 per cent—a ratio of nearly 7 to 1. The weight of opinion, judging by this survey, is heavily on the side of firmness in our policy concerning Greece.

Sentiment for such firmness is especially heavy in the upper education levels. A considerably greater proportion of voters who have had college training vote for alternatives three and four, than of voters who have had only grade school or no schooling.

The poll results by degree of education follow:

	College	High School	Grade or No School
Alternative 1	3%	3%	5%
Alt. 2	3	6	7
Alt. 3	32	31	26
Alt. 4	44	42	37
Misc.	11	4	4
No opin.	7	14	21

An interesting sidelight of the survey is that the people interviewed indicate that they would not greatly change their fundamental attitude if Russia were to have atomic bombs within the next year.

In order to determine what effect such a possibility would have on opinion concerning Greece, the institute asked the same voters, in a second question, what they favored doing if Russia does develop atomic bombs of her own. The question was:

"Some experts say that Russia will have atomic bombs in about a year. If she does, our advantage of being the only country that makes atomic bombs would end one year from now. In view of this, which of the four steps do you think we should take NOW concerning the present situation in Greece?

Alternative 1	3%
Alternative 2	4
Alternative 3	24
Alternative 4	46

The current public attitudes is not a new development. A good many polls conducted in the past by the institute and by other polling organizations have found the people in a mood for firmness in our dealings with Russia.

Last February, shortly after Mr. Marshall took office as Secretary of State, the institute polled the people on the question of whether he should be firmer or softer than his predecessor, James F. Byrnes, in dealing with Russia.

The vote, as reported February 21, showed the weight of opinion on the side of a firmer policy. A total of 51 per cent said they would like to see him follow a firmer policy than Mr. Byrnes, while only 5 per cent favored a softer policy. 19 per cent wanted Marshall to continue in about the same vein as Mr. Byrnes, and 25 per cent expressed no opinion.

how much are you getting when you pay your paper bill?

THE answer for Washington Post readers is: "More than anyone else."

Because the figures show that readers of The Washington Post get more lines of news and features than readers of any other Washington newspaper.

Take the latest available figures on news and features in 1947 for example

—the eight months from January through August:

The Washington Post	10,628,058 lines
The Times Herald	10,342,416 lines
The Star	9,548,561 lines
The News (no Sunday edition)	3,865,880 lines

("News and features" here include everything other than advertising: news, features, editorials, comics, photographs and Sunday supplement material. Statistics supplied by Media Records, Inc., which measures news and advertising linage for all newspapers in Washington and most major cities.)

You not only get more reading matter for the money you pay your Post carrier. You also get more now than last year—considerably more. Here are the comparative figures for lines of news and features published in the same periods of 1947 and 1946:

The Washington Post	1,266,040 more in 1947
The Star	385,822 more in 1947
The Times-Herald	51,504 more in 1947
The News	50,327 more in 1947

Again your judgment in selecting The Washington Post is vindicated by the facts! It's the best buy for your newspaper subscription money.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—The symptoms are plain, and college football is ailing in California, once the supposedly impregnable citadel of the college game. The impact of the pro leagues not only has been felt, it's hurting. Perhaps no more than a trifle right now, but the pains are getting sharper. In a couple of years the schools may be sighing for the good old lush times when they had no competition from the pros.

POVICH

The San Francisco Forty-Niners and the New York Yankees of the All-America Conference packed 32,800 customers into Kezar Stadium the other day. On the same Sunday afternoon, the colorful St. Mary's Gaels, with the Nation's most publicized college back on their team, the Hawaiian Herman Wedemeyer, drew only 15,000 at nearby Oakland against Portland University. Discount Portland as a weak attraction, maybe, but the pros at least cut in on 52,000 potential customers of the college teams.

More significant, perhaps, was the fact that the day before the pros met in Kezar Stadium, the University of California opened its season against the popular Santa Clara team at Berkeley. They drew some 33,000 fans, including students. It was far below California's per game average of 57,000 last season. The answer was obvious enough. On the other side of town, the next day, two good pro clubs were playing.

ALL THE FOOTBALL fans of San Francisco and its suburbs are not rich enough to afford two football games in two days. Last weekend, they had to make a choice between California-Santa Clara and the Yankees-Forty-Niners. The pros, with Buddy Young and Spec Sanders in the Yankee line-up, and the two California favorites, Frankie Albert and Norm Standlee playing for the Forty-Niners, proved the more potent lure.

Another factor was the admission prices. California was asking $3 prices for its game with Santa Clara. The colleges justify that figure by pointing out that their football receipts must pay the way for their other sports. But the pros would let you in for a buck, if you didn't choose to buy a fancier seat. The colleges have forgotten all about the dollar seat. Theretofore, it was too easy to get three and four bucks. The pros recognize that attraction of the dollar admission price, at least in the All-American Conference they do.

At the college contest, the fans saw two teams bungling through their opening game, with the coaches later admitting freely that it was full of mistakes. But the pro fans saw a bang-up 21-16 contest between two big, smartly drilled, hard-hitting teams, with several games already under their belts. If there were no marching bands or acrobatic cheer leaders, it did not appear that they were sorely missed.

IN THE southern part of the State, the college people are already conscious of the inroads of the pros on their gate receipts, or they ought to be. The customers' money pockets are not bottomless. In Los Angeles, the pros have already played a half dozen games drawing big crowds. Two of their games drew crowds of more than 80,000. It's plain that the potential customers of Southern California and UCLA spent a lot of their football money on the pros.

They used to laugh down pro football in California, particularly Los Angeles, saying the city was so college-ball-conscious that the pros couldn't make a go of it. But the pros are in, and going townward. Southern Cal and UCLA may still sell out their big stadiums, but it won't be so easy, and perhaps they won't sell out.

There will be a pretty good test in Los Angeles in mid-November. That's when Southern Cal plays Stanford on a Saturday. But the collegians won't be operating the only wheel in town. The next day, in the same coliseum, the Chicago Bears move in to play the Los Angeles Rams. Many a Los Angeles fan will have to make a choice between those two games. All of them can't afford both. The Bears always draw, and if the Rams are still in a contending position by that date they'll draw heavily from what used to be the college clientele.

The college people can take warning from what happened in a couple of other towns. With the coming of the Redskins to Washington, college football got an awful jolt. The pro people may say that they complement the college game by arousing football interest generally, but that's nonsense. They cash in on the interest they generate and leave the colleges with the leavings.

It was always hard sledding for Georgetown, George Washington and Maryland in Washington anyway. In too many seasons, they didn't have the good football teams or the good schedules. It's rougher on them since the Redskins moved in to soak up the major football interest of the city with their presentation of headline stars the town never would have seen, except for the pros.

Look at what happened in Pittsburgh. Pitt used to fill its big stadium regularly. When the caliber of football at Pitt dropped, the Steelers came along to capture the town's chief football interest. The Steelers this year have sold 30,000 season tickets to each of their games. Pittsburgh wasn't supposed to be a good pro football town. And California wasn't supposed to be a good pro football State. It's time to own up.

So Says Mr. Edwards

Skins Can Run Wide If Foes Only Draw in Their Defense

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

The football know-it-alls who haven't let three Redskin exhibition losses bother them, confidently predicting that—"the Redskins are saving something for the regular season," can pull in their necks now.

What Redskin fans have seen and heard of Washington's National Football League team so far is about all there is.

So says Turk Edwards, head coach of the Tribe and a gent who can be depended on for a complete account of his team if a complete account doesn't hurt the team's chances.

"We'll play the Eagles in our league opener Sunday in Philadelphia," Turk says with an eye on the ticket counter "just about like we played in losing to the Rams, Bears and Packers and winning from the Lions. No new, spectacular plays. No uncovering of unsuspected talent."

In Answer to a Query

The statement resulted from a query about end runs. To date the Redskins have sent almost all their ball-carriers, powerful and deceptive alike, at spots inside the opposing tackles.

In a 28-7 lacing by the Chicago Bears the only end run was unintentionally credited to Quarterback Jimmy Youel, who was trapped in an attempted pass and took off like a startled antelope for the right sideline. He was as surprised as anyone when his dash netted 15 yards.

Sunday at Baltimore, during a 31-21 defeat by Green Bay, there was also a single dash around end. That was made by Sammy Baugh, who found himself in the same spot as Youel. His effort was good for a minus 1 yard and lucky at that. He was almost tackled 15 yards behind the line of scrimmage.

Its been the same way for several seasons. "Inside" running has been the order of the day.

"That's just because our offense is set up to match the other team's defense," Edwards says. "Every team has the same defense against us—men outside our ends—so we hit their weakest spot, the middle."

But the Redskins can change. With a slightly different defense against them, they can become the end-runningest team you ever saw.

"We've got the men for it," Turk boasts. "Right now we're sticking to the T-formation equivalent of an end run, a lateral pass to the man in motion, but we've got Dick Todd, George Wilde, Bob DeFruiter and Eddie Saenz to send out to outrun their wingmen. Just let those wide men come in a little closer . . ."

As long as Baugh, the top "slinger" of them all, is around Turk isn't worried about his team's prospects this season. To the charge that the 1947 'Skins, like every other Redskin team since 1937, is a one-man club, Turk confesses:

"Sure, but what good team isn't a one-man club? Imagine the Bears without Luckman, the Rams without Waterfield, etc.? Let's just hope our 'one man' stays in good health. He's the big thing we're 'saving' for the regular season."

Waivers Asked On Andy Uram

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 23 (AP).—The Green Bay Packers of the National Football League asked waivers on four players today, including Andy Uram, former Minnesota and Packer halfback who came out of retirement this year to attempt a comeback. The other three, all guards, were Howard Tollefson of St. Norbert's College; Wilber Collins of Tulsa, and Monte Mongrief, who played tackle at Texas A. and M. last year.

Packer Coach Curly Lambeau also announced the signing of former Chicago Bear Guard Aldo Forte as preparations continued for the Packers' season opener against the Chicago Bears here Sunday.

Nats Sell Joe Grace To Pirates

By Morris Siegal
Post Reporter

Outfielder Joe Grace has been sold to the Pittsburgh Pirates for the $10,000 waiver price, Nat Owner Clark Griffith announced last night.

Grace, who has been out of the lineup for the past two weeks with a bad leg, will not join the National Leaguers until next spring. Pirate officials ordered Grace to return to his home in Gorham, Ill., and report to Miami Beach for spring training.

The 32-year-old outfielder, a converted catcher, came to the Nats in June, 1946, from the Browns as part of a deal which sent Jeff Heath to St. Louis. He batted .278 in 125 games in his first year out of the Navy.

Idle for 2 Weeks

This season, alternating with Sherry Robertson, Tom McBride and George Case in leftfild, he hit .244 in 78 games. He was hit on the shins by a foul fall two weeks ago in Philadelphia ad has been out of the lineup since.

The sale of Grace does not mean a wholesale shakeup is in order for the 7th place Nats, Griffith said.

"We'll make some changes from time to time," he added. "We'll drafts some players from the minors and do business with any team we feel that can help us, but we're not planning any wholesale changes."

Griffith would not say that the sale of Grace meant the Gil Coan, up from Chattanooga again, is set to be the Nat leftfielder in 1948.

"Coan has been hitting well since he's joined us and we'd like to believe he's ready for the big leagues," he added, "but that's something we'll have to see next spring."

Second to Leave

Before yesterday's twin bill with the Yankees, Coan, who hit .339 or Chattanooga this year, was banging away at a .630 clip for the Nats.

Grace is the second outfielder to leave the Nats in the past two months, Speed merchant George Case asked to be placed on the voluntary retired list when an old back injury cropped up again.

At Pittsburg, Grace will join two old friends, former Nat Pitcher Roger Wolff, whom the Bucs obtained from Cleveland, and Manager Billy Herman, with whom Grace played at Great Lakes Naval Station when both were in the service.

Grace's departure leaves the Nats with Stan Spence, Buddy Lewis, Sherry Robertson, Tom McBride and Rookies Coan and Earl Wooten for outfield duty.

Louise Suggs Wins, 6 and 4

Detroit, Sept. 23 (AP).—Piling up a four-hole lead in the first five holes, tiny Louise Suggs, tournament medalist from Lithia Springs, Ga., defeated Dorothy Ellis, Indianapolis school teacher, 6 and 4 in their first round match today in the women's National amateur golf championship at Franklin Hills Country Club.

Firing an outgoing 40 to Miss Ellis' 44, the little Georgian was two over par for the 14 holes their match went. Miss Suggs thus overcame a first-round jinx that put her out of last year's championship in her first match with Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, Texas.

In the frigid temperature on the wind-swept 6400-yard layout, Miss Suggs had two birdies on the 14 holes, one of them on a 60-foot-putt, and was over par on four holes.

Sally Sessions of Muskegon, the 1946 Michigan champion, also advanced to the second round with a 4 and 2 win over Mrs. John A. McDougald of Toronto, Ont.

Bosses Mum About Herman

Pittsburgh, Sept. 23 (AP).—The surgeons began probing the Pittsburgh Pirate ills today, but temporarily kept mum on whether amputation of Manager Bill Herman from the payroll will be deemed necessary to effect a cure.

The men who must decide to wield the knife or give Herman a chance to finish his two-year contract are the Bucco owners, gathered here today for a week-long diagnosis. They already have spent more than a million dollars in an unsuccessful effort to improve the standing of the seventh-place club they took over last year.

Club President Frank E. McKinney said:

"There's no indication of Herman's status being in jeopardy until a full examination of the causes for the club's poor showing is made. Then, wherever the chips fall, there's where they will lie."

The primary order of business in the current meeting is a review of the farm system, McKinney said, indicating that Herman's case is only incidental.

Asked about Hank Greenberg's 1948 prospects, McKinney replied:

"If he plays ball next year, we have reason to believe he will play here. However, one year was the extent of his obligation to us."

Ken Stribling will shoot for his seventh straight knockout when he meets Irish Billy Cooper, Patterson, N. J. middleweight, at Turner's Arena next Monday night.

Stribling hopes to supplant Smuggy Hursey as the number one drawing card in the District and a win over the New Jersey battler would be a step in that direction.

Young Shea And Reynolds Spank Nats

New York, Sept. 23.—The Nats played the part of perfect guinea pigs for the Yankees today, dropping a twin bill to the American League champions and furnishing conclusive proof to Manager Bucky Harris that his World Series pitching is in excellent shape for the Dodgers.

Allie Reynolds, who hurled a shutout last week, pitched eight more scoreless innings in the opener today before he was relieved by Fireman Joe Page, whose one-inning chore completed a 2-0 victory.

Kiner Hits No. 51

Pittsburgh, Sept. 23 (AP).—Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder, tonight forged ahead of Johnny Mize of the New York Giants in the home run derby as he banged his 51st home run with none aboard in the sixth inning of the Pittsburgh-St. Louis game. St. Louis led, 5-2, in the eighth.

In an American League night game the St. Louis Browns led Cleveland, 4-3, in the seventh, at St. Louis.

Dodgers Tune Up for Series, Whip Giants on Robinson Day

Brooklyn, Sept. 25 (AP).—Brooklyn celebrated its newly-clinched National League championship before the home folks today, clubbing the New York Giants, 6-1, on Jackie Robinson Day. St. Louis had eliminated itself from any mathematical chance last night by bowing to Chicago.

With the pressure off, the Dodgers had little trouble snapping their three-game losing streak as Joe Hatten warmed up for the World Series in impressive style with a five-inning stint during which he allowed only three hits including Bobby Thomson's first-inning homer. It was Thomson's twenty-eighth, running the Giants' consecutive game homer streak to 19. Dan Bankhead finished up the game for the Brooks.

Robinson, who was given a new automobile, a television set, $500 watch, an inter-racial good will plaque and cash gifts before the game, went hitless in two trips before he was replaced by Ed Stevens, a rookie from Montreal.

Spider Jorgensen delivered a two-run single in the fourth inning off Sheldon Jones and the Brooks never yielded the lead. Four runs in the seventh clubbed Jones from the hill and brought in Hooks Iott. It was Hatten's seventeenth win, his first over a first division club and Jones' second loss.

Grange, Thorpe on Same Field Leave Kid Gridders Pop-Eyed

By Jerry Liska

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—Jim Thorpe and Red Grange still leave 'em popeyed when they trot on the field.

The fact that this legendary football pair can't do much more than trot now, doesn't erase the awed wonder of their present-day fans, a couple of generations removed—the youngsters who play in the Chicago Sports Association's kid league.

Grange, Thorpe and members of the Chicago Bears and Cardinals help coach the lads, who range between 12 and 15 years old.

Some of the kids heard about Grange and Thorpe from their dads and some even from their granddads, but yesterday they gathered around the two grid immortals with the same autograph-hunting enthusiasm they would accord a Blanchard, or a Davis or a Trippi.

The occasion was Grange's launching of his fifth season at part time coaching in the league whose six teams play between halves of Bear and Cardinal games.

Grange Sells Insurance

Grange, a thick-set insurance salesman of 44, brought the 60-year-old and currently-unemployed Thorpe along for perhaps a nostalgic whiff of the gridiron. Big Jim beamed as the kids cluttered around him and asked for his pet plays. He said he'd come again, perhaps like Grange does, to help coach twice a week.

Grange, never-to-be-forgotten "Galloping Ghost" of Illinois, and Thorpe, the wonder-of-football-wonders from little Carlisle Institute, loped up and down the field with the kids.

"We're not in such bad shape—or are we," grinned the portly Thorpe to 210-pound Grange, who is some 35 pound sover his Illini playing weight.

Thorpe Gives Lectures

Thorpe calls Chicago his home now, after working as a movie extra, ditch-digger and industrial plant guard at various other places. His chief occupation now is giving occasional lectures.

Grange keeps a hand in football also with two radio appearances a week and this season will help broadcast games in Memorial Stadium at Champaign, Ill., the huge bowl he dedicated with his unforgettable performance of four touchdowns in 12 minutes against Michigan in 1924.

"Me coach?" Grange replied to a question on the subject. "I'd probably die in three years. That's too tough a business for me."

Newhouser Wins 16th, 4-1

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—Hal Newhouser used his sixteenth win of the season to pitch the Detroit Tigers back into undisputed possession of second place in American League standings with a 4 to 1 win triumph over the Chicago White Sox before 942 chilled cash customers today.

Newhouser allowed 10 singles but did not give up a run until the ninth.

Detroit tagged Eddie Lopat for two runs in the second then two more in the eighth. Newhouser's scratch single and Eddie Lake's force play grounder produced the first runs. Bob Swift's single with the bases loaded and only one out accounted for the final pair.

Hirsch Okays Special Race

New York, Sept. 23 (AP).—Assault was frisking around Belmont like a young fellow feeling his oats today so Trainer Maxie Hirsch, who cast his vote overnight against running in Saturday's $100,000 match race against Armed, changed his mind again and decided to run.

It wasn't only that the Clubfoot Comet kicked around and acted up during his morning jog. Bunt some of the boys dropped in on Max as well in the hopes of getting him to reverse his field about this race-of-the-year, which has been off and on more in the past month than a pair of socks. So the race is "on" again.

Maxie agreed that if Warren Wright, the Chicago, and Lexington, Ky., horseman who owns Armed, still wanted to race, he'd give the green light.

Then Robert J. Kleberg, jr. the Texan who owns Assault checked in at Belmont from Wilmington, Del., held a hurried huddle with Hirsch and sat dow in a 10-minute conference with Wright and George D. Widener, boss of Belmont.

Coaches Will Be Hired to End Rout of Its Team

By Bill Macklin

London, Sept. 23 (AP).—Displaying official concern over the post-war showing of its athletes, Britain's government announced today it was subsidizing sports training in a bid to stop the roue of British teams in international competition.

The Ministry of Education said two coaches alredy hd been appointed by the Amateur Athletic Association and a third had been arranged under the scheme, in which the government pays most of the cost.

In addition, the Ministry said, it is prepared "to make a grant towards the cost of appinting 25 to 30 regional coaches to national sports organizations."

Although declining to state the exact amount of the grant, the Ministry said it would pay up to 80 per cent of the coaches' salaries.

Organizations Can't Afford It

"We decided on the plan because we feel there is definte need for paid coaches in sport—nd because the organizations running sports cannot afford to pay them," a Ministry spokesman explained.

"Britain is out to overtake the rest of the world in sport," said the London Star, which estimated the plan would cost the government about 18,000 pounds ($72,000) a year.

Repeated setbacks of British teams and individual athletes since the war has brought pleas from sports writers that government help the cause of British athletic prestige as done in other European countries.

One newspaper even suggested that a minister of sport be appointed to th ecabinet.

Revolutionary Step in Golf

Meanwhile, British golfdom announced the inauguration of a revolutionary type of tournament in an effort to lift the status of the British amateur to a par with Americans.

Amateurs will be teamed with professionals in a best-ball match-play tournament inspired by the dismal showing the Britons in their own amateur championships and the Walker Cup matches with the United States.

It will be held September 29 to October 1 on the seaside, sand-dumed Birkdale Golf Club course, scene of the British amateur championship in 1946.

The London Daily Telegraph, whose golf editor, Leonard Crawley played on the British Walker Cup team that lost to the Americans, 8-4, this year, put up 2000 guineas (08400) in prizes to lure the professionals into the tourney, unprecedented in this country.

Walker, Ryder Cup Players

First prize will be 600 pounds sterling ($2400), the second largest purse available in Britain. It goes to the pro on the winning team, with the amateur of the combination to receive a cup, plus the experience of competition with and against professionals.

Most British Walker Cup and Ryder Cup players will be included in the field of 32 pro-amateur teams. Names were drawn ont out a hat to determine partners.

Henry Cotton, British match play champion and captain of the Ryder Cup team that sails for the United States next month, was teamed with Charlie Stone, a Walker Cupper. They rank as ahe tournament favorites.

Other well-liked combinations include British Open Champion Fred Daly and Cecil Ewing and Charlie Ward and Ronnie White. Daly and Ward are on the Ryder Cup team while Ewing and White were on the last Walker Cup squad.

Raba of Hoyas Has Air Duel On His Hands

There should be enough flying footballs in the air to revive the saucer scarce at Wake Forest, N. C., Saturday, when Georgetown opens its 1947 season against the Deacons.

No less than 10 highly vaunted passing aces will participate in what should be a strictly guided-missile clash. Most of the Hoya tosses probably will come from T-formation Quarterback Elmer Raba, whose work in pre-season drills has him rated a quick-thinking, triple-threat performer.

An Old Score to Settle

Field General Raba has a score to settle in this contest. He suffered a leg injury which kept him out of action for the rest of the season in the opener against the Deacons last year.

Four more tossing artists who will back up Raba are Bob Barry, Lou Miller, Jack McTamney and Babe Baranowski.

Coach "Peahead" Walker of Wake Forest has his own aerial quintet to throw against the air-minded Hoyas. Foremost of these is little Tom Fetzer, a triple-threater, who is making the Deacons forget to moan about losing the Sacrinty brothers. Fetzer's four passing assistants are Bill Gregus, Tom DiTomo, Bud Lail and Ken Wheeler.

And Good Receivers, Too

Pass receivers for all these tosses aren't lacking. Georgetown will start Franny Desmond and Al Sarashevitz at end. Big George Benigni, track star Bill Dzugan, Art Schult and Larry Koncelik give the Hilltoppers able reserve flankers.

The Deacons will toss to John O'Quinn, a shifty, 190-pound end who was rated the fourth best receiver in the nation last year.

A battle for defensive honors is in prospect between Hoya Guard Bus Werder and Deacon Back Nick Ognovich. Werder is a candidate for All-American honors. Ognovich, twice won the Jacobs trophy for blocking supremacy in the Southern Conference, and is rated by southern coaches the best defensive man in that section.

Dear Folks:

This is get-away day here and the final program of the successful minor track season. I'm making Fittstown my get-away special. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. For instance, the swamp fever precautions will keep many owners from shipping their horses to Maryland's big tracks. However, that will work to the advantage of owners who already have their charges in this State. So the steeds who have been racing here and at other small tracks will have their innings. Incidentally, the minor track horses always draw a lot of betting money when lined up on the big time. The customers here are still arguing about the disqualification of Dusty Moments here Monday. It is seldom a 2-year-old is taken down for bolting coming out of the gate. This was the second time it has happened. Jockey Romaine was suspended when the same youngster bumped horses at Charles Town. I'll see you on the rail at Laurel next week.—Bill.

7000 See Blue April Run Second

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Marlboro, Md., Sept. 23.—Chrys-Doll, winner of six races in New Jersey this summer, five in a row, went slumming today and ran off with the Jessup Purse, best offering on the Tuesday program. Racing in the colors of Mrs. V. D. Waple, Chrys-Doll bounded to the front and coasted home four lengths in front of the closest opposition.

J. T. Harris' Blue April was second and a length in advance of Miss C. Waggoner's French Nine in the field of six.

A crowd of 7000 installed Chrys-Doll as an odds-on favorite and she clicked to the tune of a $3 mutuel. Running over a slow track but under clear, autumn skies she was clocked in 1:09 2/5 for the 5½ furlongs.

Jockey Patsy Grant rode the winner and had him on top in the first stride. From that point to the end they were chasing the favorite. Dainger Girl and Larkaround, who drew some steady play, were weakened by trying to catch the leader and the place and show went to the long shots.

The daily double on the 5 and 1 combination paid a healthy $91.60. Danny Galotta's Chalpre was a surprise winner of the second race under good handling by Apprentice Ray Drury who brought the big horse home at $15.20. Pinkney Cross' Cutty Steel was second and C. R. Linton's Trylet was third in the field of eight.

Jockey Sammy Palumbo rode the first winner. He was aboard W. M. Richardson's Electric and scored by 2½ lengths. This winner paid $6.20. Jockey Truschka escaped injury when Matoaka stumbled and unseated him after the opening eighth-mile.

Howard Aims For 1st CIAA Grid Claim

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

AFTER 16 YEARS of losing football teams, Howard University's Bisons finished with a winning record last season.

Under Coach Eddie Jackson, the Bisons were the surprise of the Colored Intercollegiate Athletic Association Conference as they won six games against three defeats to finish fourth in the 16-team loop.

With 28 lettermen returning plus a host of promising newcomers, Howard is primed for the most successful season in its gridiron history.

Leading the Bisons this fall will be 158-pound Center Jug Marshall, a little bundle of tackling dynamite who backs up a line as efficiently as a 200-pounder. A leading student at Dunbar High School, Marshall never played football before entering Howard in 1945.

At the guards, Howard has Otto Jordan, Cleo Williams, Bennie Batts, Flip Phillips and Bill Hargis, while Zack Alexander, Ed Jones, Sam Jordan, Bill Brown, Buster Fitzgerald and Art Hadley are veteran tackles.

FOUR EXPERIENCED ends, Tank Banner, Jim Spencer, Bill Hall and Nat Fisher should be able to hold off any thrusts at the flanks, and Jim Thompson will be Captain Marshall's relief at the center position.

Advance reports tab Hillary Thompson of Washington, Earl Spruill and Ernie Davis, New Jersey, and Harry Johnson, New York, as the new backs to watch.

With the taste of last year's victorious record, the Howard Bison will be out to top the CIAA Conference for the first time this season. It has the size, experience and speed to do it.

Nats Drop 2 Games to N. Y.

Rookie Frank Shea a test of equal length and the precocious freshman, complemented by another one-inning relief stint by Page, beat the Nats, 2-1.

Robertson Only One to Score

Shea, in scoring his fourteenth triumph of the season, had a one-hitter going until Sperry Robertson doubled at the top of the eighth and came in for the Nats' only score of the day on a pair of infield outs.

Reynolds, who is having his best year with 19 victories, had to pitch tight baseball in the opener, since Walt Masterson matched shutout innings with the Oklahoma Indian for seven innings, before giving up a single to Bobby Brown, a double to Pinch-hitter Phil Rizzuto, a pass to Lonnie Frey and hitting Tommy Henrich on the left arm with a pitched ball for two runs.

Little Mickey Haefner, despite dropping his fourteenth game against nine wins, also pitched creditably in the nightcap. He made two mistakes, both homerun pitches, and that was the ball game as the Nats ended their season's activities against the Yankees before the season's smallest stadium crowd of 5475.

No. 20 for DiMaggio

Joe DiMaggio, who had been having difficulty putting wood to the ball, awoke with a bang in the fourth and gave the Yanks a 1-0 lead with his twentieth circuit clout of the season and his ninety-fifth run batted in.

In the seventh, the Yankees added two more tallies when Jackie Phillips, filling in for George McQuinn at first base, walked and rode home ahead of Billy Johnson, who whacked his tenth homer of the campaign.

The nightcap even saw Gil Coan stopped after hitting safely in six consecutive games since being recalled from Chattanooga. Coan reached Reynolds for a single and double in the opener to give him 14 hits in 24 at bats, but after being passed by Shea in his first time at bat in the nightcap, Coan failed to get the ball out of the infield in three tries.

Only 17 on Squad

Woodward Changes Policy, Putting Coach on Hot Spot

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

JOHN R. LEAHY, former physical education instructor at Longfellow School for Boys, has inherited perhaps the hottest football coaching job in Washington.

Since last month, he has been head football coach at Woodward Prep, a job that would have been the envy of all the other schoolboy pilots a year ago. But not now.

Woodward, a YMCA institution, had a reputation for luring local high school graduates with good athletic backgrounds to its classes with athletic scholarships.

During the past year, the schoolboy stars treked there in droves, and as a result, Woodward fielded the best prep school basketball and baseball teams in the area.

It was believed that the Woodward football team would also be loaded this season, so a first class schedule was drawn up to include Chamberlain Vocational, Devitt Prep, Bullis Prep, Montgomery Junior College, Mt. Vernon High and Charlotte Hall Military Academy.

However, during the summer, the school's officials altered the scholarship policy, and most of the stars withdrew. Pat Gill, coach at Woodward for two years, resigned, and in his place came Leahy.

PROSPECTS AREN'T too rosy for Leahy and his team, for though the stars are gone, that tough schedule remains.

Whereas most of the teams Woodward will face this season, will have 35 and 45 man squads, Woodward will uniform 17. These are the same boys who reported for the first practice session a month ago, and only four have football experience.

Two are Guards Bob Pearson and Ed Thompson, both 165 pounders. Pearson is the only holdover from last year's team.

He and Halfback Tommy Adams formerly played at Anacostia High as second stringers. The fourth veteran is Halfback Duke Warren, who was once a member of the Roosevelt High squad.

Those who will start the season at ends are Ed Latch, Allen Vicory and Ebbit St. Clair. Vicory will also see action at guard alongside Sam Downs since Downs is the only guard candidate.

At tackle are Emile Bouchard and Jim Long, both 190 pounders, and at center are Jim Burey and Joe Crute. With Adams and Warren in the backfield are Don Raymond, Jim Hinkle, Pat Tanner, Charles Ogden, John Withers and Murray Russell.

That is Woodward's entire squad. Leahy's football coaching experience, which stems from his playing experience at Stroudsburg, Pa., State Teachers College, will be taxed aplenty to give Woodward a winning team.

Twenty-eight-year-old Leahy, who stands 5 feet, 9 inches, and weighs 209 pounds, will also teach seventh grade classes at Woodward.

Indians Cancel A. U. Cage Game

R. N. (Rube) McCray, athletic director at the College of William and Mary, yesterday announced that his December 6 basketball game with American University had been cancelled.

McCray's announcement followed charges by Basketball Coach Carl Wise of Washington and Lee that two of his players, Don Hillock and Reggie Crockett, plus Robert (Pete) Negley of North Carolina State, had been "lured" to American University.

Virginia Tech and the University of Virginia, with whom American U. also has scheduled games, were reportedly considering cancellation.

The Washington Sports Club is organizing a soccer team to participate in the Baltimore League. Candidates are urged to report to the Gonzaga Field, 34th and Benning rd. ne., 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

Boston, Sept. 23 (AP).—After being held to five hits by Phil Marchildon for a 9-3 setback in the opener, the dethroned Boston Red Sox said their 1947 farewells with a 6-5 victory today while splitting a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Athletics.

One of the Boston first-game hits was Ted Williams' thirty-first home with none on in the fifth inning.

Rookie Charlie Stobbs of Norfolk, Va., started the opener for the Sockers but left in the second inning when the Athletics pounded him for four hits and three runs. They collected two more tallies in the third, a sixth run in the fifth and three more in the sixth.

Cincinnati, Sept. 23 (AP).—Scoring all their runs in the fourth inning, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 7-2, before 1311 fans today as Hank Wyse turned in a six-hitter for his sixth victory of the year. Cincinnati needs one victory to clinch fifth place in the standings.

Quantico Evens Navy Series, 5 to 2

Quantico, Va., Sept. 23.—The Quantico Marines evened the Navy World Series at one game apiece here today, capitalizing on San Diego's erratic play to win, 5-2.

The West Coast sailors won the first of the five-game series, 15-0, Sunday but played loosely today despite the fact they outhit the winners in the unseasonable weather.

Bucky Loomis pitched the triumph and was helped by Al Horak who had two for four and Ray Cox who belted a triple and a double in four tries.

Aid Europe Plan Would Make Many More Jobs

Maybe Thousands, Says One Expert; Another Figures Only 'Hundreds'

By Jerry Kluttz

The Marshall Plan—what impact will it have on Federal personnel and activities if it's approved by the Congress? This important question is being debated througout the Administration.

Kluttz

The experts agree that the plan's approval would result in some expansion of work and people. They disagree to the extent, however. One official I talked with yesterday estimated only a few hundred additional people would be needed to carry out the plan. He said these increases would be made in the staffs of State, Agriculture, Federal Supply, Army and Navy—the agencies that are administering the Greek-Turkish and post-UNRRA relief programs. He added that the employes on this work would have to be laid off unless the Marshall Plan, or something akin to it, is approved.

On the other hand, another official foresaw a broad expansion of Federal personnel running into the "thousands." He speculated on: the creation of a new agency to allocate food and materials to the non-Soviet countries; the return of some sort of price and production controls; a broad program of export controls to be administered by the Commerce Department; a Government program to encourage greater production of steel, food, etc., and the expansion of our overseas staffs to be sure our aid is used in the manner for which it was intended.

As a matter of fact, no one now knows what the effect the Marshall Plan will be on the Federal services. Congress must supply the answers when it acts on it.

It's estimated there are no more than 1200 to 1500 people employed directly on the Greek-Turkish and post-UNRRA programs. Some of the relief supplies are purchased by private sources instead of the Government, and allocations of food, coal, etc., are administered by the receiving nations. If Congress approves the Marshall Plan, it may direct procurement through private sources and allocation of goods by the non-Soviet countries. If that happens, very few new employes would be needed.

One project closely related to the Marshall Plan could require the hiring of several thousand employes overseas. It's the proposal that we take over and finance administration of the British zone in Germany. The British have about 8000 civilian employes in that zone.

But we haven't been able to supply all the civilians needed to administer our German zone, and there's a feeling here that it would be "impossible" for us to replace the 8000 Britishers with Americans. Apparently some other arrangement—if that proves necessary—will have to be worked out.

CAREER: The new Civil Service program to find jobs for laid-off career employes is off to a good start. In its first day of operation, jobs were found for 15 accountants and auditors, and serious consideration is being given 80 others.

More than 130 personnel officials of Federal agencies in this area inspected the applications of some 300 accountants and auditors on Monday and yesterday. The number hired yesterday hasn't been reported.

Incidentally, commission officials now admit that some of the people on its displaced career list can't be placed. Jobs for which they are qualified have been abolished, or are filled with career people who have greater job rights. In such cases, commission officials will tell them to look elsewhere for employment.

JOBS: The Veterans Administration regional office, 1825 H st. nw., wants to hire CAF-3 stenographers . . . Civil Service is begging for applicants (veterans only) for its custodial laborer exam . . . . The Air Transport Command has these openings: SP-5 engineering draftsman; SP-5 artist-illustrator; CAF-3 statistical draftsman; CAF-4 time and payroll clerk; SP-6 meteorological aide; CAF-3 telegraphic-typewriter operator, and Grade-11 sign painter. Applicants with permanent status are preferred. Call Republic 6700, Branch 3377 for details.

HEARINGS: The House Appropriations Committee has warned Federal agencies it will begin hearings December 1 on their 1949 budgets. Among those told to be ready by that date are the many independent agencies; State, Commerce, Justice, Federal Security, Labor, Postoffice and Treasury.

Apparently Congress aims to act on all appropriations before the June 30 deadline. The delay beyond that date this year cost the Government many millions of dollars and much wasted effort.

Washington Congregations Observe Day of Atonement

The Washington Post

A NOTE OF INTERFAITH COOPERATION—Howard L. Hirsch (right), vice president of the Northeast Hebrew Congregation, serving as cantor of Yom Kippur services yesterday, welcomes Rabbi Yaskov Rosenberg of the Jewish Theological Seminary, New York City, who presided. Services were held in the social hall of Sherwood Presbyterian Church, 22d and Jackson sts. ne., through the courtesy of the Rev. Richard M. Mussen, pastor

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

The melancholy chant of the "Kol Nidre" (All Vows) prayer rang through synagogues and temples yesterday at sundown, as Yom Kippur began for the world's Jews.

This "Day of Atonement" that ends today at sunset concludes the 10 penitential days in which people seek forgiveness of their sins.

The sins of men and nations were stressed in many sermons delivered by rabbis at the traditional rites drawing thousands in the Greater Washington area.

Nations' Sins Stressed

Preaching last night at Temple Bnai Jacob, 2504 Naylor rd. se., Rabbi Samuel Penner stated:

"You may think that only individuals are sinful, but that isn't so. Nations can sin and, like individuals, frequently do. In fact, some of the most colossal sins of all time are being committed by the nations of the world before our very eyes.

"Yet, here it is, the year three of the Atomic Era, and the nations still bicker, wrangle, insanely maneuver for personal gain and fritter away the few precious hours of hope."

In prayers and sermons, rabbis asked for restoration of Palestine as the Jewish homeland.

Rabbi Zemach Green, spiritual leader of Ohev Sholom Congregation, 5th and I sts. nw., declared:

"We pray that the United Nations, now dealing with the fate of Palestine, will redeem the enormous debt that the world owes to the greatest sufferers of all peoples, with the creation of the Jewish State, and thus realize Israel's perennial dream."

Addressing the congregation Beth Israel, 4008 Minnesota ave. ne., Rabbi Ephraim S. Greenberg declared:

"Even in the face of our fear and tension that surround our lives, we must retain our faith and believe that somewhere in the vast scheme of existence, the human yearning for greater Godliness is matched by a Godly answer of a greater humanity."

Interfaith Cooperation

A note of interfaith cooperation dominated services of the Northeast Hebrew Congregation, which met in the Sherwood Presbyterian social hall, 22d and Jackson sts. ne., Woodridge, through the courtesy of the Rev. Richard M. Mussen, pastor, and his flock. Rabbi Ysakov Rosenberg, of the Jewish Theological Seminary, New York City, presided. Howard L. Hirsch, congregation vice president, served as cantor. Services will continue today, starting at 8:30 a. m.

Other Yom Kippur rites scheduled for today follow:

Washington Hebrew Congregation, at Constitution Hall, 10:30 a. m., with Dr. Norman Gerstenfeld in charge; Arlington Jewish Center, in Jones Building, 3150 Wilson blvd., 8:30 a. m., with Yiskor (memorial) services at noon; Adas Israel Congregation, 6th and I sts. nw., Yiskor at 9 a. m. and other services at 10:30 a. m.; Washington Highlands Jewish Center, 100 Atlantic ave. se., 8 a. m.; Beth Sholom, 6th and Shepherd sts. nw., 8 a. m., and Ohev Sholom, 5th and I sts. nw., 8 a. m.

Greetings from the Washington Ministerial Union to the Jewish community were read at services of the Washington Hebrew Congregation at Constitution Hall by Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld. They were signed by Dr. Paul Scheafrer, Union president and paster of Takoma Park Presbyterian Church.

Rabbi Gerstenfeld told his congregation that the message symbolized "The blessed spiritual tradition that has built America and must undergird her in the years that lie ahead."

For Marylanders

Sales Tax Costs Under 80c a Month

Baltimore, Sept. 23 (AP).—Collectors of the State's new 2 per cent sales tax estimated today it costs Marylanders less than 80 cents a month apiece—on the average.

They reached the figure on the basis of $1,683,000 collected from the sales tax in July, its first month of operation, and the State's population of slightly more than 2,000,000.

The average Marylander, they calculated, pays less than the 80-cent individual tax produced by their mathematical maneuver—buys less than $40 worth of taxable goods monthly.

Money paid on the sales tax is deductible from both Federal and State income tax computations, but the collectors cautioned taxpayers not to estimate their deductions too high.

Navy Chief to Speak

Portsmouth, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—The principal speaker at exercises marking the commissioning of the aircraft carrier Coral Sea at the naval shipyard here October 1 will be John L. Sullivan, newly appointed Secretary of the Navy.

High-ranking naval officers are expected to accompany Sullivan here to witness the commissioning of the vessel, built at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company and launched April 2, 1946.

Body Recovered

Tappahannock, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—The body of Hunter S. Harville, 50, of Petersburg, who drowned at Lowerys Point Sunday, was recovered this morning 5 miles down the Rappahannock near Bowler's wharf. G. S. McKendrie, a fisherman, found the body on the shore just below the wharf.

Falls Church Pupils to Use Quonset Huts

W. T. Woodson, superintendent of Fairfax schools, yesterday authorized the purchase of four Quonset huts to relieve overcrowding in Falls Church elementary schools.

The move followed a meeting of Falls Church school board in which the town's school situation was described as "crisis."

Woodson said the four Quonsets, 60 by 36 feet each, would be located next to the Madison Elementary School and would be used by fourth and fifth grade students.

According to Miss Audrey Snodgrass, principal of both the Madison and Jefferson schools, the structures will eliminate need for half-day sessions in the second grade and possibly in the first grade.

Woodson was authorized to order the four buildings at a meeting of the Fairfax County school board last Wednesday.

In its meeting Monday night, the Falls Church School Board asked the County School Board to redistrict schools, send Falls Church students to roomier public schools, install additional toilets and drinking fountains at both Falls Church schools, and to arrange bus routes to fit any redistricting.

The school board also adopted resolutions asking the county to make early plans for future increases in the student body, to build two new elementary schools in the Falls Church area for completion "not later than the school year of 1948-49," and for long-range plans on needed buildings.

The board reelected George T. Reeves as its representatives to the county school board, named Samual Dennis as secretary, and voted to meet on the second Thursday of each month at Madison School.

State Board Gives Its Approval of Program Totaling 2 1/3 Million Dollars

Baltimore, Sept. 23 (AP).—The Maryland Board of Public Works tonight approved the University of Maryland's multi-million dollar construction program.

Included in the program are an $800,000 stadium, a $300,000 chapel, a $300,000 swimming pool, and a physical education and auditorium building at $900,000.

The board stipulated, however, that the construction of these projects must be undertaken on the basis of cash on hand.

This means, the board explained, that it would have to authorize the construction of each specific structure only as the funds are available.

The board said in a statement: "No contract would be signed, nor obligation incurred in connection with the construction program, without such prior authorization."

Approval of the project came after Attorney General Hall Hammond, in an oral opinion, passed on the legality of the project, which in accordance with the university's plan would not cost the State a penny.

The funds for the $2,350,000 program, University President H. C. Byrd proposes, will come from increased student fees, increased fees for veterans studying under the G.I. Bill of Rights, and funds from the university's athletic board.

Some of these funds are not yet available, and estimates are based on revenues expected from fees in the next two years.

Another Rise Asked in Rail Freight Rates

By The Associated Press

Another freight rate case came before the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday as Eastern railroads pressed a request for higher rates on less-than-carload shipments.

The railroads are those operating east of the Mississippi River and north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers, plus the so-called Poeshontas region covering West Virginia and the northern portion of Virginia.

They are asking increases ranging from 95 per cent on 5-mile hauls down to 1.6 per cent on hauls of 600 miles where the freight involved is less than a carload. These increases are asked in addition to the basic freight rate increases currently being sought by all railroads.

The commission has just concluded two weeks of hearings on the general case, which involves a request for a 27 per cent hike in the basic rate structure—10 per cent of the raise to be effective immediately.

An ICC ruling on the 10 per cent "emergency increase" is expected momentarily.

As in the general case, affected shippers have filed vigorous protests with the commission against the proposed less-than-carload changes in Eastern territory.

D. C. Lawyer Indicted in Abortion

James J. Laughlin Goes Voluntarily To Court, Enters Not Guilty Plea

James J. Laughlin, Washington criminal lawyer, yesterday was indicted on two counts of procuring an abortion on a 24-year-old girl.

Laughlin

Indicted with Laughlin was Dr. Henry L. Peckham, jr., 44, of 3830 Livingston st. nw. The physician also was indicted on two other charges of abortion involving another woman.

Laughlin appeared voluntarily in District Court within two hours after the District grand jury returned its report and pleaded not guilty.

Lawyer Makes Denial

"I had nothing to do with the abortion and had nothing to do with arranging for it," he told reporters. "I would not know Dr. Peckham if I met him on the street, for I have never seen him."

District Court Justice Matthew F. McGuire released the attorney under a $1000 bond on recommendation of Assistant United States Attorney Arthur J. McLaughlin.

At the arraignment, Laughlin was represented by Attorney T. Emmett McKenzie.

Dr. Peckham, also arraigned, likewise pleaded not guilty, and was released under $1000 bond on each of the charges.

His attorney, Dorsey K. Offcutt, told reporters: "Dr. Peckham is not guilty in any way and, at the proper time, we shall prove he is innocent."

Grand Jury Charge

In the case involving Laughlin, both men were charged specifically with "using a medicine drug and substance and instrument and means to procure the abortion" of Esther Pickard, also known as Esther Pickert. The alleged offense was said to have occurred March 20 and March 22.

Laughlin has offices in the National Press Building. He is 44 years old, and is the father of five children. Dr. Peckham has offices at 428 8th st. se.

Snyder, Taber, Dirksen Back Aid to Europe

Aid to Europe was approved yesterday in public statements from abroad by John Snyder, United States Treasury Secretary; the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and another member of that committee.

Snyder told the International News Service in Paris yesterday that he "sincerely hoped" Congress would approve western Europe's request for funds under the Marshall Plan.

Representative John Taber (R., N. Y.), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, told the Associated Press in Ankara, Turkey, that Americans would continue "within the limits of their capacities" to help needy Europeans so long as Europeans did all they could to help themselves.

Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.), a member of the Appropriations Committee, said at Munich, Germany, that the Marshall Plan must be carried out "to save Europe from complete ruin."

Dirksen, previously regarded as lukewarm toward the plan, said he had not changed his mind, but simple had "made up" his mind.

He said he believed Congressmen seeing Europe's need at first hand were convinced the Marshall Plan requires early action."

VICTIM—Isabella Mallon, 11, whose body was found Saturday near her Philadelphia home

Clegg Beating Report Passed On to Gray

The District Commissioners yesterday referred the report on Julius Willie Clegg to Acting Corporation Counsel Chester Gray to determine whether action should be initiated by a police trial board.

Clegg, through his attorney Roger Robb, has charged he was detained illegally by police at the First Precinct for 34 hours without charge, and was beaten at Detective Bureau by two sex squad detectives.

Gray said he had not yet studied the report, and would have no comment pending such study. The District Commissioners also declined comment on the report.

Yesterday's action had been indicated when a Federal grand jury declined to return any indictments on charges of police brutality.

Clegg, a night employe of The Washington Post, said that police took him in custody on oral complaint of a white waitress at 6 a. m. on August 2. The waitress, who charged that he addressed her lewdly, was unable to identify him as her molester.

Man Indicted On State Dept. Aide's Charge

A Washington income tax consultant yesterday was indicted on a charge of embezzling $2628.26 from Loy W. Henderson, chief of the Near East Division, State Department.

A charge of larceny after trust also was placed against the defendant, Bernard P. Nimro, 45, of 1614 K st. nw.

According to Henderson's statement to police, he engaged Nimro to prepare his income tax returns for 1945.

Received Rebate

Henderson said he received a rebate from the Internal Revenue Division by check for $2628.26 in August, 1946.

The diplomat asserted he turned this check over to Nimro with instructions that it be held in escrow in Henderson's bank account in the event that there had been some error in the tax deal.

Henderson declared he later heard from William H. Deck, of the intelligence department of Internal Revenue, that Nimre had deposited the check in his own account at Liberty National Bank and that the account since had dropped to less than $40.

Henderson said that subsequently he had attempted to communicate with Nimro by phone, letter and in person, but could never find him in.

Detective Sergt. John R. Liskey, who arrested Nimro last August 14, stated Nimro asserted that he had cashed the rebate check for Henderson and that he had handed the latter $2628.26 in cash.

22 Others Indicted

Among 22others indicted were a man and woman charged with pandering for a 17-year-old girl who had run away from the District Training School at Laurel, Md.

According to the girl, she escaped from the training school, of which she had been an inmate since she was 12, last March.

She said she met Adams and Dorathy Thomas through a friend, and went to live with them. She said that afterwards she had been intimate with a number of men, whose custom had been secured by the couple.

The grand jury ignored charges against five other persons.

Veteran Tells How He Killed Niece, 11

Guilt Shouted By Youth Arrested At Olney, Police in Philadelphia Say

A youthful Pacific war veteran arrested near Olney, Md., for the murder of his 11-year-old niece in Philadelphia, shouted his guilt to police when returned there yesterday.

"I choked her. I know I'm guilty," police quoted 22-year-old George Alexander Neill, Marine combat veteran.

Neill, arrested Monday night at the farm home of a Washington physician where he was employed as a hired hand, has been charged with the strangulation slaying of Isabelle Mallon in North Philadelphia September 6.

The girl's partly decomposed body was found last Saturday in a wooded lot 10 blocks from her home.

Earlier in the day, at Rockville, Md., Neill had replied only that he wanted "to go home" during extradition proceedings in Montgomery County Circuit Court.

Clearer Motive Sought

A few hours later he was in Philadelphia, where authorities planned to question him further to establish a clearer motive.

Police said he told them, during three hours of questioning at Rockville early yesterday, that he had walked with the girl as she went to buy a pair of stockings.

"I told her I would take her over to see the ponies if she wanted to go. We both got into a taxicab and rode over there, but when we arrived the building was closed. We then took a walk and while going along Luzerne st., holding hands, I said to Isabella, I'll take you over and show you where we played when we were boys.

Says She Hugged Him

"She agreed and we walked on a lot. When we got to the top of a little hill near the railroad track she hugged me.

"I fairly shook with excitement and the next thing I knew I was choking her. She said she'd tell her mother and I told her, you have nothing to tell because I have not done anything.

"The next moment I realized I was choking her harder. My hands were tightening around her throat and we both fell to the ground.

"I spoke to her but getting no answer, I left her, went to my sister's home, washed up and told my sister I had decided to hitch-hike to California."

Police said her body was torn and disfigured, but Neill has steadfastly denied criminally attacking her.

The blond, slightly-built veteran, medically discharged from the Marines August 19, 1943, by reason of a "psychopathic inferiority," was suspected in tips from two cab drivers, one of whom took him to the dairy farm of Dr. Julian M. Howe when he began his job as a farm hand.

Lacking in Moral Sense

(A Navy medical officer yesterday said a person suffering from "psychopathic inferiority" is "an individual lacking a sense of moral responsibility, who may have trouble adjusting himself to society. He may have difficulty in keeping his own desires and wishes under control and may drink heavily. He is not crazy in the sense of requiring hospitalization.")

Marine Corps headquarters here said Neill's condition was aggravated by malaria, contracted while serving in the British Solomons. He enlisted at Houston, Tex., in January of 1942, went overseas in October of the same year and returned in May of 1943.

A Philadelphia taxi driver told police he recalled taking Neill and the child to a spot not far from where her body was found after picking them up the evening of September 6.

INSERT A—New lede UNCLE

Neill had been living at the Mallon home while working on a farm at Doyleston, a Philadelphia suburb.

Neill apparently came to Washington one or two days after the slaying and obtained the farmhand job at the farm referral desk at the United States Employment Service here.

He was arrested at the Howe farm about 9:15 p. m. Monday by Silver Spring Detective Sergt. James Anderson and Detective Corpl. Frank Griggs. When they appeared at the farm, Mrs. Clark Toms, wife of the foreman, asked that she be allowed to take her children out of the kitchen where Neill was sitting with her three children, a boy, aged 8, and two girls, 10 and 13.

Appearing before Chief Judge Charles W. Woodward in Montgomery County Circuit Court, Neill was advised of his rights in extradition proceedings. He answered only:

"I want to go home."

Virginia Meeting Set On Auto Test System

Richmond, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—The Virginia Advisory Legislative Council has invited automobile owners, garagemen and others interested in vehicle inspection laws to attend a public hearing at 10 a. m. October 4 on the question of changing the present inspection system.

The hearing will be held in the Senate chamber of the State capitol.

Governor Tuck raised the question of amending the inspection system in a recent letter to Delegate E. O. McCue, jr., of Charlottesville, council chairman. Asking the VALC to study the whole matter thoroughly, the Governor noted complaints from various parts of the State against "gouging" by a few repairmen and favoritism by others.

The chief executive said informally that he recognized the many difficulties involved in inspecting upwards of 600,000 vehicles this fall and commented that the relatively low number of complaints reaching him reflected high credit on the State's automobile repair industry.

Instead of appointing a subcommittee, in accordance with its usual custom, the entire council will investigate the auto inspection program, McCue said.

Petersburg Tobacco Sale Falls Short

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—Warehousemen at the close of the first day's sales on the 1947 bright tobacco market late today estimated that the two warehouses here disposed of a total of 217,000 pounds of leaf at an estimated average price of $40 per 100 pounds.

Official figures will not be available until tomorrow.

Today's estimated average of $48 a hnuderdweight was considerably below last year's record-breaking opening average of $51.01 per 100 pounds and poundage also fell short of last year's opening day turnover of 294,072 pounds.

Leaf was selling at from 2 to 60 cents a pound with most of the industry present surprised to see such a high common level. There was much 50-cent tobacco.

The first break was described by tobacco experts as "common muddy and lacking clear color." The excuse generally offered was "no moisture" and "poor fertilizer."

Government Wins Suit On Warehouse

A Rosslyn, Va., businessman lost a battle and part of his property to the Federal Government through condemnation proceedings this week.

The proceedings were filed by the Justice Department at the request of the Secretary of War. They asked that 3.28 acres of land and a red brick warehouse, located west of the Hot Shoppe on the Virginia side of Key Bridge, be condemned because they are urgently needed by the Central Intelligence Group.

The property is owned by John E. Fowler, manufacturer of fountain syrups, who has initiated civil action asking that the Government be evicted from the property and it be returned to its rightful owner.

Actual issue in the battle is a cinder block warehouse, built by the Office of Strategic Services shortly after it had first rented Fowler's land and warehouse in 1943.

Under several leases, OSS and later the Central Intelligence Group, which now uses the property, were to rent the old warehouse until July, 1946, and the property on which the new warehouse stands until six months after the cessation of hostilities, which were declared at a nend in January, 1947.

The old warehouse was vacated when its lease expired, but a new lease was signed in November, 1946, with the understanding that Fowler would eventually become owner of the new warehouse when CIG no longer needed it in return for renting the property to CIG at present.

The Comptroller General, however, ruled that the warehouse could not be sold to Fowler because it was needed by the Government and therefore could not be classed as surplus property.

As a result, on June 30, Fowler filed civil action seeking to regain possession of his property. His suit claimed that the lease of November, 1946, be declared void for "failure of consideration." The suit is still pending.

Dry Weather Hurts Feed Crops in Va.

Continued dry weather in central and southern Virginai last week endangered clover and alfalfa crops and caused further decline to pasture and late hay.

Approximately 40 per cent of the State corn crop has been harvested, according to the weekly crop and weather report issued jointly by the United States Weather Bureau, county agents of the Extension Service, and Virginia Cooperative Crop Reporting Service.

Farmers began picking cotton last week, though the crop will not be as large as expected because of boll weevil damage. Peanut harvesting was also begun, with yields generally above average in spite of some wilt damage, it was reported.

Practically all of the flue-cured tobacco crop has been harvested, and farmers are grading and preparing it for market. Yields of flue-cured tobacco ranged from good in the Piedmont counties to poor in the dry areas in central Virginia.

Approximately two-thirds of the burly tobacco crop has been harvested, and yields were generally good. The small sun-cured crop is about 70 per cent harvested, with a great range in yields due to scattered rains.

In the commercial apple picking counties, picking has been making favorable progress. On the Eastern Shore, snap and lima beans and cabbage were harvested, though the season in the area is nearly completed, the report said.

Preparation for seeding fall grains progressed rapidly except in the dry areas where the land is too dry to plow and disc. Some farmers were sowing barley and oats. Farmers in the central and southern areas are making special efforts to seed large acreage of barley, oats, and rye for fall and winter grazing.

The New Look Calls for Curves—

. . . and Ida Jean Kain Helps You Acquire Them

Ida Jean Kain

FASHION has swung around to natural curves, and they're catching. The first furor has given way to favorable reaction. We're finding we like the look of a slimmer waist, a highly feminine figure, and the perfect proportion the new look gives from head to toe.

After all, curves with a slim waist is a woman's natural figure. Nature meant the waist to be neat and tidy, not a bulky bundle. These new styles are healthy, all the hue and cry to the contrary. An ample waist never has been abundant evidence of abounding health, but rather a sign of soft muscles, slumped posture and sadly, just plain fat. The fashionably slender waist demands normal weight for structure and stiffening in the muscles that span the midriff.

The Spare-Ribbed Look

To achieve that spare-ribbed effect, absolutely de rigueur this season, the waist must be pulled up snug, and the normal high position of the ribs gives the whole figure a lift. Fact is, these new styles force us to pull our figures right up out of the dumps. And this unlift posture itself amounts to natural toning exercise.

And at last, hips are happily back in style, slightly rounded as nature intended them. Of course it stands to reason that hips already well upholstered do not require more padding, which is another strong argument for normal weight. And there's no getting around it, with natural hips, the waist must be whittled down to normal. Picture the diminutive waist with the skirt flowing out gracefully. That's the silhouette the designers adhere to rigidly—certainly more alluring than the boxy waist, spreading into upholstered hips, blockbuster-shaped!

Cut a Fashionable Figure

The new styles are different, yes, but don't get the notion that they outmode your entire wardrobe. There is a variation of the wide and the narrow in the new silhouette, with the emphasis on a trim waist and slim midriff. If you'll get in shape to wear these new styles, you'll cut a fashionable figure. Nipping in your own waistline automatically lengthens the hemline and gives a longer look. Then with facing, your skirts will not be out of style. And sprucing up the posture slims the midriff and straightens shoulders. The whole effect is elegant!

And what fun it will be to slip into a exciting new dress and exclaim . . . "These styles were made to order for my figure!"

Tomorrow we'll size up the figure.

Has Anyone Told You . . .

COLD FEET that keep you awake nights can be a thing of the past now that a new type of electric footwarmer is coming on the market. It looks a good deal like a small towel—is thin, pliable and measures 36 by 17 inches. Placed between the top sheet and the first blanket, it's designed to bring an even warmth of 105 degrees F. to the foot of the bed throughout the night.

A NEW SUNLAMP designed to fold away under the bed and featuring a built-in automatic timer will be available in Washington about October 1. The lamp is designed for attachment to the bedrail and swings up and over the bed when in use. The built-in automatic timer turns the lamp off when the desired length of exposure has been reached.

HEMLINES are dropping and a good thing to remember is that you can buy skirt facings. They come in black, white, gray, tan, navy and brown on cards containing 24 yards. Directions for lowering and facing hems are illustrated on the cards.

Do Home Tricks With Colors In New Fabrics

Smart homemakers can "learn a good lesson from industrialists and psychologists" in using the brilliant colors effectively in the newest decorative fabrics, according to Margaret Riley, author of "Color Tricks Galore With Fabrics."

"Husbands appreciate having their homes spruced up with the new colors and new ideas," Miss Riley says. "They know the difference, even if they never say a word about it. The difference is noticed subconsciously."

As a practical hint on utilization of color in the new decorative fabrics, Miss Riley said:

"First decide whether you want a warm or cool pattern for your home. If you don't get too much sun in your apartment or home, choose warm colors, tones with red in them. If your room is warm and sunny, choose icy blues, cool greens and sunshine yellow draperies.

"You can make a small room seem larger than it is by using different values of a basic color. For instance, use a pale blue on the walls, a deeper blue in your rug and a medium blue for the draperies."

Virginia Meeting Set On Auto Test System

Richmond, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—The Virginia Advisory Legislative Council has invited automobile owners, garagemen and others interested in vehicle inspection laws to attend a public hearing at 10 a. m. October 4 on the question of changing the present inspection system.

The hearing will be held in the Senate chamber of the State capitol.

Governor Tuck raised the question of amending the inspection system in a recent letter to Delegate E. O. McCue, jr., of Charlottesville, council chairman. Asking the VALC to study the whole matter thoroughly, the Governor noted complaints from various parts of the State against "gouging" by a few repairmen and favoritism by others.

The chief executive said informally that he recognized the many difficulties involved in inspecting upwards of 600,000 vehicles this fall and commented that the relatively low number of complaints reaching him reflected high credit on the State's automobile repair industry.

Instead of appointing a subcommittee, in accordance with its usual custom, the entire council will investigate the auto inspection program, McCue said.

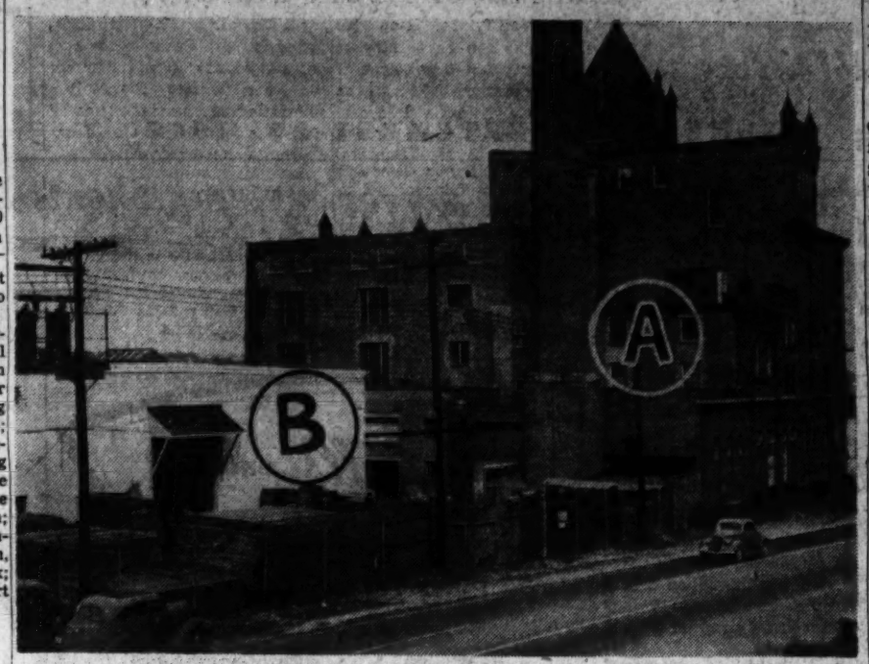
'Objectives' in Property Battle . . .



The Washington Post

STORM CENTER—Land along this stretch of roadway and the old warehouse (A), long-time a Rosslyn, Va., landmark, have been condemned by the Justice Department at the request of the Secretary of War under an 1890 Act of Congress. The property, owned by John E. Fowler, fountain sirup manufacturer, and the cinderblock warehouse (B), constructed there during the war by the OSS, have been issues in Fowler's battle against the Federal Government, which contends the site is needed by the new Central Intelligence Group

Petersburg Tobacco Sale Falls Short

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—Warehousemen at the close of the first day's sales on the 1947 bright tobacco market late today estimated that the two warehouses here disposed of a total of 217,000 pounds of leaf at an estimated average price of $40 per 100 pounds.

Official figures will not be available until tomorrow.

45c Average Indicated In Danville Opening

Danville, Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—An average of 45 cents per pound was indicated here this morning on the basis of the first row of bidding at the opening tobacco sale.

Leaf was selling at from 2 to 60 cents a pound with most of the industry present surprised to see such a high common level. There was much 50-cent tobacco.

The first break was described by tobacco experts as "common muddy and lacking clear color." The excuse generally offered was "no moisture" and "poor fertilizer."

The Eastern Shore communities of Salisbury, Princess Anne, Pocomcoke City, Snow Hill and Berlin, for instance, abandoned daylight time September 2, as did Oakland in Garrett County.

Government Wins Suit On Warehouse

A Rosslyn, Va., businessman lost a battle and part of his property to the Federal Government through condemnation proceedings this week.

The proceedings were filed by the Justice Department at the request of the Secretary of War. They asked that 3.28 acres of land and a red brick warehouse, located west of the Hot Shoppe on the Virginia side of Key Bridge, be condemned because they are urgently needed by the Central Intelligence Group.

The property is owned by John E. Fowler, manufacturer of fountain syrups, who has initiated civil action asking that the Government be evicted from the property and it be returned to its rightful owner.

Actual issue in the battle is a cinder block warehouse, built by the Office of Strategic Services shortly after it had first rented Fowler's land and warehouse in 1943.

Under several leases, OSS and later the Central Intelligence Group, which now uses the property, were to rent the old warehouse until July, 1946, and the property on which the new warehouse stands until six months after the cessation of hostilities, which were declared at a nend in January, 1947.

The old warehouse was vacated when its lease expired, but a new lease was signed in November, 1946, with the understanding that Fowler would eventually become owner of the new warehouse when CIG no longer needed it in return for renting the property to CIG at present.

The Comptroller General, however, ruled that the warehouse could not be sold to Fowler because it was needed by the Government and therefore could not be classed as surplus property.

As a result, on June 30, Fowler filed civil action seeking to regain possession of his property. His suit claimed that the lease of November, 1946, be declared void for "failure of consideration." The suit is still pending.

Dry Weather Hurts Feed Crops in Va.

Continued dry weather in central and southern Virginai last week endangered clover and alfalfa crops and caused further decline to pasture and late hay.

Approximately 40 per cent of the State corn crop has been harvested, according to the weekly crop and weather report issued jointly by the United States Weather Bureau, county agents of the Extension Service, and Virginia Cooperative Crop Reporting Service.

Farmers began picking cotton last week, though the crop will not be as large as expected because of boll weevil damage. Peanut harvesting was also begun, with yields generally above average in spite of some wilt damage, it was reported.

Practically all of the flue-cured tobacco crop has been harvested, and farmers are grading and preparing it for market. Yields of flue-cured tobacco ranged from good in the Piedmont counties to poor in the dry areas in central Virginia.

Approximately two-thirds of the burly tobacco crop has been harvested, and yields were generally good. The small sun-cured crop is about 70 per cent harvested, with a great range in yields due to scattered rains.

In the commercial apple picking counties, picking has been making favorable progress. On the Eastern Shore, snap and lima beans and cabbage were harvested, though the season in the area is nearly completed, the report said.

Preparation for seeding fall grains progressed rapidly except in the dry areas where the land is too dry to plow and disc. Some farmers were sowing barley and oats. Farmers in the central and southern areas are making special efforts to seed large acreage of barley, oats, and rye for fall and winter grazing.

The New Look Calls for Curves—

. . . and Ida Jean Kain Helps You Acquire Them

Ida Jean Kain

FASHION has swung around to natural curves, and they're catching. The first furor has given way to favorable reaction. We're finding we like the look of a slimmer waist, a highly feminine figure, and the perfect proportion the new look gives from head to toe.

After all, curves with a slim waist is a woman's natural figure. Nature meant the waist to be neat and tidy, not a bulky bundle. These new styles are healthy, all the hue and cry to the contrary. An ample waist never has been abundant evidence of abounding health, but rather a sign of soft muscles, slumped posture and sadly, just plain fat. The fashionably slender waist demands normal weight for structure and stiffening in the muscles that span the midriff.

The Spare-Ribbed Look

To achieve that spare-ribbed effect, absolutely de rigueur this season, the waist must be pulled up snug, and the normal high position of the ribs gives the whole figure a lift. Fact is, these new styles force us to pull our figures right up out of the dumps. And this unlift posture itself amounts to natural toning exercise.

And at last, hips are happily back in style, slightly rounded as nature intended them. Of course it stands to reason that hips already well upholstered do not require more padding, which is another strong argument for normal weight. And there's no getting around it, with natural hips, the waist must be whittled down to normal. Picture the diminutive waist with the skirt flowing out gracefully. That's the silhouette the designers adhere to rigidly—certainly more alluring than the boxy waist, spreading into upholstered hips, blockbuster-shaped!

Cut a Fashionable Figure

The new styles are different, yes, but don't get the notion that they outmode your entire wardrobe. There is a variation of the wide and the narrow in the new silhouette, with the emphasis on a trim waist and slim midriff. If you'll get in shape to wear these new styles, you'll cut a fashionable figure. Nipping in your own waistline automatically lengthens the hemline and gives a longer look. Then with facing, your skirts will not be out of style. And sprucing up the posture slims the midriff and straightens shoulders. The whole effect is elegant!

And what fun it will be to slip into a exciting new dress and exclaim . . . "These styles were made to order for my figure!"

Tomorrow we'll size up the figure.

Has Anyone Told You . . .

COLD FEET that keep you awake nights can be a thing of the past now that a new type of electric footwarmer is coming on the market. It looks a good deal like a small towel—is thin, pliable and measures 36 by 17 inches. Placed between the top sheet and the first blanket, it's designed to bring an even warmth of 105 degrees F. to the foot of the bed throughout the night.

A NEW SUNLAMP designed to fold away under the bed and featuring a built-in automatic timer will be available in Washington about October 1. The lamp is designed for attachment to the bedrail and swings up and over the bed when in use. The built-in automatic timer turns the lamp off when the desired length of exposure has been reached.

HEMLINES are dropping and a good thing to remember is that you can buy skirt facings. They come in black, white, gray, tan, navy and brown on cards containing 24 yards. Directions for lowering and facing hems are illustrated on the cards.

Do Home Tricks With Colors In New Fabrics

Smart homemakers can "learn a good lesson from industrialists and psychologists" in using the brilliant colors effectively in the newest decorative fabrics, according to Margaret Riley, author of "Color Tricks Galore With Fabrics."

"Husbands appreciate having their homes spruced up with the new colors and new ideas," Miss Riley says. "They know the difference, even if they never say a word about it. The difference is noticed subconsciously."

As a practical hint on utilization of color in the new decorative fabrics, Miss Riley said:

"First decide whether you want a warm or cool pattern for your home. If you don't get too much sun in your apartment or home, choose warm colors, tones with red in them. If your room is warm and sunny, choose icy blues, cool greens and sunshine yellow draperies.

"You can make a small room seem larger than it is by using different values of a basic color. For instance, use a pale blue on the walls, a deeper blue in your rug and a medium blue for the draperies."

AWVS Helps Out

Time to Think Of Overseas Christmas Gifts

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

OCTOBER 15 is the deadline for sending Christmas packages overseas. With food prices still astronomical, it's good to know the American Women's Voluntary Service is putting up a special Christmas package for only $4.

The AWVS undercuts commercial packagers because the packing is done by volunteers. They can be sent to any country, including Japan. Contents include the usual fats, rice, sugar, canned meat, dried fruit, soap, tea or coffee with an extra bonus of candy and plum pudding as holiday treat. Ordinary packages, which weigh 7 instead of 10 pounds, come to $3.50.

Many foreign visitors returning home deposit their left-over money with the AWVS, which follows up with packages. If you've no relatives or friends abroad but feel like spreading Christmas cheer, the AWVS has a list of needy families in every country.

Even Evening Gowns

IF YOU'RE STUCK with a few knee-length dresses you can't pawn off on Aunt Sadie, send them along to the Friends' Service Committee Relief. They're crazy for woolens, especially boys' and men's clothing, but love summer things, too.

They even like evening gowns, really fine ones, because they send them to the Women's International League in Philadelphia and get half the proceeds of their sale.

The committee reconditions everything. All garments sent abroad are ready to wear. The sewing's all done by volunteers and if you're sufficiently ladylike to be handy with the needle, spend an afternoons stitching in the Florida avenue workroom.

School, James!

SOME WASHINGTON kids go to school by bus, others by streetcar, the lucky few by automobile. Have you ever thought how the Soviet Ambassador's heir gets to school? Educationally speaking, it's an entertaining sight. Young "Coco" Novikov bowls up in a big, shiny limousine piloted by a muscular chauffeur..

And where do you think the Novikov lad goes to school? To the Sidwell FRIENDS School!

Popular Cab

UP FROM BUENOS AIRES comes the announcement that Felipe Espil and Garcia Arias have joined forces in a law firm. They're specializing in international law and should pick up many a juicy client in Washington. Seldom have two such popular caballeros come out of the pampas.

Espil was Argentine Ambassador here for many years. His American-born wife, Courtney Letts, was one of the Capitol's snappiest hostesses and garnered more social column yardage than any other ambassadress on record.

Garcia Arias, whose nickname inexplicably is "Negro," was attached to the Argentine Embassy here and eventually wound up as charge d'affaires. After a stint as Ambassador to Venezuela, he returned as ambassador to the Pan-American Union, went back to Buenos Aires last year. A bachelor, good dancer, he was more or less God's gift to the Capital's middle-aged widows.

Dr. Hans Kindler Is Honored At Party by Baltimore Group

THERE was much talk of Washington and Capital friends at the cocktail party given at the Sheraton Belvedere in Baltimore Monday by the National Symphony's Baltimore Women's Committee in honor of Dr. Hans Kindler, orchestra conductor. Most of the women on the Baltimore committee either have Washington backgrounds or are frequent visitors here.

In the group were Mrs. W. W. Abell, vice chairman of the box committee who recently returned from Bar Harbor, and Dr. Kindler's sister, Mrs. Carel Wirtz, who lives in the Maryland city. Mrs. George Bolek, chairman of the subscription committee had just returned from six weeks in Mexico and Guatemala. She expects to attend the opening of the Symphony's seventeenth season at Constitution Hall on October 15. President of the Baltimore Music Club, Mrs. Bolek is busy making plans for the club's twenty-fifth anniversary program, when she hopes to feature compositions by Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe of Washington.

Another member of the Baltimore group who anticipates attending the mid-October symphony opening here is Miss Marjorie Wills, who will be entertained at dinner before the concert by Miss Eloise Dunbracco, of Holton Arms School, and Dr. Rowland Brown of the National Museum.

Mrs. W. Bladen Lowndes, whose musicales are always outstanding events on Baltimore's social calendar, asked Dr. Kindler many questions about his European trip next spring, at which time he has accepted invitations to conduct several of the Continent's major orchestras.

Mme. Lubov Keefer, author and a member of the Johns Hopkins University faculty, was wearing a draped fuchsia gown with hat to match, and chatting with tall, good-looking Lillian Bonney and her husband. Popular Anita Erdman was being congratulated on having sold 38 season tickets to her friends.

Others present included Mrs. Allen W. Morton, chairman of the box committee; Mrs. John W. Garrett, wife of the former United States Ambassador to Italy, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ogden.

Erwin Mutch, the National Symphony's manager, drove over from Washington for the party. He was baritone soloist for 14 years at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and most of the ladies present remembered him from his concert appearances in Baltimore.

Married 18 Months, After Story Book Love At First Sight, Plus Year's Courtship Wife Is Acutely Depressed by Man's Coldness

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Tom and I were married 18 months ago, after story book love at first sight and a year's courtship. I was a happy self confident girl, out to conquer the world. After finishing high school two years previous, I had left my little home town to go to business college in a city some distance away. That's where we met.

Tom's job takes us from town to town and as he doesn't like me to work, I haven't any friends, other than passing acquaintanceship with neighbors here and there. His salary, though adequate, doesn't permit many luxuries.

I've trained myself not to care if my clothes aren't what I'd like. Also I've given up buying books, records, etc., to prevent money worries. I do so want a perfect marriage, but Tom has gone out eight or 10 times without me,—once with a woman, I know. He comes home surly, with liquor on his breath, giving no explanation.

In desperation I went to a doctor and frankly asked how to be a better wife. After that for a while Tom and I were closer than during our honeymoon. But of recent months I became obsessed with fear,—fear of moving again, fear of meeting new people, fear of Tom's going out with others, but mostly fear that he will leave me, as he often threatens.

Weeps for Days, Taking No Food

HE TREATS me so indifferently, like a stranger in the house. I came near losing my mind. I've wept for days, gone without food, become meek as a mouse, seldom speaking, thinking of nothing but suicide if I lost his love. But I studied the Bible, prayed, read Dr. Preston Bradley's book, "Conquering Fear," and got hold of myself.

Now I'm not afraid; or at least I don't admit it. I won't ever get in such a state again; but I'm sure, Miss Haworth, that my jealous anxiety wasn't unfounded. Tom looks at every girl; the men he works with all flirt, and several times I've found salacious literature in his pockets. He wasn't like this at first.

His friends practically ignore me when I try to be sociable. This hurts and make me wonder: Am I boring? Am I failing him? I want children; he doesn't. I read a lot; he doesn't. I want to do something worth while and be needed by someone. My mother has my stepfather, and my sisters have their own families.

I am a one-man woman and I don't want a divorce. Being a wage earner, coming home to a room and a book, doesn't appeal. But I don't want to cling if I'm not wanted. Please advise me. My future is at stake. S. C.

Wife's Behavior Is Very Immature

DEAR S. C.: I think it's untrue to say that you were a happy self confident girl, out to conquer the world, before you met and married Tom. You may have been eager, hopeful, counting on the moon, but that's something else.

Your long recital, here much condensed, affords many clues to indicate a rather solitary wistful girlhood, lacking in friendships, during which you turned to fiction for companionship,—as a result of which you doubtless indulged in great day dreams of story book love as the passport to earthly paradise.

Then you got married, and when things began to pan out very imperfectly, you reacted in all sorts of pathetic immature ways to Tom's shortcomings, meantime remaining blind to your own.

Man's Shallow, Mean, Ignorant

IT SEEMS you've varied between the two extremes of (1) falling on your face with ingratiating intent and (2) waging a campaign of morbid hysteria to try to wring solicitude from him,—before reaching the point, where you are now, of realizing that neither method will bring about idyllic, or even tolerable, union.

In all probability, you and Tom are hopelessly mismated. You weren't cut out for a gypsy life, which he enjoys. You haven't his talent for superficial backslapping friendship, which is the stock in trade of most travelling men. Your moral standards and sensibilities are keyed to a higher "level of consciousness" than his.

However, though Tom is shallow, unstable and meanly ignorant of fine human values, you are so neurotic, so anxious and clinging, as to be an albatross of sorts around the neck of any husband. Thus at this crossroad, with your future at stake, your salvation depends on getting psychiatric help. To become really happy and self confident, it is necessary above all to "know thyself." M. H.

For New Hemline

Most women are lengthening their last year's dresses to conform with this year's styles. Take out the hems of the dresses that are to be lengthened before sending them to the cleaner. Then no streak will be left at the bottom after cleaning and the hem may be turned up at any place desired.

Woolen Garments

Do not twist woolen garments to wring them out after laundering. The water should be squeezed out gently between the hands. Twisting them is apt to pull them out of shape and stretch the garment sometimes beyond repair.

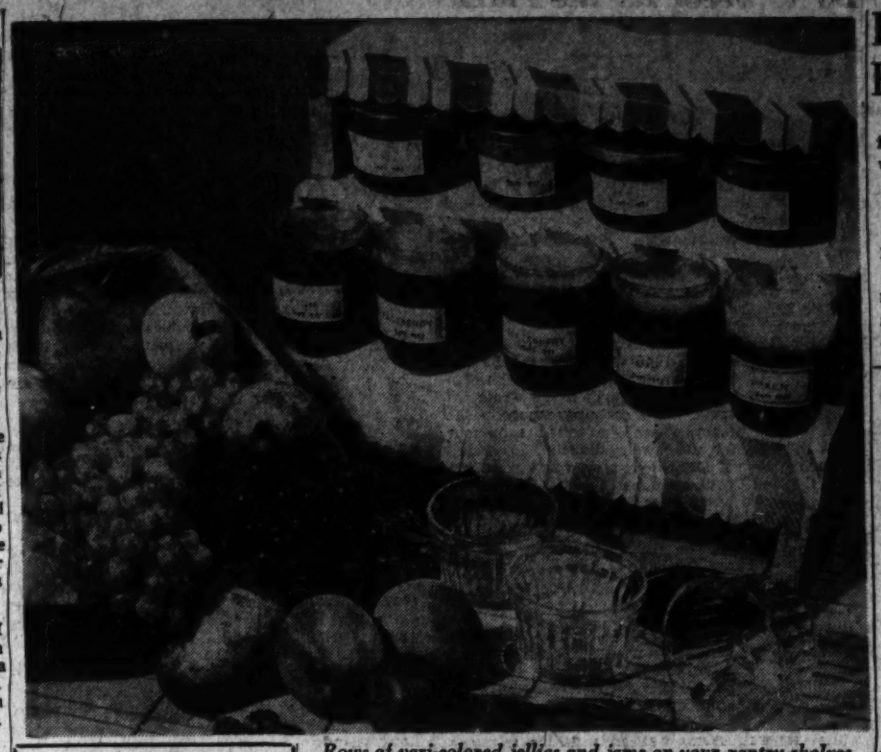
OUTFITTERS TO GENTLEWOMEN SINCE 1903



Rows of vari-colored jellies and jams on your pantry shelves are a most pleasing sight, particularly if you've made them yourself. Many late summer and fall fruits are especially good for this purpose

Ask Anne

Your Questions On Homemaking

1. I splashed some chlorine bleach on a pair of dark gabardine shorts and there are now several white spots on them. What can I do to restore the color?

2. I've often heard that coffee grounds should be poured down the sink to help clear the pipes. My husband forbids it for fear of clogging the drain. What is your opinion?

3. A heavy can recently fell out of my new refrigerator, chipping off a section of the enamel from the lower storage drawer. How can I repair this and prevent the spot from rusting?

4. One of my flowered tablecloths has become badly stained by coffee and other foods. I've tried applying household bleach to the spots and sun bleaching, but the stains haven't come out, though they're lighter. Have you any suggestions? D. B. F.

1. About the only way to get rid of the white spots bleached in the shorts is to redye them. If they're woolen and expensive take them to a professional dyer. If they're cotton, you can probably dye them nicely yourself with one of the dyes sold in drug stores. Boiling is usually necessary in dying dark colors.

2. Plumbers say tossing the coffee grounds down the sink is bad practice. They become embedded in the film of grease inside the pipes, and make a rough surface which, in turn, catches more grease as it comes through. Layer after layer is built up and the pipes can become seriously clogged.

3. Enamel paint can be used to touch up enameled surfaces. However, if the refrigerator drawer is porcelain—as many of them are—use porcelain glaze, obtainable at paint stores.

4. Try the following on the spots on your tablecloth: Sponge with hydrogen peroxide, then sprinkle on powdered sodium perborate. Let stand half an hour, then rinse well with water.

I have a small kitchen table which has been painted three times, layer on layer. Please tell me how to remove this paint. L. I. S.

Use one of the paint-removing compounds sold in paint stores. After the paint has softened, wipe it off or, if necessary, scrape with a putty knife or steel wool. Be sure to remove the paint remover with turpentine. Otherwise, new paint will not dry properly.

Wash with soap and water or with clear water and a mild household cleanser. Rinse well and wipe dry. Marble should never be treated with acids or strong solutions of any kind for cleaning or removing stains. Instead, remove stains with a household bleach. Saturate a thick pad with the bleach and put it over the stain for several hours, then clean. Rubbing with a small quantity of paste wax will restore the luster to the surface.

Jelly Additions for Larder Will Brighten Winter Menus

THIS is the time of year for hoarding. The family cache of jams, jellies and preserves is being replenished and pantry shelves grow bright with 1947 labels.

In these recipes the term "jelly stage" refers to that moment when two distinct drops of the hot syrup "sheet" together from the edge of the lifted spoon.

APPLE JELLY BASE

Cut up 5 pounds of green apples. Remove blossom ends and any bruised parts. Place in kettle and add 5 cups of water. Cover and cook quickly until apples are very soft, 20 to 25 minutes. Turn into a jelly bag and let drip several hours or overnight. If a clear jelly is desired, do not squeeze bag. Apple jelly may be made by boiling juice to jelly stage.

HERB JELLIES FROM APPLE BASE

1 cup apple juice
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
Drop of any desired coloring
2 drops of essential oil

Combine apple juice, sugar and vinegar. Cook rapidly almost to the jelly stage. Add coloring. Cook to jelly stage, then remove from heat, add oil, stir well and turn into sterilized jars. Seal when cool. Yield: 2 small jars.

ORANGE MARMALADE

3 medium-sized oranges
1 lemon
Sugar

Wash fruit well and slice fruit very thin. Measure and add 1½ the quantity of water. Cover and simmer 2 hours. Measure and add water to equal original fruit measure. (Not combined water and fruit, but just the original fruit measure.) Add an equal amount of sugar and boil quickly to the jelly stage. Seal in hot sterilized glasses. Approximate yield: 3 to 4 pints.

BANANA JAM

1 cup orange juice
1/3 cup lemon juice
6 bananas, diced (3 cups)

Combine sugar and juices and stir until sugar is dissolved. Add bananas, bring to a boil and let simmer, stirring occasionally, until mixture is thick. Seal in hot sterilized glasses. Yield: 5 (3-ounce) glasses.

OLD-FASHIONED PEACH BUTTER

5 pounds of peaches
3 pounds of sugar

Peel and slice the peaches. Cover with sugar and let stand overnight. Cook three hours over low heat; then pour into hot sterilized glasses and seal immediately with melted paraffin. Yield: 8 (½ pint) jars.

SPICED CRANBERRIES

2½ cups sugar
2 (2-inch) sticks cinnamon
1 teaspoon whole cloves
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
4 cups cranberries

Combine sugar, water, spices, lemon juice and rind and boil 5 minutes. Add cranberries and cook slowly, without stirring, until all the skins pop open. Seal in sterilized jars. Yield: 1 quart.

Rice Pancakes and Honey For a Sunday Breakfast

Rice pancakes and honey are a combination that will make your family rise and shine on Sunday morning—or any other day in the week. Make the pancakes with:

1 cup sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup boiled rice
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt, and sugar. Combine eggs, rice, milk, and shortening, and stir into first mixture. Bake on hot greased griddle and serve with butter and honey. This recipe makes about 18 medium-sized pancakes.

How Much I Care

What can I say to you that I . . . Have never said before . . . To let you know I want you, dear . . . To cherish and adore? . . . What can I do to prove to you . . . That under every sun . . . My soul is calling out to you . . . To be my only one? . . . I walk beneath the silver stars . . . The way all lovers do . . . And every path I take is one . . . That carries me to you . . . I wander in the dreamland of . . . The clouds that touch the skies . . . And everywhere I go I seem . . . To gaze into your eyes . . . And yet I cannot find the words . . . Barber Shop Gets Woman's Touch

By Marie McNair

SARAH JACKSON DOYLE, who as Mrs. Forbes Morgan charmed Washington in the days of the New Deal, has a barber shop on her hands.

No, she's not owner of the tonsorial parlor, but she's been given a commission to redecorate the 44-year-old establishment in the Plaza Hotel in New York.

"No pink bows and blue curtains at the windows," she says, as she goes about her work making the suite a model of efficiency and attractiveness at one and the same time.

Sarah Doyle first entered the ranks of the working girls back in 1940 when Bernard Baruch persuaded her to take a job with OPA. "The Inside Story of a Bureaucrat," which she wrote for a national magazine, was a scathing expose of the Government agency where she toiled a 54-hour week in the watch and jewelry division.

During the war Mrs. Doyle served as a volunteer with the Red Cross, but a natural flair for interior decorating led to an offer from Mrs. McCuteheon Cowdin and Mrs. Dick Barthelmess, a year or more ago. At the moment, Mrs. Doyle is decorating five apartments and one business office in addition to the Plaza's barber shop.

Dr. Stork's Assistant

ANYTHING YOU WANT to know about Doberman Pinschers, Mrs. Clayton Adams can tell you. She and General Adams not only raise them but Madeleine Adams delivers them.

From Washington last spring Clayton and Madeleine headed for Canada in their trailer. It was while General Adams was on a fishing trip one day that his wife brought a litter of 10 little Dobermans into the world unaided by a vet or even a sympathetic friend.

The Adamses arrived back in town a few days ago, parked their trailer in a camp and are with Mrs. Adams' aunt, Mrs. Martin Vogel, at her home on 30th st. On their way down from the Canadian Laurentians, they stopped in Far Hills, N. J., just long enough for one of their pair of dogs to add another ribbon to his string.

That Race Again

NOW THAT THE off-again, on-again Armed-Assault match race is definitely on for Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse will keep to their original plans. They'll be among the notables in the stands at Belmont Park, New York, for the great race. They'll have as their guests Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Clinton Anderson. Destined to be one of the great matches of this era, the contest is one of the few match races in the history of this sport of kings. According to Jouett Shouse, the last big event of that kind was the Man o' War-Str Barton classic about 1920.

TOWN TOPICS:

Mrs. George Mesta, who has again leased the Walter Schoellkopf's house at 2300 S st., is proudly proclaiming she's 12 pounds lighter than when she left Washington in June.

Weathering the Miami Beach hurricane without mishap were Mr. and Mrs. Gould Shaw and the latter's young son, Townsend Vogel. With their two love birds and a few extra clothes, the Shaws left their ocean front apartment for a storm-proof shelter nearby. They found only slight water damage when they returned. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw and Townie will spend the winter at Miami Beach. Mrs. Effingham Townsend, Peggy Shaw's mother, who was with them for more than two months, is back in town and will have her brother, David Edwards Graham 3d, visiting her for about 10 days. Mr. Graham arrives today from his home on Long Island.

Mrs. Roy St. Lewis has planned a gala day to celebrate her husband's birthday anniversary on Sunday. Guests are invited to Rancho Mio, the St. Lewis' country place in Maryland and will start the afternoon off with games, potato races, etc. Overalls and gingham frocks will be de rigeur with prizes awarded for the best costumes.

Eisenhower Says
'I Want No Political Office'

Morgantown, W. Va., Sept. 23 (AP).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said today, "I want nothing to do with politics and I want no political office."

The general came here to address a special convocation of West Virginia University and to receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws. He has been mentioned as a possible Republican nominee for President.

Presenting him for the honorary degree, President Raymond E. Salvati of the university board of governors, said Eisenhower's hand, in peace as in war, "has given the people a spirit of self confidence and a national dignity."

The general prefaced a morning news conference with the assertion he hoped the 30-odd newspaper and radio representatives confronting him would "please lay off me for once on anything that involves politics."

Editor Herman Gieske of the Parkersburg News, after the Chief of Staff had discussed a variety of subjects ranging from military occupation to Britain's economic plight, asked if he could pop "the question."

"I have answered that question so flatly and completely before," the general said, "yet people seem to believe what they want to believe. I say that I don't want any political office and people say, "Oh, yeah."

The general then told Gieske to proceed and the editor framed his question:

"General, next year, you will become a civilian, and when you become a civilian would you refuse the Republican nomination for President?"

The general parried with: "Honestly, I don't see how I can answer that." Then he added:

"It is, of course, true, that I will become a civilian next year and assume a job (president of Columbia University) that frankly terrifies me.

"People can change. They change their religion. But I can say that I want nothing to do with politics and I want no political office. I honestly mean that I want nothing to do with it (politics)."

Calls Soviet 'Misguided'

Morgantown, W. Va., Sept. 23 (INS).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower termed Russia a "misguided" nation, and at the same time discounted the possibility of a global war in the near future.

He told a news conference:

"I feel Russia is misguided, and is not following what is best for her own interests in taking a completely negative attitude on world affairs."

In answer to a direct question concerning the ability of Russia to wage war at the present time, the general said:

"Russia was so badly torn up by the last war that it will take her at least a decade to prepare her economy for another."

'Draft' League Approves Intensive Kansas Drive

By The Associated Press

The "Draft Eisenhower for President League" has approved "an immediate intensive drive" in Kansas "to weld together the great number of Eisenhower for President enthusiasts in the State."

A statement issued by the league headquarters here added that "thousands of letters would be mailed to Kansas voters offering membership card, buttons and aid in organizing local clubs.

Prince Georges Schools Have Fewer Pupils

Prince Georges County school attendance is lower than was expected, preliminary reports indicate, according to Superintendent of Schools G. Gardner Shugart.

A total of 21,689 children has started classes in the county schools, the reports show. School officials had expected approximately 23,000. The schools had an attendance of 21,481 in September of last year.

Shugart said he saw no reason why the attendance should fall below that expected, except he understood that children in rural tobacco areas always are slow in starting school in the fall because of harvesting chores.

Attendance probably will pick up in October, if the usual pattern is followed, he said.

Negro elementary schools show a decrease of 22 and high schools a decrease of 53 as compared with the attendance in 1945, he said. Negro junior high schools increased 327 more than 1945 figures, he said. All white school attendance increased.

D. C. Man Offered Post With World Church Council

The World Council of Churches has invited Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, Federation of Churches executive secretary, to become its public relations officer from January 1 to September 1, 1948.

Dr. Reissig, who was out of the city yesterday and not available for comment, is understood to be considering the acceptance of the post. The Federation's board of directors has expressed willingness to permit Dr. Reissig a leave of absence, should he accept.

Dr. Reissig, an ordained Lutheran minister, was one of 18 American clergymen who recently returned from a six-week tour of Europe. If he takes the new position, Dr. Reissig will be the first American churchman on the central administrative staff of the council, with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

Prince Georges May Create Road Districts

Tentative plans for dividing Prince Georges road work into four districts were presented to the Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday by Arthur W. Tayman, county engineer.

Tayman said that a headquarter garage and repair shop should be located near Largo, with storage facilities for equipment and supplies. Branch district headquarters garages would be located at Brandywine, near Mellwood and at Seabrook.

The commissioners fixed October 1 for a day-long conference with Tayman on road program plans and problems, including the purchase of snow plows and other equipment necessary for carrying out the road program.

Appointments Announced

C. Henry McPherson of Aquasco was named maintenance superintendent of county roads under supervision of County Engineer Tayman at a salary of $3600 yearly, effective October 1. George W. Bushby was named chief of party at $3120 and Ed Williams was promoted to right of way engineer.

The commissioners postponed action in the suspension of County Policeman Arnett W. Cord until next Tuesday at his request. Cord was suspended after charges were filed that he assaulted a prisoner, James Harvey Rogers, Cottage City auto salesman, July 21. Rogers, who has filed a $75,000 damage suit against Cord, was convicted in Hyattsville police court on charges of being drunk and disorderly and assault and was fined $10 on the first charge and $25 for assaulting Cord by Trial Magistrate Alan Bowie after a hearing September 11.

Bridge Bids Rejected

Five bids offered on the construction of a bridge on Calvert rd. across Northeast Branch which ranged from $92,286 to $122,908 were rejected and County Engineer Tayman was instructed to redesign the plans to utilize the present abutments. This was the second time bids had been rejected as too high on this project.

Only one bid, for grading the approaches, was received when the commissioners opened bids on construction of two concrete culverts and grading of approaches on Woodmoor-Mitchellville rd. Tayman was ordered to readvertise for bids.

Award of a contract amounting to $67,044 for channelization of the Eastern ave.-Queens Chapel rd. interseotion by the State Roads Commisison to Corson & Gruman of Washington, low bider, was approached by the Commisioners.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Red Hot Battle Rages Over European Loans

By Drew Pearson

Washington.—A red hot battle is being staged behind the scenes between the State and Treasury Departments on one hand and the Export - Import Bank over loans to Europe.

Martin

While the State and Treasury Departments have been scraping the bottom of the appropriations barrel looking for a few million here and there to stop revolution in Europe, William McChesney Martin, head of the Export-Import Bank, has been sitting on 800 million dollars already appropriated by Congress.

However, Martin considers Europe a bad financial risk, says that if Congress wants to give away money it should say so.

Army-Navy Still Jealous

Now that he is boss of all the land, sea and air forces, Defense Secretary James Forrestal already is showing favoritism for his old friends in the Navy.

Forrestal is keeping only his Naval and Marine aides—Capt. Charles Buchanan, USN, and Capt. Edward Elder, USMC. The Army and Air Corps will not be represented.

Forrestal's public relations post has also been assigned to a Navy man, Capt. Robert Berry, who, himself, thinks the job should go to a civilian, not a man trained to fight.

Finally, Forrestal plans to take his Navy office staff with him to the Pentagon building, thus surrounding himself entirely with Naval personnel, except for a couple of Army enlisted men.

Speaker Martin Muses

Stocky, scowling Speaker Joe Martin bluntly admitted to close friends recently that the "Eisenhower boom has politicians worried." Darkly he added that "an undercurrent for MacArthur" also is rustling across the country and might burst into presidential fireworks. Joe didn't seem too happy about this either.

"What if MacArthur should suddenly step off the boat at San Francisco?" blurted out the earthy, plain-spoken Speaker. "Next he would be riding down Fifth ave. What then? Can't you visualize it? The idea of MacArthur for President could take the country by storm."

"Let me tell you," continued the little man from Massachusetts, "if things get worse in Europe, the people may turn to a military man like Eisenhower or MacArthur."

The Eisenhower boom already has penetrated the grass roots and is gaining strength, Martin continued, citing as his source former GOP candidate Alf Landon. "I don't think Alf would kid me," he added.

"I am a politician, and I know how these booms can pick up momentum," explained the Speaker. The Eisenhower boom was not starting too early, he said, and hinted the Chief of Staff might not be so reticent about politics once out of uniform. Eisenhower, Martin agreed, was more popular than MacArthur, but "if chaos should develop," he warned, "the people will look for an iron hand. Then they may turn to MacArthur."

"But what about the bonus march?" asked one friend. "I can't forget how MacArthur ejected those veterans from the Capital."

Is MacArthur Too Old?

"The public has a short memory," shrugged Martin. "That was 15 years ago."

"You mustn't forget MacArthur is getting along in age," pointed out another of Martin's friends. "He's 67, if I remember right. Isn't that a little old to be running for President?"

The Speaker shook his head: "Some people are 60 years old when they are 90, and others are 90 years old at 60. A man is as young as he feels, and MacArthur must feel young or how could he run Japan so vigorously?"

As for Martin's own designs on the Republican nomination, the man who would be heir to the presidency if Truman should die, had little to say. He admitted that he had outlined a speaking tour which would cross the paths of other presidential candidates, but claimed it was no presidential-scouting trip.

"I started out with two," he explained apologetically as he fumbled down a list of speaking engagements. Then he added: "It would be nice to make this trip a junket. We could stop to shoot pheasants in South Dakota."

LaGuardia's Last Visit

In his declining years, Fiorello LaGuardia never lost a nostalgia for Capitol Hill, where he began his amazing public career and where, as a fledgling member, he once astounded his colleagues during prohibition by reading a recipe for home brew into the Congressional Record.

Last time LaGuardia visited Congress was just before adjournment in July, when his failing health was sadly apparent. He looked worn and haggard, Representative John Dingell of Michigan, an old friend, urged LaGuardia to "take it easy."

"Look here, Little Flower," warned Dingell, "you've been blossoming over too much terrain and your petals are beginning to droop a little. The rugged LaGuardia I once knew is getting pretty frail. You need a rest. You ought to slow down."

"I guess you're right, John," the New Yorker grinned palely. "But I can't take time to slow down as long as there's work to do."

Merry-Go-Round — President Truman is intimating another trip—this one to Puerto Rico with a stop at Key West, in October. Truman has finally decided against any political tour of the West. With everyone else politicking, he feels he should not do likewise . . . American Ambassador to Greece Lincoln MacVeagh will soon resign. MacVeagh lost out to former Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska in the reorganization of the reactionary Greek government. Griswold is now top man in Greece . . . Because of the European crisis, the State Department will delay taking over control of Germany from the American Army. The Army thinks it can handle Germany better . . . The French cabinet decided secretly last week to ask the World Bank for an extra quarter billion dollars immediately . . . Chairman David Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission, will soon announce a new Oak Ridge Institute for nuclear studies to be made up of 14 Southern colleges. These colleges are: Alabama Polytechnic, Catholic University, Duke, Emory, Georgia Tech, Louisiana State University, Tulane, University of Alabama, Kentucky, University of North Carolina, Tennessee, University of Texas, University of Virginia, and Vanderbilt. All will send top scientific students to Oak Ridge.

Wienecke to Head 'Snowdrop' Team

Lieut. Col. Robert H. Wienecke of Glencoe, Ill., yesterday was named commander of the combat team in the Army Ground Forces' "Operation Snowdrop," a series of winter maneuvers scheduled to get under way at Pine Camp, N. Y., on November 1.

The exercises, which will be under direction of Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, commanding the First Army, will comprise a complete airhead operation in snow covered country throughout the winter months. New equipment will be tested and troops instructed in winter survival methods.

Labor Benefits, Denham Says

Cleveland, Sept. 23 (AP).—Labor is the "chief beneficiary" of the Taft-Hartley Act and can jeopardize industrial peace by boycotting it, Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, asserted today.

Denham, told the American Bar Association that unions will hurt themselves unless they take fullest advantage of its protection.

Changes written by Congress into the Wagner Act have produced neither "antiunion legislation nor a slave labor act," Denham said. He declared the law worthy of the "highest degree of respect" from the legal standpoint.

His address, to the association's labor relations law section, was the prelude to a full-dress debate in Cleveland's public auditorium, at which top labor attorneys were expected to challenge the law's fairness and workability.

Joseph A. Padway and Lee Pressman, general counsel of the AFL and CIO respectively, were scheduled for a leading role in this dress rehearsal of what later may become courtroom battles.

Most unions agree, Denham said, "that they cannot get along without the act and the board—and in this, I think they are correct." But others, he said, have announced intentions to boycott the act and ignore the board's services.

"Labor organizations now exist in a highly competitive field," he pointed out. "Many of them are decidedly 'big business' but if big business were denied the protection of the courts in its legitimate operations it would soon become the prey of the smaller elements which enjoy such protection, and can attack and raid it with impunity.

"Industrial peace and harmony will not be promoted if this condition is allowed to persist. It can only be maintained if all of organized labor will utilize the act and services of the board to the fullest."

Denham declared it a "gross exaggeration" to describe him as a "labor czar" under the new law as some unions have done, but conceded that his powers are broad.

Charles Chaplin, deserting his beloved little tramp character, enacts the role of the slick, sinister and charming French Bluebeard. His business: murder.

Charles Chaplin introduces a revolutionary pattern of screen story-telling, confident the public will welcome the most original humor and the most original drama ever filmed.

There is a peculiar intensity of story and an even more peculiar hysteria of laughter in "Monsieur Verdoux."

We must warn you—and YOU must warn your friends—that you must come prepared to behold something never before shown on the screen.

Warner Drops a Dime

Cut Rates Begin When 'Life' Ends

By Richard L. Coe

ONLY THE OTHER night Fulton Lewis, jr., was stammering into a microphone that the only people who are screaming about high prices are the extreme left-wingers.

And now along comes news that the Warner Theater is going to reduce its prices once "Life With Father" clears out. This was to have been tomorrow, but even at advaneed "roadshow" prices, the Clarence Day comedy is doing so well that it looks like a third week for the William Powell triumph.

The Warner assures us that "there will be no change in policy." First on the list of films at the new rate will be "Dark Passage," with Mr. and Mrs. Humphrey Bogart. After that "Down to Earth," with Rita Hayworth and Larry Parks, and "It Had to Be You," with Ginger Rogers and Cornel Wilde, are on the agenda.

Here's the new price schedule: Monday through Friday, from opening until 5 p. m. 44c; from 5 till closing 70c. On Saturdays, until noon, 44c; from 12 until 5, 55c, and from 5 until closing, 74c. Sundays and holidays the all-day price will be 74c. Children at all times will be 30c. Federal tax is included in all prices. With the exception of the weekday prices until 5, which remain the same, this is a reduction of a dime (and 11c) on all performances.

This brings the Warner prices in line with its F st. rivals, though the Capitol still has the highest operating costs of any theater in town, thanks to its adherence to the vaudeville policy which a lot of us still enjoy. (Especially bills like this week's.) Whether this presages further drops in prices among the other houses remains to be seen. Theater managers will be watching the effect on Warner grosses and so will we all.

Anyway, it's a heartening sign, and recognition of high prices by an intrinsically conservative theater chain suggests that price-beefers and left-wingers aren't necessarily the same. To Warners, then, congratulations on a hopeful move.

VAUGHN MONROE'S orchestra, which we referred to up there, is doing bang-up business at the Capitol. . . . So they're adding an extra performance today, rather a remarkable procedure for a non-holiday closing day. . . . Yes, it's a good show and don't miss Frank Fontaine's merry imitation of a sweepstakes' winner. . . . It stopped the Shoreham's movie mogul dinner the other night in its tracks, no easy trick. . . . Monroe's been an exceptional draw, topped only on the house books by the extra holiday performances of pennant-holder Spike Jones.

CHARLOTTE GREENWOOD will be along at the National some time this season in "I Remember Mama," wherein she's scoring a surprising success on the Coast . . . Russell Lewis and Howard Young, producers with Homer Curran of the current "Lady Windermere's Fan," are presenting this one.

CLARE TREE MAJOR'S Children's Theater of New York will open its sixteenth Washington season Saturday, October 18, with two peformances of "Robin Hood." . . . The Children's Museum of Washington is sponsoring the six-play season on Saturday mornings and afternoons . . . Subscriptions are available by mail order through the Children's Museum, care of Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H sts. nw. . . . A telephone call to Hobart 5028 will bring you a mail order form.

CHILDREN, too, will benefit from the Little's matinee "Fantasia" scheeme . . . Groups of not less than 15 school children may attend the 3 p. m. performances at a reduced price of 35 cents (25 cents for children under 12) . . . Each group must be accompanied by a member of the school faculty, who will be a guest of the Little . . . Make your arrangements in advance by phoning Metropolitan 1326.

GADSBY'S TAVERN revival of David Garrick's "Miss in Her Teens or A Medley of Lovers" is good fun . . . The make-believe, as we told you the other day, begins at the door, dipping back 175 years and including the Washington family, properly costumed, in the audience . . . Watching the play, you are struck with how audiences have grown more sophisticated in their reflexes . . . As a playwright, Garrick was an actor who wrote parts for himself . . . Situations are hammered home with a bluntness that would embarrass a producer of Westerns . . . Director Andrew Nilles' players do the puppet-like roles with appropriate zeal and look charmingly at home in their Revolutionary period costumes . . . The first names of players aren't programmed, so one can only list them as Miss Barton, Miss Ogden, Mrs. Redmon, and the Messrs. French, Frazer, Colclough, Francis, Redmon, Sweeley and Stuart.

Player Sticks To Chopsticks

Hollywood — Joan Lorring aroused the interest of patrons and proprietor of a Chinese restaurant where she lunched one day with Leo McCarey, producer-director of RKO Radio's "Good Sam," in which she plays in support of Gary Cooper and Ann Sheridan, by asking for chopsticks with which to eat her food.

Born in Hong Kong, Joan lived in China for 12 years before coming to the United States. For many dishes, including Italian spaghetti, she prefers using chopsticks to knife and fork.

Angela Sees America

Hollywood.—Angela Lansbury, now that M-G-M's "If Winter Comes," starring Walter Pidgeon, Debbrah Kerr and herself, is completed, is seeing America from an automobile — her first opportunity since she arrived seven years ago from London—seven years during which, going from one picture to another, she rose to stardom.

Cugat's Bandmen Steady

Hollywood.—Xavier Cugat, seen with his band in "This Time for Keeps," starring Esther Williams, has one of the most steady musical organizations in the world—most of his musicians have been with him about 14 years. Of many name bands in pictures during the war years, his is still on the screen. "Teamwork, by my boys," he says.

'The Winslow Boy' Begins U. S. Career Here October 6

"The Winslow Boy," the most admired play in London last season, will begin its American tour at the National Theater here on Monday evening, October 6. The play, the work of Terence Rattigan, who wrote "O Mistress Mine" for the Lunts, will remain in Washington for two weeks. It is presented by the Atlantis Company, a union of the Theater Guild, H. M. Tennent, Ltd., and John C. Wilson, the same forces that presented John Gielgud's players here last spring.

The company is headed by Alan Webb, Valerie White and Frank Allenby, and includes Madge Compton, Betty Sinclair, George Benson, Michael Kingsley, Michael Newell, Owen Holder, Dorothy Hamilton and Leonard Mitchell.

Rattigan's play reports the disorganization of an Englishman's home when his son is expelled from a naval academy, accused of stealing a 5-shilling postal order. The lad convinces his father of his innocence, whereupon the father consecrates his life to the task of clearing the boy.

Against a storm of public opinion, and at severe sacrifice to himself and his family, the father pursues his stubborn course. He engages England's most celebrated lawyer to defend his son, and refuses to be content with less than a parliamentary order directing the school authorities to consider the boy's defense.

Glen Byam Shaw, whose direction of "Dear Octopus" was commended several seasons ago, returns as the director. "The Winslow Boy" will have the customary Wednesday and Saturday matinees during its Washington fortnight.

End of Wreco As Corporation Set For Oct. 1

By S. Oliver Goodman

The end of Washington Railway & Electric Co. as a corporate entity will come on October 1.

Wreco directors yesterday afternoon declared the much-fought and much-amended dissolution plan effective on that date. The board also listed final details on what Wreco stockholders will receive.

Holders of Wreco's 85,000 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock of $100 par value will receive reclassified securities of Potomac Electric Power Co., consisting of one share of Pepco 3.60 per cent preferred of $50 par and 4¼ shares of new Pepco common of $10 par, plus 41 2/3 cents in cash for each share held. The cash is equal to accrued dividends on Wreco preferred to October 1.

Holders of Wreco's 65,000 shares of common stock of $100 par value will get 40 shares of Pepco common for each share held. Wreco participating units are entitled to exchange for new Pepco common on a one-for-one basis.

Scrip Arranged

Wreco directors yesterday declared a final dividend of $3 a share on common stock (equivalent to 7½ cents per participating unit), payable September 30 to stock of record September 29.

Dissolution of Wreco is preliminary to breakup of billion-dollar North American Co., which owns 80 per cent of Wreco's common stock. Wreco in turn owned 50 per cent of Capital Transit Co. and 100 per cent of Pepco's stock.

Wreco earlier this month offered its Capital Transit Co. holdings to stockholders, and will use the $2,400,000 receipts to pay off bank loans.

Recently, Pepco underwent an elaborate refinancing by which its authorized capital stock was increased from 30 million to 75 million dollars. This made available additional Pepco shares for which Wreco stockholders will exchange their holdings and thus Wreco will be dissolved.

Liquidating Dividends Seen.

The principal stockholder of Wreco, North American will receive much of the new Pepco shares. The giant holding firm, now under court order to break up, is expected to distribute the Pepco shares in the form of liquidating dividends. In reliable quarters it was stated that no North American stockholders will be big enough to control Pepco.

Washington Railway & Electric Co. originally was incorporated in 1902 as Washington & Great Falls Electric Co. It changed to its present name in 1902. Wreco's street railway and bus properties were merged with Capital Traction Co. in 1933 and Wreco became a holding company. The District of Columbia Utilities Commission in approving Wreco's dissolution commented that the intermediate holding firm served no useful purpose.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—Wheat carried a strong tone during today's Board of Trade session, but corn was weak after an opening upturn.

Wheat opened strong when the price of the July contracts was bid up around 5 cents a bushel before offerings appeared. The strength of the wheat pit communicated to corn and oats, and both advanced until heavy overnight cash corn offerings were recorded.

Bookings of corn on a to-arrive basis from the country were placed at more than half a million bushels and opening buyers took to the selling side. Rallies were not sustained and general selling was followed by a sharp break near the close.

At the finish wheat was 3 to 4½ cents lower than the previous close. December, 2.69½@2.69¾. Corn was 3½ to 4¾ lower, December, 2.16¼@2.15⅞. Oats were ¼ to 1¼ lower, December 1.06⅜@1.06½.

Brokers said the strength of wheat was the result of mill and commercial buying combined with a rather heavy investment demand. There had been rumors in the air that the plans of the Government but there was nothing of an official nature disclosed by Washington respecting the recommendations of the Cabinet Food Committee, which met yesterday.

Undertaker Examining Board Created With Appointment of 5

The commissioners yesterday appointed four local undertakers and a health department official to serve as the newly-created D. C. undertakers' examination board set up by Congress August 1.

The board consists of W. R. Frank Hines, Thomas M. Hysong, G. C. Echols and Robert G. McGuire, jr., all morticians, and Joseph B. Irvine, director of the bureau of vital statistics.

Purpose of the board is to conduct examinations of applicants for undertaker and apprentice undertaker's licenses in the District. The Congressional Appropriations Act passed August 1 makes provision for such a board—the District's first.

Under the act, prospective Washington morticians must have the following qualifications: over 21 years of age, United States citizens of good moral character, high school graduates with nine months embalming education and two years practical experience.

Board Member Irvine disclosed that "four or five meetings will be held very soon" to set up organization and examination procedure. Morticians in actual practice here for the past five years, he said, will be licensed without examination.

All would-be undertakers, however, will be tested. Previously, undertakers were registered without a fee or examination upon recommendation of their employer here or presentation of an embalming license from another State.

Irvine said all District undertakers must be licensed at $20 each by November 1. The board's appointment is for one year. Administration of the examination board, Irvine said, will be under the Health Department.

Lie Detector Frees Nelligan In Rape Case

A three-hour lie detector test to which he willingly consented last night absolved Pvt. John Nelligan, erstwhile patient at Walter Reed, of connection with several assault complaints, police announced today.

The same test, however, was said to have reaffirmed the 19-year-old youth's earlier statement that he attempted to choke Mrs. Sandra Mona Sado with a necktie near her home in the 3200 block of 16th st. nw. last week.

Nelligan is now held in Prince Georges County jail, Marlboro, where the test was conducted, on a charge of breaking and entering.

Police said the test indicated Nelligan was not involved in a rape case of three weeks ago in which the victim, an Arlington Farms girl, has said she thought he was her attacker.

He also was cleared of suspected involvement in other similar cases.

Meanwhile, Assistant United States Attorney John B. Diamond 3d said he would present the case against Nelligan directly to the grand jury. District police said he would be charged with assault with intent to rape and assault with a dangerous weapon—the necktie.

Fall Church Festival Misses Financial Goal

Although it fell short of its financial goal, the recent Falls Church Fiesta helped "organize community spirit" behind the town's drive for a local park and recreation center, Mrs. C. F. Blanding, Fiesta co-chairman, said yesterday.

No estimate of actual income from the three-day event will be available until the participating groups turn in their reports, she added.

The Fiesta was held last Friday, Saturday and Sunday to raise money for the project. A "carnival" was staged at the Falls Church High School, tours of historic homes were made, and the three-day celebration wound up with a pageant depicting Falls Church history.

Mrs. Blanding said the income from the Fiesta fell short of advance estimates because of a rainy day Saturday, and because of a State ruling banning scheduled bingo games and raffles. The affair was sponsored by a specially-formed Park Committee with the backing of town officials.

Washington's newest nitery, the Fiesta, makes its debut tomorrow night, will feature the June Taylor Girls from Florida's Copacabana, vaude acts and Bill Strickland's band. Tonight there'll be a prevue party for the lucky press . . . Gracie Barrie is among the stars being lined up for a Fiesta engagement this fall.

HALLO, CAIRO! LIKEWISE BROADWAY. At New Fiesta Club Cairo's opening tonight brings one of Broadway's dizziest shows to Washington—the Copacabana Revue, all girls, rhinestones and S. A. . . . Ben Blue, star of the show, is a former Washingtonian, use to be known out Northeast as Bennie Bernstein. He's done nicely in motion pictures and bistres, but, his heart's all wrapped up in the two night clubs he owns—one in San Francisco and the other, Slapsie Maxie's in Hollywood . . . Dance music at the Cairo this season is by Paul Kain's band with Jimmy Nichols as star singer and sax man.

BARBARA GRANT, the joyous litter of "Best Foot Forward," will be the star of the Rainbow Room's fall opening party tomorrow. Barbara was discovered by Red Benson, New York disc jockey. Life for her since has been one grand whirl of stage, screen, radio and niteries . . . Milt Davis and his band return to Rainbow tomorrow night after a couple of seasons' absence. A fatted calf may not await them—but they'll certainly get a steak apiece . . . Rainbow has been getting a quiet facelift lately, will surprise you with its freshened charm tomorrow.

During the frantic-antic war years a group of naval officers got up a club called the "Slopshuters," made their headquarters at the Anchor Room where Georgia and Jerry were doing their last trick before going overseas. Now that G. and J. are back they'd also like the "Slopshuters" to come back—in case any of the boys are still around.

MAGICAL GIRL. Joan Brandon, girl magico, who's appeared before the Kings of Sweden and Denmark the Dukes and Duchesses of Windsor and Kent (these last at different times, we're sure), will head the Little Revue at Lotus' fall opening party tomorrow. Booker Jean Davis also prsents the Dancing Barrets and Betty Little's Lads and Lassies with Lynn and Conway. Songs by Buddy Shaner. This hardly looks like a little revue. It's more like a full scale winter season show—and a nice one.

BUZZ SAW RHYTHM. La Conga's opening was more fun! For about an hour after dance music started, electricians were finishing light installations on the new dance floor. They'd punctuate the Curbelos rumbas with roars from their electric saw—startling the dickens out of the customers (and Maestro Curbelos). But after the first r-r-rips, everybody loved it, applauded the electricians . . . A charming gal, too, is Hostess June Dolman. All togged up in a new pink taffeta formal, she grabbed a broom, swept up the sawdust as it gathered . . . Owner Milt Barrett looks younger than he did 10 years ago. So does his beautifully freshened La Conga. The food is fine. Ditto the drinks. Ditto the Curbelos music.

End of Wreco As Corporation Set For Oct. 1

By S. Oliver Goodman

The end of Washington Railway & Electric Co. as a corporate entity will come on October 1.

Wreco directors yesterday afternoon declared the much-fought and much-amended dissolution plan effective on that date. The board also listed final details on what Wreco stockholders will receive.

Holders of Wreco's 85,000 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock of $100 par value will receive reclassified securities of Potomac Electric Power Co., consisting of one share of Pepco 3.60 per cent preferred of $50 par and 4¼ shares of new Pepco common of $10 par, plus 41 2/3 cents in cash for each share held. The cash is equal to accrued dividends on Wreco preferred to October 1.

Holders of Wreco's 65,000 shares of common stock of $100 par value will get 40 shares of Pepco common for each share held. Wreco participating units are entitled to exchange for new Pepco common on a one-for-one basis.

Scrip Arranged

Special scrip arrangements have been made for fractional exchanges.

Wreco directors yesterday declared a final dividend of $3 a share on common stock (equivalent to 7½ cents per participating unit), payable September 30 to stock of record September 29.

Dissolution of Wreco is preliminary to breakup of billion-dollar North American Co., which owns 80 per cent of Wreco's common stock. Wreco in turn owned 50 per cent of Capital Transit Co. and 100 per cent of Pepco's stock.

Wreco earlier this month offered its Capital Transit Co. holdings to stockholders, and will use the $2,400,000 receipts to pay off bank loans.

Recently, Pepco underwent an elaborate refinancing by which its authorized capital stock was increased from 30 million to 75 million dollars. This made available additional Pepco shares for which Wreco stockholders will exchange their holdings and thus Wreco will be dissolved.

Liquidating Dividends Seen.

As principal stockholder of Wreco, North American will receive much of the new Pepco shares. The giant holding firm, also under court order to break up, is expected to distribute the Pepco shares in the form of liquidating dividends. In reliable quarters it was stated that as North American stockholders will be big enough to control Pepco.

Washington Railway & Electric Co. originally was incorporated in 1902 as Washington & Great Falls Electric Co. It changed to its present name in 1902. Wreco's street railway and bus properties were merged with Capital Traction Co. in 1933 and Wreco became a holding company. The District of Columbia Utilities Commission in approving Wreco's dissolution commented that the intermediate holding firm served no useful purpose.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—Wheat carried a strong tone during today's Board of Trade session, but corn was weak after an opening upturn.

Wheat opened strong when the price of the July contracts was bid up around 5 cents a bushel before offerings appeared. The strength in the wheat pit communicated to corn and oats, and both advanced until heavy overnight cash corn offerings were recorded.

Bookings of corn on a to-arrive basis from the country were placed at more than half a million bushels and opening buyers took to the selling side. Rallies were not sustained and general selling was followed by a sharp break near the close.

Wheat finish wheat was 3 to 4½ cents lower than the previous close; December, $2.06½@2.06¾. Corn was 3½ to 4¾ lower, December, 2.16⅛@2.15⅝. Oats were ⅛ to ¼ lower, December 1.06⅜@1.06½.

Brokers said the strength of wheat was the result of mill and commercial buying combined with a rather heavy investment demand. Traders had rumors of an increase in the export plans of the Government but there was nothing of an official nature disclosed by Washington respecting the recommendations of the Cabinet Food Committee, which met yesterday.

Undertaker Examining Board Created With Appointment of 5

The commissioners yesterday appointed four local undertakers and a health department official to serve as the newly-created D. C. undertakers' examination board set up by Congress August 1.

The board consists of W. R. Frank Hines, Thomas M. Hysong, G. C. Echols and Robert G. McGuire, jr., all morticians, and Joseph B. Irvine, director of the bureau of vital statistics.

Purpose of the board is to conduct examinations of applicants for undertaker and apprentice undertaker's licenses in the District. The Congressional Appropriations Act passed August 1 makes provision for such a board—the District's first.

Under the act, prospective Washington morticians must have the following qualifications: over 21 years of age, United States citizens of good moral character, high school graduates with nine months embalming education and two years practical experience.

Board Member Irvine disclosed that "four or five meetings will be held very soon" to set up organization and examination procedure. Morticians in actual practice here for the past five years, he said, will be licensed without examination.

All would-be undertakers, however, will be tested. Previously, undertakers were registered without a fee or examination upon recommendation of their employer here or presentation of an embalming license from another State.

Irvine said all District undertakers must be licensed at $20 each by November 1. The board's appointment is for one year. Administration of the examination board, Irvine said, will be under the Health Department.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. Then tiny filters and tubes are overworking day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows that there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulating diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Lie Detector Frees Nelligan In Rape Case

A three-hour lie detector test to which he willingly consented last night absolved Pvt. John Nelligan, erstwhile patient at Walter Reed, of connection with several assault complaints, police announced today.

The same test, however, was said to have reaffirmed the 19-year-old youth's earlier statement that he attempted to choke Mrs. Sandra Mona Sado with a necktie near her home in the 3200 block of 16th st. nw. last week.

Nelligan is now held in Prince Georges County jail, Marlboro, where the test was conducted, on a charge of breaking and entering.

Police said the test indicated Nelligan was not involved in a rape case of three weeks ago in which the victim, an Arlington Farms girl, has said she thought he was her attacker.

He also was cleared of suspected involvement in other similar cases.

Meanwhile, Assistant United States Attorney John B. Diamond 3d said he would present the case against Nelligan directly to the grand jury. District police said he would be charged with assault with intent to rape and assault with a dangerous weapon—the necktie.

Fall Church Festival Misses Financial Goal

Although it fell short of its financial goal, the recent Falls Church Fiesta helped "organize community spirit" behind the town's drive for a local park and recreation center, Mrs. C. F. Blanding, Fiesta co-chairman, said yesterday.

No estimate of actual income from the three-day event will be available until the participating groups turn in their reports, she added.

The Fiesta was held last Friday, Saturday and Sunday to raise money for the project. A "carnival" was staged at the Falls Church High School, tours of historic homes were made, and the three-day celebration wound up with a pageant depicting Falls Church history.

Mrs. Blanding said the income from the Fiesta fell short of advance estimates because of a rainy day Saturday, and because of a State ruling banning scheduled bingo games and raffles. The affair was sponsored by a specially-formed Park Committee with the backing of town officials.

Washington's newest nitery, the Fiesta, makes its debut tomorrow night, will feature the June Taylor Girls from Florida's Copacabana, vaude acts and Bill Strickland's band. Tonight there'll be a prevue party for the lucky press . . . Gracie Barrie is among the stars being lined up for a Fiesta engagement this fall.

Bill Strickland

HALLO, CAIRO! LIKEWISE BROADWAY. At New Fiesta Club Cairo's opening tonight brings one of Broadway's dizziest shows to Washington—the Copacabana Revue, all girls, rhinestones and S. A. . . . Ben Blue, star of the show, is a former Washingtonian, use to be known out Northeast as Bennie Bernstein. He's done nicely in motion pictures and bistres, but, his heart's all wrapped up in the two night clubs he owns—one in San Francisco and the other, Slapsie Maxie's in Hollywood . . . Dance music at the Cairo this season is by Paul Kain's band with Jimmy Nichols as star singer and sax man.

BARBARA GRANT, the joyous litter of "Best Foot Forward," will be the star of the Rainbow Room's fall opening party tomorrow. Barbara was discovered by Red Benson, New York disc jockey. Life for her since has been one grand whirl of stage, screen, radio and niteries . . . Milt Davis and his band return to Rainbow tomorrow night after a couple of seasons' absence. A fatted calf may not await them—but they'll certainly get a steak apiece . . . Rainbow has been getting a quiet facelift lately, will surprise you with its freshened charm tomorrow.

During the frantic-antic war years a group of naval officers got up a club called the "Slopshuters," made their headquarters at the Anchor Room where Georgia and Jerry were doing their last trick before going overseas. Now that G. and J. are back they'd also like the "Slopshuters" to come back—in case any of the boys are still around.

MAGICAL GIRL. Joan Brandon, girl magico, who's appeared before the Kings of Sweden and Denmark the Dukes and Duchesses of Windsor and Kent (these last at different times, we're sure), will head the Little Revue at Lotus' fall opening party tomorrow. Booker Jean Davis also prsents the Dancing Barrets and Betty Little's Lads and Lassies with Lynn and Conway. Songs by Buddy Shaner. This hardly looks like a little revue. It's more like a full scale winter season show—and a nice one.

BUZZ SAW RHYTHM. La Conga's opening was more fun! For about an hour after dance music started, electricians were finishing light installations on the new dance floor. They'd punctuate the Curbelos rumbas with roars from their electric saw—startling the dickens out of the customers (and Maestro Curbelos). But after the first r-r-rips, everybody loved it, applauded the electricians . . . A charming gal, too, is Hostess June Dolman. All togged up in a new pink taffeta formal, she grabbed a broom, swept up the sawdust as it gathered . . . Owner Milt Barrett looks younger than he did 10 years ago. So does his beautifully freshened La Conga. The food is fine. Ditto the drinks. Ditto the Curbelos music.

Prince Georges May Charge D. C. Students

District of Columbia children attending Prince Georges County, Md., schools may have to pay tuition.

The question will be discussed at a special meeting of the Prince Georges County Board of Education at 8 tonight in the County Service Building, Hyattsville, Md. Gardner Shugart said approximately 50 District children attended county schools last year, but that the exact number this year has not yet been ascertained.

Bids to Be Discussed

The meeting tonight will also deal with bids submitted on the construction of the Frederick Sasscer High School at Upper Marlboro, Md. The five bids submitted are considerably higher than expected, Shugart said. They range from $1,057,920 to $1,184,000. A similar building at Oxon Hill, for which bids were opened a week earlier, is to cost only $934,300.

Shugart said conferences have been held with the bidders, and it is possible the coat may be lowered as much as $100,000 through possible changes, such as eliminating a proposed library wing and use of substitute building materials. The school is planned for 14 classrooms, a cafeteria, auditorium, gymnasium and office space.

Agreement With Montgomery

In Montgomery County, Acting School Superintendent, E. M. Douglas said the county has a reciprocal agreement with the District whereby the parents of District students enrolling in county schools for the first time must pay a nominal tuition.

Students already enrolled before the reciprocal agreement went into effect may continue as non-paying students, he said.

He estimated that last year there were several hundred children attending county schools who do not live in the county and predicted an increase would be shown this year when the figures are tabulated.

NCCJ Elects 3 Co-chairmen, Other Officers

Norris C. Blake, attorney, Joseph D. Kaufman, retired merchant, and Harry J. Kirk, businessman, were elected cochairmen last night of the Washington Round Table of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

The three chairmen represent the Jew, Protestant and Catholic faiths. They were elected at a meeting at the YWCA, 17th and K sts. nw.

Milton W. King, another attorney, was named treasurer, and Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, secretary.

Traffic Hazard Relief Requested

The Pinecrest Citizens' Association of Silver Spring rd. will petition State and county officials for relief from traffic hazards endangering school children in their section.

The association voted last night in its meeting at the Recreation Center on St. Lawrence dr. to request Montgomery County Commissioners and the State Roads Commission to construct sidewalks and curb vehicle speed on old Bladensburg rd. near Four Corners. Members said mothers must accompany their children to and from St. Bernadette's Parochial School and Pinecrest Elementary School because of these conditions.

Mother Finds Baby Lifeless in Crib

A certificate of death by natural causes was issued yesterday for an 8-month-old Silver Spring, Md., boy found dead in his crib.

Mrs. Margaret E. Hodge, 9228 Woodland rd., told police she had put her son, Frank, to bed at 8:15 p. m. Sunday. When she next saw the infant at 12:50 a. m., he was lifeless, she said. Dr. Frank J. Broschart, Montgomery County coroner, said the baby died of asphyxia due to vomitus in its windpipe. The father, Frank E. Hodge was in Seattle, Wash., at the time.

Peiping Papers Snub Election

London, Sept. 23 (AP).—day's election of a city council was the first of its kind in the more than 3000 years of Peiping's history, but newspapers here failed to print a word about it.

It was their way of protesting Mayor Ho Sze-Yuan's failure to punish Moslems who last week wrecked the plant of the newspaper Hsin Pao, which had carried an article the Moslems considered derogatory to their religion.

Yessir, It Could Happen Only to a Cab Driver

Yellogram, the house organ of the Yellow Cab Co., recently asked for stories that would fit the heading "It Could Happen Only to a Cab Driver." Here's one of the first yarns in:

Claud Smallwood, who drives radio cab No. 260, got a call for the 600 block of Nicholson st. nw. He was about to ring the doorbell when he was stopped cold by the scene inside.

Through the screen door he could see a woman lying on the floor. The telephone was off the hook, dangling by its cord.

Fortunately, everything turned out fine. No murder, no violence.

The woman explained that she was subject to such attacks, and after a brief rest she took her cab ride as originally planned.

Could it happen to anybody but a cab driver?

COMMENTARY

A postcard from Mr. and Mrs. H. Ferris of 5700 Reed st., Hyattsville, Md., speaks for itself:

"This stuff about doing without meat two days a week is a killer. If somebody will be kind enough to tell us how we can serve meat on five days of the week, we'll be glad to do without on the other two. You see, we're 'government vegetarians.'"

AT LAST!

Mrs. J. L. Stern of Alexandria, Va., injects a brand new note in our series about intelligant cats. She says:

"We have a stupid cat. He can't do anything but eat and sleep."

"HOMELY" POP?

SUGGESTION

M. B. of 1600 Q st. nw. says that while she was at Orkney Springs (Va.) last weekend, an idea came to her.

While strolling past a lily pond she saw a small frog jump from a rock into the water. And as he jumped he barked!

She says it was exactly like the bark of a small dog who has noticed a stranger approaching—and that led to the birth of the idea.

Here is the tiniest watch-animal one could keep in a small apartment. (He could live in the bathtub, which is idle most of the time, anyhow.)

MONETARY PUN

Mary Corbett of 3208 28th st. se. says we gave District Liner Rayford the right dope when we said there is no Dumbarton Avenue Bridge.

What is now the Que Street Bridge was once known as the Dumbarton Bridge (without the "Avenue"). There's no connection between it and Dumbarton Oaks, or Dumbarton ave., in Georgetown. Mary adds:

"However, my family calls it the Twenty-cent bridge—because it's guarded by a buffalo on each corner."

LIZZY STONE POEM

They buried the pigs in the clover
The surplus to cut into halves
And now they are trying all over
To bury those beautiful calves
W. C. FAHEY.

EXPLANATION

We often give "plugs" to local organizations which are holding special affairs.

But we can't plug bingo parties, raffles, lotteries, and similar fund-raising devices—no matter how worthy the purpose.

Uncle Sam says no, so will publicity chairmen please bear this in mind when sending in their items? Thanks.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Three cute (there's that word again) and playful kittens, about 2 months old." (WIsconsin 3385).

PET PEEVE

Herb Auble of the Gordon Hotel writes that his pet peeve is the motorman who starts his streetcar as if it were jet-propelled, and stops it on a dime. Says Herb:

"I could do without those jerks."

CORRESPONDENCE DEPT.

"Out West, where I hail from, when I ask for a sandwich on dark toast I get whole wheat bread.

"But the other day in Baltimore I got a monstrosity on white bread—which had been toasted until it was burned black.

"What does a guy have to ask for to get whole wheat toast around here?"

Bruce Edmonds, 171 Danbury st. sw.

No 'Jim Crow' on Freedom Train

New York.—The Freedom Train, which is starting its tour of the country, will have no Jim Crow sections. The visitors will not be segregated. If, in any city scheduled to be visited, the citizens rule that whites and Negroes will not be permitted in the same car at the same time, then the Freedom train will not stop there but go on to the next city . . . This week the train will go to New York. Yesterday it was discovered that its red-white-and-blue Diesel engine is seven-eighths of an inch too tall for the tunnel under the river to New York. The train therefore will have to cross by barge or go first to Poughkeepsie.

SOCIAL NOTE: At the Overseas Press Club this week there was a discussion on Argentina. Edward Fenton, striking a public relations blow for the Argentine government, denounced foul-mouthed American newspapermen who sink so low as to attack a woman—Eva Peron.

FASHION NOTE: Dr. Samuel Inman, former State Department adviser, told of a trip to Argentina with a group of AFL delegates, who were to visit Peron. While they waited, and fanned themselves because of the heat, they were told that it would not be considered a violation of protocol if they were to remove their jackets. The delegates then removed their jackets and displayed their short-sleeved shirts. This brought on cheers from the observing crowds, who look upon the short-sleeved shirt as a Peron symbol . . . The delegates learned the reason for the cheers, put their jackets on again—then fanned themselves, and waited.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT: Goodman Ace, now CBS comedy consultant, started as a drama critic in Kansas City, where vaudeville actors remembered him for his inevitable panning of their routines . . . One day Bert Lahr, after completing a tour of the circuit, returned to New York and went to the Lambs Club bar, where Joe Frisco was holding court. Lahr described his tour, and Frisco asked: "How'd you do with Goodman Ace in Kansas City?" "All right, I guess," was Lahr's startling report, "because I was held over for two weeks." It was Lahr's turn to buy a round of drinks. He asked each one: "What'll you have?" and they named the drink. "And what'll you have, Joe?" he asked Frisco, who, still stunned, said: "I'll have a look at your act."

BOOK DEPARTMENT: Simon & Schuster will publish the autobiography of Robert R. Young, the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad man who hopes to get control of the New York Central. The publishers and the author finally have selected the title for the book, "I've Been Working on the Railroad."

FINANCE DEPARTMENT: When Cecil Brown flew to England and landed at Croydon Airdrome, some youngsters rushed up and asked: "May we have your autograph, Mr. Rank?" There is a resemblance between both men. "I'm not Mr. Rank," said Brown. "I know Mr. Rank. And between us we are reputed to have one billion and——" Brown counted the currency in his pocket—"and $42."

AND SHOPPING IN THE HECHT CO.'S GREAT NEW STORE FOR MEN SAVES ME PLENTY OF TIME!

That's why The Hecht Co.'s set-up is perfect for me and every man I know. You come around to the E Street entrance, walk right into a complete store for men! Hats, shirts, sportswear, pajamas . . . everything arranged for fast shopping . . . and without an extra step, you take the elevator to the floor above, find yourself right in the clothing and shoe departments.

Street Floor

- Men's Furnishings
- Men's Jewelry Shop
- Men's Smoke Shop
- Men's Robes
- Men's Hats
- Men's Sportswear

Second Floor

- Men's Clothing
- Men's Shoes
- Men's Casual Clothing

That's my idea of convenience—concentrated convenience!

No time lost finding the men's shops. No embarrassing moments in the lingerie department. You're in, you get what you want . . . you're a man shopping for men's wear and no mistake about it! And you make no mistakes in buying, either, because in every one of the men's shops you see dozens of labels you've known and trusted for years.

Get the point? The Hecht Co. has a new way to shop for men's wear . . . a time-saving set-up tailored to order for men . . . especially if you're a busy man like me!
